We Shall Grow Again.
We're Healthy, Says Mr. Ecker.
Very Big Pinwheel.
Horrified Is Correct.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

YOUR COUNTRY grows rapidly. George M. Reynolds announces his retirement as head of the Continental Illinois National Bank because, at 68, he wants "the remaining years of my life to be free from business," and reminds you how rapidly things grow in this country.

"When I came to Chicago in December, 1897 (only 35 years ago), the population was 1,600,000. It is now about 3,600,000. When I came to Chicago its bank deposits were $380,000,000. They are now more than three thousand millions."

He who thinks this little depression can stop such growth as that for all time doesn't know his own country.

YOU HAVE heard it said:

"Everything is all right as long as I have my health."

Uncle Sam can say that, despite the depression, for he has his health.

Mr. Frederick Ecker, head of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, finds that 1932 has been the healthiest year in our history.

Deaths among Metropolitan policyholders, among whom a large number have borne the brunt of unemployment, were fewer than in any other year.

That is partly due to the fact that people have lived more soberly, eating moderately, using less alcohol, and due also to Mr. Ecker's wise policy of advertising widely sound information on how to keep well, and live longer.

THE GREATEST advertisement is the rainbow, full page wide, with colors put in the heavens to advertise an end of floods. That magnificent advertisement turns out to be a small thing compared with fireworks that exist in space.

PROF. DUGAN, of Princeton, describes a "cosmic pinwheel" made up of two balls of fire, as big as twenty-four of our suns, whirling in space at the rate of a million miles an hour. And it whirls in a space less than twenty million miles wide. Just like the pinwheel you used to fasten to an apple tree.

It is hard to imagine a pinwheel twenty-four times as big as our sun, because our sun is ONE MILLION TIMES AS BIG AS THIS EARTH and our little brains cannot even imagine the size of the earth.

THE DEMOCRATIC party may reach March 4 with everybody horrified. Those that know how rapidly a national deficit of a hundred million dollars a month can accumulate will be horrified at the statement that the new President is horrified at the thought of the sales tax.

EXPERIENCED brewers, who know something about beer and taxes on beer, are horrified at the suggestion that legal beer will produce in taxes five hundred millions a year, with no way of distributing beer on a big scale.

THE WORLD talks of extraordinary achievements by French cannon of moderate size during the big war. It talks of changes made in history by the introduction of powder and bullets. It may in future years talk with more enthusiasm about destruction of deadly germs by radio waves.

Ann Arbor, Mich., scientists show that high frequency currents, like those used by short-wave radio amateurs, have a deadly effect on germs of the typhoid group.

The germs multiplied more slowly after the first attack of the current, then the increase stopped, and the germs that would soon have increased to countless millions died, and that was the end of them.

SOME DAY you may see scientists bombarding the holy Ganges River with high frequency current, to keep Asiatic diseases from spreading westward, and you may see New York, which floods its rivers on both sides with sewage, counteracting the evil by shocking the germs to death.

Long ago we learned how to slay the mammoth, wolf and bear. We are just learning to conquer our more deadly invisible enemies.

YESTERDAY IN Dublin's Mount Joy prison Patrick McDermott, farmer of Roscommon, was hanged for murdering his brother, John.

A crowd outside the prison protested violently, not against the hanging, but against the fact that the hangman was an Englishman, named Pierpont.

Fiery speeches were made outside the prison, and a banner displayed with the words:

"British hangman destroys Irishman; is this justice?"

The protest was made in spite of the fact that the Free State has no hangman.

That is what you might call "race prejudice."

FRANCE SOON will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Leon Gambetta, French statesman who declared a French republic when the Germans were besieging Paris, and escaped from the city in an old-fashioned balloon, at the mercy of the wind.

The basket in which Gambetta sat as the balloon lifted him up will be exhibited.

GAMBETTA WAS, to a large extent, the father of the anti-religious feeling in France, which has spread to other Latin countries. The French adopted Gambetta's brief, often repeated

CLARA DOROTHEA JENKINS

SOCIETY GIRL IN NEW TROTH

Clara Dorothea Jenkins, who moves about with society's younger set, has not only broken her engagement to a Boston surgeon but today her parents announced a new betrothal.

Edwin M. Rhea, son of Mrs. Andrew L. Ralston, of Westminster place, has succeeded Dr. Richard Hollis Overholt in Miss Jenkins' affections. They plan to be married in June.

Miss Jenkins, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Clifton Jenkins, of Morewood avenue, would have been Mrs. Overholt in November if the original romance had not ended. This engagement was announced last April at a small party at the Longue Vue Country Club.

Young Rhea, a Princeton graduate, was a Rhodes scholar at Oxford. At Princeton he was president of the Terrace Club and a member of the Triangle Club.

COYNE SHUNS ELECTION REFORM

Harris Plan Buried As Assemblymen Hold Caucus

By MARK SHIELDS

By a vote of 12 to 8 the Allegheny County Republican legislative delegation last night in caucus went on record as refusing even to consider a resolution indorsing "revision of the election laws to prevent fraud," and asking state Republican leaders to announce "active support for the adoption of some such program in the Legislature."

The resolution was presented by Senator Frank J. Harris, who with Senator William D. Mansfield and Representative Edward M. Hough, led the fight for its adoption, while Senator James J. Coyne, taking affront at the preamble to the resolution, headed the successful effort to bury it.

HARRIS, COYNE CLASH

The vote followed a bitter interchange between Harris and Coyne, in which the latter resented the assertion of Harris that "in the most recent election the peak of disregard of decency by the election criminals has been reached in foisting their crimes upon innocent members of honest election boards."

Lined up with Coyne were Senator Joseph G. Armstrong and Representatives Joseph R. Lynch, John D. Scorza, George Metzler, Patrick J. Maloney, Charles T. Dwyer, Leonard P. Kane, William J. McBride, John M. O'Rourke, Joseph G. Steedle and William L. Brown.

Standing with Harris for a pledge of support to election reform laws were: Senator William D. Mansfield and Representatives Thomas J. Gallagher, Edward M. Hough, James K. Ruby, Frank E. Hoffman, Frank E. Reed and William A. Walker.

Senator Morris Einstein, chairman of the delegation, and Representative Max Spann, secretary, did not vote, and Senator Herman Brandt and Representative James H. McClure were absent.

SCORZA BRINGS TEST

The test vote came on a motion of Scorza to table the resolution after it had been debated by Coyne, Harris, Mansfield and Hough.

The amazing battle over the election resolution, together with a second skirmish over the delinquent tax office, which Mansfield declared he would try to have abolished and which Coyne defended, enlivened what started out as a peaceful political gathering. The atmosphere quickly became surcharged with bitterness.

After the unanimous adoption of a few perfunctory resolutions, including one to retain a House rule preventing discharge of a committee from consideration of a bill except by a vote of 105 members, Harris started the fireworks.

He recalled incidents following the last election, when the return board, its suspicions of fraud aroused, refused to take the ballot

Farmer Left 'Half Alive' by Bullet in Brain

ASHLAND, O., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Though a bullet has been lodged in his brain for 20 days, Irvin Weygandt, 79-year-old farmer, continued today to cling precariously to life. Stranger still, he may partly recover, said Dr. M. J. Thomas.

Lying on his bed in his home, Weygandt presented the paradox of figuratively being half alive, half dead.

So far as his actual personality is concerned, Weygandt is dead. In its place, relives the Weygandt of 50 years ago, when as a strapping 225-pound husky, he happily plowed the fields of his farm.

Though still retaining tremendous vitality, the aged farmer doesn't know he tried to commit suicide by shooting himself with a small caliber rifle. He doesn't know how seriously he is hurt.

Most of the time he thinks he still is driving imaginary horses, or planning to do some service for his neighbors of a half-century ago.

His happiest moments since he was placed in bed were when friends tied lines to the footboard, and let him hold them, like reins to his plow team. Holding them firmly in his grip, Weygandt clucked "gid-dup" and "drove" his team until he fell asleep.

Dr. Thomas believes the bullet is lodged in the frontal lobe of Weygandt's brain, thus accounting for the fact that other nerve centers still are functioning.

WIFE ACCUSES W. C. T. U. HEAD

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—As a consequence of a courtroom clash during which she was accused of trying to steal the affections of a fellow prohibition worker, Mrs. Robert H. Brucer today said she would resign her presidency of the W. C. T. U. Cook County chapter.

This announcement was made shortly after Mrs. Brucer confronted her accuser, Mrs. Arthur J. Lynch, in Municipal Judge Joseph Graber's Woman's Court Chambers. The Judge withheld service of a warrant, charging disorderly conduct, when Mrs. Brucer signed a $500 peace bond, pledging herself to have nothing more to do with Lynch, a publicity man.

Telling of the spirited clash between the two women, Judge Graber revealed that Mrs. Lynch had accused Mrs. Brucer of "getting drunk with my husband in a cabaret." Mrs. Brucer said she and Lynch co-operated in carrying on research work on the subject of liquor.

JURY INDICTS JUDD CASE 'PLAYBOY'

Halloran Posts Bond In Trunk Murders; May Save Ruth

International News Service.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 30.—Jack Halloran, prominent Phoenix businessman, walked into Judge Howard Speakman's court today and was served with a warrant charging guilty knowledge of the murders of Agnes Anne Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson, for which Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd is sentenced to hang February 17.

He was cited to appear before Superior Court January 3 and bond of $5,000 was posted.

The surrender of Halloran came as a sensational climax to the new investigation of the "double trunk murders" by the Maricopa County grand jury, in which Mrs. Judd was taken from her cell in Florence on Wednesday and brought here to tell what she claimed was the "true story" of the murders.

Halloran refused to comment on the indictment. He appeared calm and self-controlled.

The unexpected turn of events probably will mean a postponement, at least, of Mrs. Judd's execution.

Meanwhile, her attorneys renewed the legal battle to save her from the noose and win a new trial.

The only recourse in this direction would be an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, the Arizona Supreme Court having closed all state channels with its refusal of the petition for a rehearing on a new trial.

Defense attorneys confidently expected that a rearing of the

BURGOYNE MAY BE TRIED ALONE

Arthur G. Burgoyne, under indictment for embezzlement, fraudulent conversion and misdemeanor growing out of his conduct in the City Treasurer's office under Roy D. Schooley, also under indictment for embezzlement, faces an early trial, after a lapse of almost a year since his indictment.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park said today he would consider the possibility of granting Burgoyne a separate trial from Schooley, confined to his home in Maripoe street with anemia and other ailments.

Schooley is under $10,000 bond; Burgoyne, $5,000. Charged with conspiracy to defraud is LaSalle Girts, real estate broker of Oakland, accused of arranging to deposit n. s. f. checks for taxes which the Treasurer's office agreed to refrain from depositing.

Long delay has also faced the State Banking Department in trial of cases growing out of the closing of the Franklin bank, which precipitated the investigation of the Schooley office.

Hotel Guest Cleared Of Blame for Fire

Chief Coroner's Clerk James L. Davidson yesterday ordered the release of Frank Reed, 25, of Fairmont, W. Va., held by the city detective bomb and arson squad following a fire which caused the death of John H. Benton, 75, Wednesday in the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

Benton's body was claimed by his nephew, Charles V. Benton, of New York. Reed denied detectives' allegations that the fire started in his room.

Despondent Girl, 13, Leaps 100 Feet, Lives

HELEN STIVER . . . . RECOVERING IN BRADDOCK GENERAL

Miss Helen, 13-year-old pupil who leaped, police report, from high Tassey Hollow Bridge, North Braddock, wasn't killed. She didn't want to leave her mother. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Separation From Mother Leads To Action

Thirteen-year-old Helen Stiver stood on the Tassey Hollow Bridge in North Braddock, pondering the fate decreed for her.

Helen's parents were divorced. Helen lived with her father. But she missed her mother.

She had been happy over the Christmas holidays, spent with her mother and brother. Now she was to return to her father.

CLIMBS RAILING

Helen's thoughts took a strange turn. Deliberately she put one foot on the iron railing of the bridge, then pulled herself up to the top.

Over the railing she plunged. Down she hurtled 100 feet, landing, fortunately, in soft mud.

Today she lay in Braddock General Hospital, a leg broken, and injured internally. Bruises

DISBAR LIPPARD, PLEA TO COURT

The Allegheny County Bar Association today moved to disbar Attorney N. J. Lippard. One of the accusations is that Edward Martin, alleged "runner" who brought cases to Lippard, encouraged a woman to fake an accident.

Twenty-two cases are cited in which "runners" are alleged to have brought cases to Lippard for contingent fees. Among these "runners," the petition states, were George Brady, James Brady, D. K. McKnight, Dave Buck and R. W. Miller.

The petition charges that Lippard caused one Edward Debold to sign a blank statement of claim which was later filled in but not shown to Debold; that Lippard solicited prisoners in the county jail for their legal business; that Lippard continued to have dealings with Edward Martin after Mrs. Sylvia Lingenhoel told him Martin wanted her to fall into a street hole in Pennsylvania avenue, assuring her an attorney and a physician.

Judge Thomas M. Marshall ordered Lippard to show cause why he should not be removed from the bar.

HEEDS PLEA MADE BY MOTHER

President-Elect Will Write Letter to Gov. Rolph

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—President-elect Roosevelt today promised Mrs. Mary Mooney, mother of the imprisoned Tom Mooney, that he would write a letter in behalf of Mooney to Gov. Rolph, of California.

Mr. Roosevelt told Mrs. Mooney he would write to Rolph after he retires as Governor. He added that he could not say what he would write into the letter.

RETURNS TO MANSION

The 84-year-old mother of the man serving a life sentence for the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco in 1916, failed to see Mr. Roosevelt yesterday, as she reached Albany after the Governor had left the Capitol. Roosevelt invited her to visit him at the executive mansion today.

Entering the Governor's study, off the reception hall, Mrs. Mooney crossed to the desk, behind which sat Mr. Roosevelt. After shaking hands with the President-elect, she said:

"I wish you would do your utmost to help my boy who has been in prison, although he is innocent, for years. My boy is a good boy."

ROOSEVELT ANSWER

Roosevelt answered:

"I feel sure because so many people believe he is innocent there must be some reason for believing in his innocence."

Louis B. Scott, of the "Tom Mooney Molders' Defense League," who accompanied Mrs. Mooney to the mansion, said "Mr. Roosevelt was very kind and considerate of 'Mother' Mooney." Scott, however, believed that Mr. Roosevelt could have taken a hand in the Mooney case. He said that he reminded Mr. Roosevelt that two governors had written to California executives in behalf of Mooney.

It is understood that Mr. Roosevelt has asked Felix Frankfurter, Harvard University law professor, for a memorandum on the Mooney case. Frankfurter wrote a memorandum on the case to go with the Wickersham report of the Mooney proceedings.

Twenty-seven pints of bonded whisky stored in a cellar of the Homeopathic Hospital, used for medical purposes, were stolen by a sneak thief early today, it was reported to police.

Merchandise valued at more than $200 was reported stolen from box cars of the Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads at the Point Bridge yard. Part of the loot comprised 6,200 pounds of cane sugar.

'Buy American' Necessity Stressed By Flood of Foreign Products Here

Steel, Coal, Pottery From Abroad Hurts City

Business men and others today swung their strength to the "Buy American" movement, through which Hearst newspapers are urging the people of the United States to purchase American-made goods.

The need for such a movement in the present economic emergency was stressed when it was learned that in the first nine months of this year United States imports totaled $1,015,748,699—and many millions of trade dollars included represented steel, glass, pottery, iron and coal, the life stream of Pittsburgh industry.

Through the Pittsburgh custom house alone more than $2,000,000 worth of foreign-made goods moved the first nine months of this year. And these, it was pointed out, are only the goods bought by direct order—a bare fraction of the imports that come to Pittsburgh; the rest comes from New York, Boston, Baltimore and other ports.

Last year, with the imports twice as much, the total value of Pittsburgh imports was $6,652,-415. Due to the present depreciated currency abroad, this year's amount of goods is proportionately more than it seems.

Patriotic Campaign Gains in Power Through U. S.

Edward Flaccus, president of the William Flaccus Oak Leather Company, North Side, commenting today on the "Buy American" drive, said:

Paroled 'Fixer' in Kline Case Draws City Pay

Howard F. Gross, stationary engineer at Frankstown Avenue Police Station, convicted of "jury fixing" in Butler County Court in connection with the trial of Mayor Charles H. Kline and Bertram L. Succop, and sentenced to one year in jail, has been working for the city during two parole periods which he received on the plea of the illness of his wife.

Gross was sentenced by Judge Thomas W. Watson on the embracery charge. According to District Attorney E. H. Negley, of Butler County, paroles which Gross received expire tomorrow and he must return to serve the remainder of his sentence.

Gross was identified at the Butler trial by members of the Kline jury panel as a man who approached them and spoke with praise of Mayor Kline.

Gross' name has never been off the city payroll list, although he received no pay during the months of July, August, September and October.

On September 2, Gross received a 60-day parole, which was later extended. In November, he drew virtually a full pay from the city and has been working since that time.

SON GETS LIFE TERM FOR AMBUSH KILLING OF ISLEY TATE

BROTHER SENT TO REFORM SCHOOL

Third Mountain Boy, Paroled, Returns To Mother

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Dec. 30.—For the ambush killing of their father, Isley S. Tate, on a lonely mountain trail near Haydentown September 14, George Tate, 19, will spend the remainder of his life in the Western Penitentiary, and Samuel Tate, 15, goes to the Huntingdon Reform School.

John Tate, 21, who shared the $200 taken from the dead man's pocket, and who entered a plea to receiving stolen goods, was fined $500 and paroled. He went home with his heartbroken mother, who had expected George would get only a term in jail where "I can be near him." John was given four months to pay the costs and three years to settle the fine.

In imposing the sentences Judge S. John Morrow delivered a lengthy opinion in which he reviewed the case generally.

Commenting on George Tate's own statement, Judge Morrow said:

"As we view the evidence it admits of no other conclusion than that George Tate is guilty of wilful, deliberate and premeditated killing of his father by lying in wait and shooting him. No other determination can be reached under the law as applied to the admitted facts in the case than that the defendant is guilty of murder in the first degree."

The court held that robbery was not the motive in the killing. If it were, Sam Tate would have been equally guilty and subject to the same penalty. The court said:

"George was the black sheep of the family, while Sam was a 'favorite son.'"

The court conceded that Sam had guilty knowledge of George's intentions, but held:

"Viewing the statements and other testimony as a whole, we would rather believe that the boy could not bear to see his old father shot down. The mother testified that the father liked Sam best of all the children and George the least."

PHILIPPINE BILL VETO SEEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The question of granting independence to the Philippine Islands after a 10-year transitional period was put squarely up to President Hoover today, with many predicting his disapproval.

By 171 to 16, the House late yesterday passed the compromise bill and sent it to the White House to await action by the Chief Executive when he returns from a Southern fishing trip.

Some Republican leaders and others who have followed the course of Philippine independence, were inclined to believe that Mr. Hoover would not sign the measure. Among his advisers, Secretary Hurley has been most outspoken in opposition to freedom at this time.

Illinois Bank, Headed By Governor, Closes

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The Ridgely Farmers State Bank, depository of state funds and of which Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is chairman of the board of directors, was closed today "for examination and adjustment."

F. A. Adams, chief state bank examiner, started on the bank's books this morning. Other information than this was refused by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who closed the bank at the request of directors.

Italy's King Joins Economy Sufferers

ROME, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—King Victor Emanuel will effect drastic economies in his 1933 budget to avoid an increase in his allowance which would otherwise be necessitated by stock market losses, it was reliably learned today.

Informed of the King's financial plight, Premier Mussolini offered to increase the annual royal allowance, but the offer was refused.

GIRL, 13, LEAPS OFF BRIDGE

made conversation difficult, but she managed to murmur:

"I guess I jumped off the bridge because I wanted to be with my mamma. I would rather live with her than daddy. I don't know how far I fell. I don't remember anything until they were picking me up."

Helen's father, Andrew Stiver, of North Third street, Duquesne, who has remarried, hurried to the hospital, amazed. He said:

"I don't know why Helen would do a thing like that. She has always been contented with me and my wife and has made frequent trips to her mother's home. There have never been any hard feelings or disputes."

DOUBTS LEAP

Stiver said he doubted that Helen had jumped and suggested she had fallen while walking under the bridge.

An hour before she was found, Helen had left the home of her mother, Mrs. Esther Stiver, at 2437 Waverly street, Swissvale, in good spirits. Her mother had given her a letter to mail. The letter mailed, Helen walked a mile to the bridge.

Helen, who attends Duquesne Junior High School, has been living with her father, while her brother, Andrew, 15, lived with the mother—an agreement the parents made when they were divorced.

Helen's condition is painful, but physicians believe she will recover.

When her frantic mother reached her bedside, the child explained her actions:

"Because I wanted to be with you."

M'BRIDE, 'FIXER' GETS 4 MONTHS

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 30.—W. D. McBride, confessed jury fixer in the Kline-Succop malfeasance case, today was sentenced to four months in jail by Judge Thomas W. Watson.

FOREIGN COAL TAX PROBE LOOMS

Mitchell Refuses to Lift Tariff on Fuel Imports

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Attorney General Mitchell ruled today that the import tax on coal from Germany and Great Britain should be allowed to stand "so a judicial inquiry may be had on that basis."

The question was referred to the Attorney General by President oHover after the Treasury had lifted the $2 a ton tax on foreign coal so far as it applied to imports from Germany and Great Britain.

HELD TREATY VIOLATION

The question was raised that the tax violated favored nation clauses in treaties with those countries.

After the tax had been lifted the Customs Bureau ordered these coal imports admitted holding the question of payment of the tax in abeyance pending the decision of the Attorney General.

REVIEWS RULING

Mitchell said he did not deem it proper for an Attorney General to rule on questions that were likely to come before the courts, but he reviewed the action of the Customs Bureau dated July 26 in which coal products from Great Britain, Netherlands, Belgium and Germany were pronounced subject to tax of 10 cents per 100 pounds.

He also reviewed the ruling of the Treasury of November 14 which lifted the order as far as it applied to Great Britain and Germany and said in effect that the latter order was illegal.

WOMAN HANGED AS SON KILLER

PRETORIA, Union of South Africa, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Daisy de Melker was executed this morning for the murder of her son, Cecil Rhodes Cowle, by poisoning, for which she was sentenced to death November 25.

On charges of poisoning two former husbands, she had been found not guilty.

Mrs. De Melker, a frail, diminutive woman, was unshaken by the final ordeal and met death bravely, maintaining her innocence to the end.

Since being sentenced, she has been ministered to by the Bishop of Pretoria and took the secrament just before executioners entered her cell at 7 a. m.

Her husband, Sidney Clarence de Melker, a noted rugby player, and her stepdaughter paid a final visit yesterday. Secrecy maintained regarding the execution date resulted in the avoidance of the gathering of morbid crowds.

Suicide Doctor Linked In Judd Trunk Murders

FLORENCE, Ariz., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The man who might save Winnie Ruth Judd from the gallows is dead, her husband, Dr. William C. Judd asserted today.

He was a physician who, Mrs. Judd told her husband during a visit to the Arizona Penitentiary here, either cut up the bodies of her two girl friends himself or was present when this occurred.

The trail of blood and violence that has marked the Judd case also wound its path of terror to the physician's home. Two months after Mrs. Judd killed her companions last January, the doctor was found dead, according to Dr. Judd, an apparent suicide. Dr. Judd refused to name the man.

ROOSEVELT AX TO HIT MANY

By EDWARD L. RODDAN
Universal Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 30.—President-elect Roosevelt is prepared to take full responsibility for a drastic reorganization of the federal government after March 4, it is learned.

The incoming President, his friends say, is perfectly willing to be a "whipping boy" for Congress if that body will give him blanket authority to consolidate and co-ordinate bureaus and eliminate useless governmental functions.

Consolidation programs have failed in the past because the pressure from interested parties, opposed to economy, has been too great for individual legislators to withstand.

Friends of the Governor made it plain that he has no desire to assume "dictatorial powers." It was pointed out that whatever changes he inaugurates by executive order, Congress will have the power to override.

KLINE'S ACTION AWAITED ON BUDGET

Mayor Meets Cabinet As 900 Jobholders Face Ax

An ominous lull—that precedes the elimination of approximately 900 city jobs under the new 1932 city budget—descended on City Hall today as City Council and payrollers waited for Mayor Charles H. Kline to sign the new salary and appropriation setup of $21,140,355, unanimously passed by Council yesterday. The budget was placed in the Mayor's hands this morning and it is generally believed he will sign it before the day is over.

Only Saturday will remain for the necessary adjustments in payrolls and notification of dismissed employes to made under the new budget, in the event the Mayor does sign today.

JOBS NOT DISCUSSED

The cloud of uncertainty was not brightened for the city job holders when the Mayor called his monthly cabinet meeting shortly before noon. For a time it was feared that the zero hour had struck and that the department heads were to perform the actual task of cutting out the hundreds of jobs.

But Public Works Director Edward G. Lang at the close of the cabinet session said the salary eliminations had not been discussed, adding:

"The meeting was purely administrative. We discussed the administration of municipal works under the new budget."

Lang then explained all those holding positions eliminated in the new budget had been notified. A total of 14 salary positions and 202 part-time jobs, it was learned, from a reliable source, have been stricken off the rolls of the Bureau of Highways and Sewers, in Lang's department.

WARD LEADER OUT

These include the position of chief supervisor, held by Charles A. Hillegas, former chairman of the Thirteenth Ward.

In the Department of Supplies, presided over by Col. W. R. Dunlap, Miss Marion Ganley, a stenographer, is scheduled to go, according to her own statement. Miss Ganley, who holds her job under civil service, was fired by Dunlap about a year ago, but was reinstated after she appealed to the courts.

The number of employes to leave the city service has been somewhat reduced in the Department of Public Works by an agreement among the employes whereby a number of them share such jobs as remain. This applies to more than a score of draftsmen and engineers.

Council passed the salary and appropriation bills, but not without further reference to charges of alterations made outside the Council Chamber.

POLICE AND FIRE VETS FACE AX

Bad news was being distributed today and tomorrow to Pittsburgh's older police and firemen. The police and firemen eligible for pension were being notified to report to Public Safety Director James M. Clark's office to sign the retirement papers.

Fire Chief Richard L. Smith notified all day-turn firemen to report at their engine houses at 8 p. m. tomorrow, when the lis of those to be dismissed will b announced. Also there will b many transfers.

These reductions in personn are part of the plans by whi Council hopes to balance the 19 budget.

Al Smith, 59 Today, Studies Technocracy

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—"Al" Smith, 59 years old today, breezed into his office wearing a brown derby and contentedly smoking a cigar. His step was light and elastic. He looked fine. Asked how it feels to be 59, he retorted:

"No different than 58."

The former Governor laughed when the newspaper boys flung that one at him about what, in his opinion, are the best 10 years of a man's life. He said it "all depends on the man" and added:

"Why, I only commenced working when I was 50."

And at 59 Al revealed that he's got himself interested in this new fangled technocracy business. In fact, he's written an article about it which will appear in the January issue of his magazine.

But Al didn't want to go into technocracy—not, at any rate, on his birthday. He did touch on it lightly, but when one of the reporters launched into a rather lengthy explanation of one phase of technocracy, Al grinned and said:

"Well, young man, that's too deep for me."

He advised the reporters to "read my article."

He did say, however, that he believed the depression is "temporary" and that he "hopes" 1933 will be marked by an improvement in business.

Politics he would not discuss. He was mum on beer, charter revision for New York City, the incoming national administration and such. He was asked:

"If you were again 21, would you go into politics?"

After a pause he said, quite emphatically:

"I think I would."

It's a 7-Pound Brunette At the Pat O'Malleys

Politics took a back seat today for Pat O'Malley, Republican chairman of the Second Ward, because Pat is the father of a seven-pound girl.

The baby was born last night to his wife, the former Mildred Henry, of 350 Melwood avenue, in Mercy Hospital.

Pat, a past master in giving newspaper interviews on politics, was stumped today. Asked how it feels to be a father, he thought a long while and then the best he could offer was:

"Ah, shucks, I haven't got anything to say. You say it for me.

"What color hair does she have? Why, I guess it's a brunette—yes, it is a brunette. We haven't decided on a name yet."

Pat and Miss Henry were married in January, 1931, at Old St. Patrick's Church before the political powers of city and state while 500 O'Malley admirers stood outside the church. Mounted and foot police had to be on hand to keep the crowd in check.

The O'Malleys are living at 1300 Penn avenue.

'FOSSIL MAN' DISCOVERIES BARED

Caves Yield Remnants Of Ancient Races

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—If the Garden of Eden was where popular belief places it, an archeological report to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today shows it probably existed more than a million years ago.

It had a mild climate, some of the animals most likely were rhinos, hippos, deer, oxen and horses, also rodents.

This archeological report covers not the Garden of Eden, but events likely to have occurred long afterward, concerning the manner of men who lived in Palestine from 20,000 years ago back to a misty, uncertain past that some scientists would estimate at 250,000 years.

ARCHAEOLOGICAL EVENT

The report was the principal archeological event of this year's science meeting, entitled "Latest Old World Discoveries of Fossil Man," by Dr. George Grant MacCurdy, of Yale University. He detailed studies of the American School of Prehistoric Research, in several caves whose floors were built up, layer on layer, by successive races of men.

Each occupied the caves for periods of 1,000 or more years up to far longer terms, with still other great stretches of time sometimes separating the occupancies.

REMNANTS OF TOOLS

Each left on the floor remnants of his tools, a little evidence of the animals he knew and occasionally some of the bones of his own kind. These were covered over during the vacancy periods by drifting sands, so that the succeeding race packed down a permanent record which the archeologists are now digging up.

In the cave of Mugharet el Wad were found the tools of Mousterian men, implements of flint and chert, bone and horn. There were so many that the place appeared to have been a tool factory for the Mousterians.

Many thousands of years later, in this same cave, shortly before the bronze age of almost modern man, there were sculptors. The head of a young deer was found carved in bone on the shaft of a sickle. A small human head was carved of banded calcite.

Titans of Science Clash Over Evidence of Creator

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Can a Creator be read back into the universe on the basis of certain physical facts observed in recent years?

This was the important question before the American Association for the Advancement of Science today as this country's two scientific titans Dr. Robert A. Millikan and Dr. Arthur H. Compton, both Nobel prize winners in physics, struggled with each other in a symposium on the cosmic rays.

Dr. Millikan won the Nobel prize in 1923. He is the son of a clergyman, a believer in God and a great reconciler of religion and science.

Dr. Compton won the Nobel prize in 1927. He also is the son of a clergyman, but he does not see the Creator in the cosmic rays.

They are the only two living American winners of the Nobel prize in physics, and Dr. Compton, of the University of Chicago, is a former pupil and protege of Dr. Millikan, now at the California Institute of Technology.

CLASH FROM ROSTRUM

In an improvised arena they clashed from a rostrum today on the nature of the cosmic rays, which first were discovered 21 years ago.

Europeans who studied this high-voltage radiation, which crashed down on earth through the atmosphere, still call it "ultra-penetrating" radiation.

But Dr. Millikan, after a period of study, a few years ago christened the radiation "cosmic rays." They proved "the Creator still is on the job," he said as he produced evidence which tended to show the rays were the "birth cries of the universe," resulting from the building atoms in interstellar space.

Today Dr. Compton produced the results of recent experiments and research, conducted by himself and a staff last spring and summer all over the surface of the earth, which tend to show the rays originate in the upper layers of the earth's atmosphere and thus have no "cosmic" origin at all.

NEW HAY FEVER CURE BY 'RUST'

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Discovery of a "rust" or oxidation treatment for hay fever was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists today by George E. Rockwell, of the University of Cincinnati.

This "rusting" process is applied to the rag weed polen now used in hypodermics to treat hay fever sufferers whose sniffles arise from that specific irritant. The pollen is "rusted" by use of hydrogen peroxide.

When the common cold becomes virulent in autumn, there is an unexplained and simultaneous increase in virulence of certain germs in human throats, in the water and milk supplies, and in flies. This was reported by R. C. Rosenow, of the Mayo Foundation, Rochester, Minn.

These germs are streptococci, bacteria which are not generally credited with causing colds. They are found often in the respiratory troubles accompanying common colds.

Whitla Funeral One Of Sharon's Largest

SHARON, Pa., Dec. 30.—Funeral services for Attorney William F. Whitla, central figure in the "Willie" Whitla kidnaping case of 1909, were held this afternoon from the Whitla home in East State street. It was one of the largest funerals held here in years. The Rev. W. L. Wishart, of the First Presbyterian Church, conducted the services.

The honorary pallbearers were Judge J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer; C. E. Brockway, of Sharon; J. G. Marshall, of Farrell, and Roy Neville, Leo H. McKay, E. V. Buckley, P. A. Higgs, H. M. Willson, Dr. Dan Phythyon, Hugh J. Garvey, Fred T. Fruit and L. J. Wiesen, all of Sharon. Interment was made in Oakwood Cemetery.

'Millionaire' Bus Boy Held on Girl's Charge

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Albert Baron Guggenheim, claimant to relationship with the wealthy Guggenheim family, was held for trial on four charges of issuing worthless checks after Sally Arnold, Hollywood night club cigaret girl, had testified against him yesterday. Guggenheim was found recently working as a bus boy in a night club.

Investigators reported Miss Arnold told them Guggenheim promised to build her the finest night club in the West, and that, as hostess, she would "outshine Texas Guinan."

RUTH ELDER AIR INSTRUCTOR

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Ruth Elder, aviatrix, went to work today. She is vice president of an aviation school and will instruct embryo aviators. Miss Elder, who divorced Walter Camp, Jr., in Reno last month, explained:

"No, I'm not broke—not flat broke, anyway—but all of us can use a little money."

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, was richer by $6.60 today.

As the first woman pilot employed by a commercial airline, she flew to Hartford yesterday on the initial trip as relief pilot for the New York and New England Airways. She was paid at the regular rate of three cents a mile, according to Clarence Chamberlin, vice president of the company.

Her passenger on the eastern trip was Ted Matusewic, himself a pilot. Asked how he liked the idea of putting his life in the hands of a woman, he grinned and said:

"Quite nice."

Birth of 23rd Child Brings Same Smile

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Carl Parrish, county deputy sheriff, wore a big smile as he passed around cigars—the same smile with which he had greeted friends on 22 previous occasions.

He was announcing the arrival of his twenty-third child, a daughter, yesterday. Parrish has been married twice. Ten children were born to his first wife. Nineteen of the 23 children are living.

MARRIED LIFE CHARTED FOR SCIENCE

Spinster Probes Minds Of Couples to Find Their Woes, Joys

CINCINNATI, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Sociologists had been told today of efforts to measure whether "Mr. and Mrs. John J. Public" are happy though married.

Jessie Bernard, of Washington University, told the American Sociological Society of a method she has evolved of "sampling" the complex behavior patterns which make up the attitude of man to wife, and wife to husband.

SCORE OF 65 DANGEROUS

The result is a score, somewhere between nothing and 100. Her conclusion was that, unlike golf, shooting a score of 61 to 65 is skirting marital disaster.

She's tried it, she said, on 115 men and 137 women in St. Louis, Seattle and Los Angeles. Among her friends, which she told yesterday, are:

That husbands are most satisfied when they are as old, or up to 10 years older, than their wives.

That wives like their husbands as old, or up to five years older than themselves.

That family income has nothing to do with marital happiness. Neither does education.

Miss Bernard's measurements were obtained through a form of questionnaire in which the subject was asked to check 100 qualitative traits such as "abusive," "affectionate" and "broad-minded."

'NOT HIGH ENOUGH'

From correlation of her data, the sociologist exhibited a series of graphs and charts, indicating that on a basis of nothing to 100, the lowest possible score is about 20, while one of the subjects complained the measurement didn't go high enough.

The charts, when compared with clinical data, show that 61 is the score which marks a successful marriage from the unsuccessful for women. Other studies, she said, indicate that 13 per cent of women are dissatisfied with marriage, while 18 per cent of the men, though inclined to "rate their wives higher than the wives rate them, perhaps through greater generosity," are dissatisfied.

FAMILY WEALTH $12,000 EACH

CINCINNATI, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Believe it or not, the average American family is worth $12,000. That, at least, is the estimate of M. R. Neifeld, New York statistician, presented today before the American Statistical Association here.

Neifeld said the average of America's 30,000,000 families will find current assets much more than current liabilities, despite the last three years. And he displayed a balance sheet to prove it.

Total assets of the American family at the end of 1929, he figured, were $421,679,000,000, while total liabilities were only $46,360,000,000. He said:

"In other words, for every dollar the American family owed, they had nine in their possession."

MOTHER TRIES HOLDUP WITH EMPTY GUN

Children Hungry, Had To Steal, She Tells Magistrate

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Mrs. Alice Scribner, 24-year-old mother of three children, stood nervous and silent in court today as she was arraigned on a charge of robbing a bakery store with an empty gun.

Mrs. Scribner, plump and pretty, told police she had tried robbery because her three babies were hungry.

Eben Scribner, her jobless husband, borrowed a dollar to go to court and be near his wife. The young mother's father and mother were also there.

On the advice of Magistrate George Fowell, Mrs. Scribner waived examination for trial in Special Sessions.

Bail may be arranged later, pending trial of the charges—assault and robbery and violation of the Sullivan law (possession of a gun).

The revolver Mrs. Scribner used in the holdup was a relic of the World War, in which her husband served. He picked it up on a battlefield. It had no cartridges. It was so old it wouldn't have fired a bullet, experts said, if it were loaded.

When Mrs. Scribner left her home in Yonkers, N. Y., to rob for her children the rent was two months in arrears. There had been hardly any food for the children over the Christmas holidays, she said. She said:

"I had to get food someway."

2 FOUND SLAIN IN AUTO

MONROE, Mich., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Two men, identified tentatively by Toledo police as Sam Kaplan and O. E. (Skinny) Roberts, of Toledo, were found shot to death and strangled with rope and wire today in the rear seat of an automobile near the Monroe city limits.

Possible retaliation by a rival liquor gang was ascribed by the police as the reason for the slaying.

Both men, the police said, had been shot in the head, apparently at close range. Both bodies were in the rear of the large automobile, a strand of rope about Roberts' neck and a rope and a fine copper wire about Kaplan's neck. The car was blood-spattered. The authorities said they believed the men were slain probably in Toledo and brought to the lonely spot near the plant of the Newton Steel Company, over the state line in Michigan.

Newspaper clippings in Roberts' pockets contained references to a recent Toledo bombing and hijacking liquor case, and cards.

Drys' Suspicions No Raid Basis, Court Rules

A prohibition agent's "belief" isn't basis enough to raid a place, Federal Judge Nelson McVicar ruled today.

So the court ordered that the malt and yeast seized in a raid on the Fort Pitt Malt Company, then operated by Sidney J. Rudolph and Julius A. Rudolph in Smithfield street, be returned.

Judge McVicar held that the agent's "belief" that the malt and yeast were destined to violate the liquor laws was insufficient basis for seizure, also that the warrant improperly described the evidence.

HOOVER FISHES FOR SAILFISH

SAILFISH CLUB, PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—President Hoover fished from sunup through the forenoon today in a choppy sea off Pale Beach but what luck he was having could not be ascertained from craft nearby.

Both the auxiliary sloop, Orca, bearing the President, and the Miss Sally, carrying Mrs. Hoover and other guests, put into port once during the forenoon, but immediately returned to sea. The Miss Sally displayed two sailfish averaging about 7 feet.

The President did not indicate when he intended to end his day's angling, but he planned to return here by late afternoon in any event to meet the local reception committee.

BRIDE AWARDED $5 A WEEK

Rosemary Fortener Kenny, 18-year-old bride of Charles Anthony Kenny, who is suing her mother-in-law for $50,000 for being deprived of her husband's company since the first month of their marriage last January, has been awarded $5 a week from her husband as a result of a non-support suit she brought against him.

The order was handed down by Judge R. A. Kennedy in desertion and non-support court. The girl's attorney is Robert B. Ivory, Jr.

The young bride told the court her husband, son of Mrs. Stella Kenny, well-to-do widow of Beechwood boulevard, began to neglect her immediately after their runaway marriage in Wellsburg, W. Va. She said her husband had given her only $20 and refused to take her to his mother's home.

The girl accused her mother-in-law of persuading her husband to leave her after their first month together.

Today Rosemary is earning $10 a week, she testified.

Her $50,000 alienation suit is still pending against the mother-in-law.

Prince Mike Faces New Years on Isle

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—A trifle abashed, but not without his usual quota of jauntiness, Harry Gerguson, who is no longer especially anxious to be known as Prince Michael Romanoff, looked forward today to a New Years Eve on Ellis Island.

The one-time Prince Mike, from all indications, will remain there until the Ellis Island Board of Inquiry decides how Mike entered the United States illegally about 10 days ago, where he came from and how soon they can ship him back.

SOLDIER KILLER OF 4 CRAZED BY DEMOTION

Negro Trooper Blamed Captains for Being Reduced, Is Belief

FORT HUACHUCA, Ariz., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The brooding of a Negro soldier over his demotion from sergeant to private was advanced today as a possible motive for the Negro slaying two Army captains and their wives at his historic post.

Another white officer was wounded late yesterday before the soldier was shot and killed by a Negro corporal of the provost guard. Although the official statement suggested no motive, the investigating board of officers was emphatic in stating "no breach of discipline" was involved.

The dead are Capt. Joseph R. Wessely, 45, and Mrs. Wessely; Capt. David A. Palmer, 42, and Mrs. Palmer, and James H. Abernathy, Negro private, quartermaster's corps, of Houston, Tex., slayer of the four.

First Lieut. Harvie R. Matthews was shot twice through both legs.

Abernathy had been involved in a fatal automobile accident. He had been releaesed to state courts and was placed on 10 years' probation.

Capt. Wessely was the first to be killed. He was shot down without warning as he drove into the service station where Abernathy was employed. After killing the officer, the Negro drove to the captain's home, where he apparently burst in upon Mr. Wessely and killed her.

From the Wessely home he went to the Palmer residence, where he apparently killed Capt. and Mrs. Palmer without a struggle. The two Palmer children, David, 12, and Polly, 10, escaped. David shoved his sister into a closet, slammed the door and ran from the house to notify post headquarters.

After killing Capt. and Mrs. Palmer, Abernathy ran to the home of Lieut. Matthews, and opened fire on him. Meanwhile, the provost corporal had been attracted by the shooting, and, obtaining a rifle, ran toward Matthews' home. He found the officer lying on the ground and the Negro firing shots into his body. The corporal then killed Abernathy.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over Southern New Mexico yesterday morning moved rapidly eastward, and cloudiness and rain overspread most of the eastern half of the country. The disturbance is centered over Northern Louisiana this morning, lowest barometer, 29.56 inches, at Shreveport. Rainfall was moderately heavy over the Lower Ohio Valley, Western Tennessee, Arkansas and Northern Louisiana. Another low appears over British Columbia. The eastern high is centered off the Middle Atlantic Coast. There is a high centered over the plateau section and a ridge extends northeastward to Saskatchewan. It caused a marked drop in temperature over Saskatchewan. It is warmer than yesterday over the eastern half of the country and in portions of the Rocky Mountain states.

River Conditions.

The upper rivers are falling slowly, while the Ohio is about stationary. Stage at Franklin is 3.3 feet; Lock No. 7 (Mon.), 14.9; Pittsburgh, 13.6; Dam No. 4, 10.6; No. 6, 11.0; No. 10, 11.0; No. 12, 10.8. The dams are up. Rain is now in progress over the entire district. Indications are that it will continue during the next 24 hours. The rivers will probably rise.

Cross of Chimpanzees, Humans Tried in Wilds

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—An amateur biologist today startled members of the anthropology section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science with the announcement that he knew of an experiment in Russia to cross human beings with chimpanzees.

Howell S. England, a member of the Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters, said the experiments began a year ago in the wilds of Russian Turkestan.

England said nine female chimpanzees were being used in the experiment, which was being conducted by Dr. Elie Ivanoff, a specialist in "artificial fecundation."

England said he learned of the plan for the experiment when he and Ivanoff had failed to raise $100,000 for similar research in Paris.

Ivanoff then got a grant of money from the Soviet government, bought the chimpanzees and vanished into Russia, he said.

England announced that he had spent the past 25 years trying to get American and European geneticists interested in the idea of hybridizing men and apes. He said that Dr. Albert Calmette, director of the Pasteur Institute, of Paris, had been interested in his plans, but later withdrew his approval "on account of political pressure."

Notre Dame Star Wins Bride, Wine on Dare

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—George Trafton, formerly a center on Notre Dame's football team, won a bottle of rare old wine and a bride named Helen Merely by proving he could "take it" early today.

George and some of the boys were talking over his previous martial—pardon, marital—venture in a night club. George was gently razzed about that case, so he turned to the girl to the left of him and said:

"For two cents I'd marry Helen, here, right now."

The owner of the night club said he would provide a bottle of wine, instead of the two cents. Thereupon, George and Helen and several others motored to Waukegan, aroused the county clerk, got a license, and then woke up a justice of the peace, who performed the ceremony totals as recounted in some districts, standing on the original return made on election night by vote boards whose integrity had never been questioned.

HINTS BOXES OPENED

Harris plainly intimated that some one had obtained access to the ballot boxes after the election boards had finished with them, and altered the markings in the hope that the recount would be accepted by the return board. In several districts otherwise straight Democratic votes were found marked for Republican legislative candidates only, though the election boards swore the markings had not been there when the ballots were taken from the boxes on election night.

Harris said:

"All of you know as well as I that in this very county there has occurred for years and are still occurring, the most flagrant instances of disregard for the electorate rights of our citizens. The most recent despicable crime which was intended to react to the benefit of the criminals and place the blame upon innocent members of honest election boards tests to the limit the endurance of every upright man. If this is to go on, how can we get decent, self-respecting citizens to serve on our election boards?

"The responsibility for this condition rests directly with the Republican party of the state of Pennsylvania. The remedy is wholly within the hands of its leaders. I think it is the imperative duty of the members of this Allegheny County delegation to take decisive action here tonight.

"We should urge upon our state leaders that they include in their legislative program such election law revisions as will be a real weapon against election law frauds, which they have not yet done."

COYNE ANGERED

Coyne, occupying a front seat among the members, leaped to his feet, plainly angry. Pacing the caucus, he said:

"I've been in politics in a small way for 20 years, and in public office for 10 years. No man can say I was ever elected by stolen ballots. I've heard this story about election thieves deciding elections ever since I can remember. I heard it about Senator Harris when he was elected, but I didn't believe it. For one, I am opposed to this resolution."

Mansfield seconded the resolution with the remark that all it did was to indicate that the members believed in honest elections, and he could not conceive of anyone denying that principle.

Harris, stirred by Coyne's remarks, said:

"I have engaged in a number of campaigns in this county, and I never heard charges that I was the beneficiary of stolen votes. The size of my vote in each campaign showed that it would have been impossible to steal as many votes as the margin by which I won. I have been twice nominated in a Republican primary without opposition. If I ever found I was elected by fraudulent votes I wouldn't take the job."

The Senator's voice was shaking with anger.

HOUGH BACKS HARRIS

Then Hough, deploring the personalities aroused, touched on a condition which has long been under attack in Allegheny County, the system of holding back returns in some controlled districts. He said:

"I'm not only for honesty in elections, but honesty in all lines. I am with Senator Harris in this, and think Senator Coyne is wrong in opposing the resolution. I want to object, also, to the system that prevails in some sections of holding back returns to see how the election is going in other districts."

This brought Coyne to his feet again with the explanation that he was not charging Harris with any wrong, but "merely repeating what people say about all of us." And from that the Senator proceeded to comment on Hough's final statement, continuing:

"There was a report about town after the last election that I had changed some votes in the Second Legislative district. About 4 a. m. Wednesday, after election day, I met Maloney and Metzler (Republican candidates in that district) and told them they had better get busy and get the returns to see whether they were elected or licked. I left them in about 10 minutes."

The Second Ward, in this district, which is generally recognized as Coyne territory, was one in which difficulty was encountered in getting returns. Metzler beat the high Democrat in this overwhelmingly Republican legislative district by 373 votes, and Maloney won by 184 votes.

MANSFIELD URGES ACTION

Mansfield returned to the firing line with this observation:

"It would be a mistake for a solitary member to vote against this resolution, and opponents will be looked upon as being against honest elections."

Then Scorza offered his motion to table the Harris resolution, and a parliamentary tangle resulted which added to the confusion. Harris asked the right to debate the motion, and Coyne interjected that it wasn't debatable. Chairman Einstein prepared to rule as Coyne added:

"Of course the motion isn't debatable, and though I think it is cowardly to shut off debate, the motion ends it, though I'm in favor of letting them talk."

Einstein ruled the motion not debatable and Harris appealed from his decision. The chairman handed the gavel to Senator Mansfield, who put the question, and Einstein was upheld by a vote of ten to seven, with the Coyne forces scoring their first triumph.

Then came the 12 to 8 motion to table the resolution, leaving in its wake a trail of political bitterness and potentialities probably to last through many campaigns.

SPLIT ON TAX JOB

Hardly had the smoke of this fight died down when the sharp division between Harris and Mansfield on one side and Coyne on the other developed again on the subject of the delinquent tax collector. In an effort to restore good feeling Einstein called upon various political figures present for short speeches, and then invited various members of the legislative delegation to say their pieces.

When Mansfield was reached, he said:

"I am for economy in state government, as are all of us. But I am not for economy which depreciates the appropriations to our hospitals and state institutions or that will crippie our educational system. I am not for the shift of state burdens back to smaller communities.

"And the biggest abscess on the body politic in this county is the delinquent tax office with its fees of over $100,000 a year. The collector, John Brown, is a good man, but the system is wrong, and I intend to introduce a bill to abolish the fee office, as I did in the last special session. I am satisfied the people of the county want the office abolished."

COYNE UPHOLDS OFFICE

Uninvited by the chairman, Coyne replied:

"Some of the men who advocate abolition of the office now were men who dished out the plum in the past. When Samuel D. Foster and Walter J. Christy were delinquent tax collectors Senator Mansfield was quiet. I will also present a bill to reduce the fees of this office to a net of about $20,000 a year, but I will oppose its abolition. I can't understand how some men get religion over night. This was all right when Mansfield's friend was collector in McKeesport and got $12,000 a year."

Mansfield denied the fees in McKeesport had ever been that great, and added:

"In explanation of why this subject has never been so alive before, we never knew for certain what the Allegheny County Delinquent Tax Collector received until the present Board of County Commissioners came into office and had an audit made."

Mansfield is also a County Commissioner.

TALBOT SUPPORTED

In the more peaceful portion of the caucus Einstein had been named chairman, Hoffman vice chairman and Spann secretary, with Steedle designated floor leader in the House. The speakership candidacy of Representative Grover C. Talbot was approved, together with Eugene White, of Chester, for chief clerk, Milton K. Burgner for resident clerk in Harrisburg and John Fertig head of the Legislative Reference Bureau.

A resolution by Ruby, indorsing retention by the speaker of power to name committees, was approved, as well as another by Walker that the present rule requiring the vote of 105 members to take a bill from committee be retained.

Democrats and Independent Republicans are seeking to have the committees selected by a committee on committees and to require no more than 65 votes to take a bill from committee when it is in danger of being buried.

SHENKEL ATTENDS

Representative Jacob Shenkel, a Republican elected as a Democrat, attended the caucus, but did not participate. He will vote for Talbot.

Hoffman asked the members to insist that the Law and Order Committee, to which go bills dealing with blue laws and dry enforcement, be liberalized, so bills which he said were demanded by the people would be brought to the floor for a vote. He said:

"Those of us who have been to Harrisburg before have seen how this committee has tried to strangle liberal legislation. We can't blame it on Gov. Pinchot, for in 1929, when Aaron Hess was Speaker in the Fisher administration, the committee was loaded worse against us than now."

After the caucus the legislators, nine of whom are new members, gathered in knots to become acquainted, and milled about with the political leaders present who are not members of the Legislature. The vote on the Harris resolution was the chief topic of conversation, and many quips were heard about the "harmony" within the delegation. But the humor was larded with some serious tones.

There was an evident belief that a breach had been caused which might require some adroit maneuvering to heal during the session, if at all.

Ballot Reform Plea Spurned at Caucus

Here is the resolution of Senator Frank J. Harris which caused the ruction in the Allegheny County Republican legislative caucus last night:

"Whereas, charges and counter charges of election violations and frauds have filled the pages of the public press for months and numerous convictions have been secured, and

"Whereas, in the most recent election the peak of disregard of decency by the election criminals has been reached in foisting their crimes upon innocent members of honest election boards, and

"Whereas, the members of the Allegheny County Republican delegation wish to express their opposition to such practices and to place on record their desire to have the condition remedied, therefore

"Be it resolved, That the Republican members of the Legislature here assembled do urge most strongly upon the leaders of the Republican party of Pennsylvania that a strong declaration for the revision of election laws to prevent fraud be placed in the legislative program of the party and that the party announces its active support for the adoption of some such program in the Legislature."

Here is the roll call upon which, through motion of Representative John D. Scorza, the delegation by a vote of 12 to 8 refused to even consider the condemnation of election frauds and the pledge of election reform legislation:

To table the resolution—Senators Coyne and Armstrong and Representatives Lynch, Scorza, Metzler, Maloney, Dwyer, Kane, McBride, O'Rourke, Steedle and Brown.

To keep the resolution alive, and ultimately indorse it—Senators Harris and Mansfield and Representatives Gallagher, Hough, Ruby, Hoffman, Reed and Walker.

Present and not voting—Senator Einstein and Representative Spann. Absent—Senator Brandt and Representative McClure.

FIVE ARRESTED AT FUNERAL

BRISTOL, Pa., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Attending their father's funeral, two sons and three daughters were served with warrants by a third brother. He charged malicious mischief.

Martin, Edward and Alice Goodbred, Mrs. Helen McKinski and Mrs. Elsie Haering, all of Philadelphia, were at the funeral of their father, Martin Goodbred, at the home of his son, Charles, in Newportville, who had the warrants issued.

Charles said his brothers and sisters came to his home Monday night after the father died and argued over where he should be buried. He said the debate resulted in a fight in which furniture was broken and windows were smashed.

COXTOWN NEEDS FARM TOOLS

Although Father Cox is taking care of hundreds of needy families and jobless, he also is laying plans for the future. He desires to organize his farming community—Coxtown—for early spring activities. He needs farming implements, plows, hoes and spades, and vegetable seed. Donations of this character will be welcome. Call Old St. Patrick's, Grant 4390.

Father Cox is putting his Coxtown currency into circulation tomorrow—a form of "money" paid residents of this community for services. This "currency" can only be exchanged for commodities at the Old St. Patrick's commissary. It is a form of "Technocracy" boiled down.

In the meantime Father Cox is getting gratifying response from his drive for subscriptions for the Sun-Telegraph. Every subscription that comes in on the blank on this page brings to his emergency fund a liberal commission in cash.

Bellevue Man Hurt By Crash in Fog

IRENE REWARD AGAIN CLAIMED

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 30.—Richard M. Giles, of Maricopa County, Ariz., is the latest claimant to a part of the $3,200 reward offered for capture of Irene Schroader and Glenn Dague, slayers of Corporal Brady Paul three years ago. The rewards are still unpaid, although the murderers have paid the penalty.

In a deposition filed at the Prothonotary's office, Giles explained his tardy application by saying he had believed the reward had been paid. He said he was one of the group that cornered Irene and Dague in Arizona and that he, by gunfire, drove them into a crevice of rock and then held them until the posse had surrounded and captured them.

Distribution of the money is to be made soon at the discretion of the Lawrence County court.

'BUY AMERICAN' NECESSITY STRESSED

American" campaign. As a matter of fact, I've preached that for some time, and encouraged my family to buy only American-made goods. Just now, though, little raw leather is being imported, because competition among American concerns is such that leather is at its lowest price in 30 years."

F. R. Dravo, president, Dravo Construction Company, said:

"I'm glad to hear of the campaign. I'm for it."

FOOD PRODUCTS

Articles imported direct to Pittsburgh last year included sausage, cheese of many kinds from the Netherlands, Switzerland, Canada—$136,433 worth of it; $90,000 of canned and fresh-water fish, with 224,273 pounds of herring, the favorite.

More than 80,000 pairs of shoes from Germany and Czechoslovakia; 50,000 or more pairs of gloves from France, Belgium, Britain; leather bags and cases worth $11,454; 456,216 pounds of canned tomatoes worth $17,887—these formed a smattering for the retail trade.

Anthracite coal, 569,599 tons of it, worth $4,143,267, was imported last year. Of it, Britain shipped in $2,243,649, Soviet Russia $1,611,084, Germany, Belgium and Canada the balance.

Approximately 180,000 tons of bituminous coal and lignite valued at more than $1,000,000 were shipped from Canada, Mexico and Trinidad, and 92,467 tons of coke, valued at $691,018, came in from these countries and others in the United Kingdom.

They necessarily competed with American products, some of them in the Pittsburgh area.

FOREIGN STEEL, IRON

Steel and iron, Pittsburgh's leading industry, faced competition from abroad, with 1931 seeing $17,714,604 worth of steel and iron manufactures shipped in, mainly from Sweden and Belgium, but also from England, Germany, India and the Netherlands. Included in this were steel ingots, scrap, wire rods, boiler plate, sheet iron, structural steel, rails, cast iron pipes and wires and other products, many of them made in Pittsburgh.

Millions of pounds of concrete reinforcing rods came from Belgium and other lands.

And glass, another prime industry of Western Pennsylvania, was imported from abroad last year to the extent of $6,393,572 from Belgium, Czechslovakia, France, Germany and the Netherlands. Scotland sent wool, Northern Ireland textiles, over $7,844,000 worth of pottery came from Europe. These imports, the main, compete with industries in the tri-state area.

Hides from Australia and New Zealand, cattle from Canada, 100,000,000 light bulbs from Japan and Germany compete with similar American industry.

'Buy American' Drive Cancels Jap Order

Among leading business and other executives in the nation, the following added their commendation of the "Buy American" campaign being waged by the Hearst newspapers:

John Sullivan, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, declared all labor would give its enthusiastic support to the movement. In Baltimore, Samuel Lessens, head of the Atlantic Electrical Supply Company, declared he had canceled an order for 1,000,000 Japanese electric light bulbs. In Chicago, R. W. Johnson, of the Concrete Reinforcing Steel Institute, declared the use of 1,000 tons of steel gives 8,000 men one day's work, or 300 a month's work. Steel mills will be able to increase their operations through the banning of foreign-made steel, he said.

Dr. John A. Harriss, president of the Broadway Association, New York, commended the campaign, and Los Angeles County supervisors urged people of their community "Buy American." Dr. George C. Pardee, head of the East Bay Municipal Utilities District; Will C. Wood, vice president, Bank of America, and other San Franciscans indorsed the plan.

Gas Rate Change Offered in Ohio

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Dec. 30.—The Manufacturers' Light and Heat Company of Pittsburgh, in tariffs to be filed with the State Utilities Commission at Columbus, announced today it would offer a flat rate of 54 cents per 1,000 cubic feet after payment of an initial charge of $1.15, depending upon consumption of 10,000 or more cubic feet monthly, to domestic consumers in rural zones of Columbiana and Jefferson counties.

A stepup rate ranging from 55 to 70 cents is now effective.

State May Adopt Fayette Relief Plan

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., Dec. 30.—The State Emergency Relief Board is considering adoption of Fayette County's efficient relief distribution plan, Chairman George W. Hibbs said today. He will confer next week with the state board at Harrisburg and explain the Fayette system.

Dollar Sees Aid to U. S. Shipping and Industry In 'Buy American' Drive

More men known in the nation's commerce and industry today joined forces with the "Buy American" campaign of the Hearst newspapers.

R. Stanley Dollar, president of the Dollar Steamship Lines, in a message to W. R. Hearst said:

"Dear Mr. Hearst: I have read with great interest your articles on buy American. I was particularly impressed by your reference to American merchant marine, of which you have always been such a staunch supporter.

"Your ideas cannot help but bring vast benefit to our country and the way you have stated this it will not be interpreted as retaliatory toward any other nation, but to impress upon Americans the value of supporting American industries.

"Over five hundred million dollars freight money is paid annually by importers and exporters in the United States, of which three-fifths goes to foreign lines and two-fifths to Americans. This will give you some idea of the magnitude of this one phase of the problem. I wish to thank you and congratulate you upon the stand which you are taking in this matter. Kindest regards."

OIL MAN SPEAKS

K. R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, said in another message:

"I have read with the greatest interest the editorials on Buy American in yesterday's and today's issues of the San Francisco Examiner. Our industrial and banking committee of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District, composed of financial and industrial leaders representing the entire Pacific West, has recognized the menace to our national welfare brought about by the increasing flood of goods from countries where depreciated currencies have lowered manufacturing costs to a point against which the American manufacturer cannot possibly compete.

"The American workman has never been asked to compete with coolie wages and he must not be asked to do so now. From its examination of the situation, our committee feels that this is the most important single factor in the unemployment situation. The Buy American movement leads directly to amelioration of one of the country's gravest ailments. It should have full public support.

"Your advocacy will be of the greatest value in that direction. However, there is a still further step for a final solution of this grave problem. National legislation is needed to protect the American worker and manufacturer. This is a new thing brought about by recent depreciation of currencies in foreign countries and our present laws are inadequate to meet it. Your patriotic effort to arouse American public opinion will prove a most important aid in procuring relief from Congress. Kindest person regards and season's greetings."

SEES PROSPERITY AID

A message from John C. Austin, prominent architect of Los Angeles and former president of the Chamber of Commerce of that city, said:

"The return of prosperity will be materially speeded up if the people of the United States follow the 'Buy American' slogan that you are featuring in all of your publications.

"If those writing specifications covering the construction or manufacture of any item would make a point of demanding that the materials should not only be manufactured but the raw material mined in the United States, and if those who are purchasing materials through our stores were to ascertain that American goods were being offered to them, our return to prosperity would be very rapid and our unemployment problem quickly solved.

"It has been a very easy thing for us to believe that goods of a foreign manufacture were superior to our own, when as a matter of fact after careful analysis it would be found that goods manufactured in America are second to none in the world.

"It is my opinion that American goods only should be used in the construction of buildings that are financed by the taxpayers; also that only American citizens should be employed on such buildings.

"We have had several experiences that should teach us that when an American dollar travels to the other side of the Atlantic it is a long time before it starts on its return journey. Therefore, it is logical that we keep it at home and use it ourselves as long as possible."

IMPORTANT MOVEMENT

Watt L. Moreland, president of the Moreland Motor Truck Company and vice president of the California Manufacturers' Association, advised:

"The editorials and news articles in promotion of the 'Buy American' campaign that are now appearing in your newspapers constitute one of the most important movements possible for any American to undertake.

"As vice president of the California Manufacturers' Association I hasten to express to you my warmest commendation in this matter and to assure you that manufacturers and workingmen alike realize that you are making their fight.

"Europe is not paying its war debts to the United States, and that adds a burden of taxation to American shoulders that is another handicap in our industrial competition with countries with low standards of living for their underpaid workingmen.

"Just now that competition is a tremendous threat on account of the depreciated currencies of so many countries.

"If our people buy the products of the factories of those countries we shall have more tens of thousands of workingmen let out and thrown with their families on the relief agencies for sustenance.

"If, on the other hand, our people can be made to realize the seriousness of this situation so that they will take care not to be tempted by what seem to be bargains in foreign-made goods and to be sure when they buy that what they are buying is made in America, we shall speedily see American workingmen being taken back to work and our entire economic situation improved."

Dentist Badly Cut In Plunge of Auto

FRANKLIN, Pa., Dec. 30.—Dr. R. E. Filer, 33, Grove City dentist, is suffering with severe cuts about the head and eyes which, doctors said, might affect his sight, following an automobile accident on the Pittsburgh road.

The coupe he was driving was hit by a passing car, sending Dr. Filer's machine through a guard rail and down an embankment. Dazed and suffering from loss of blood, he was found by a passing motorist.

FORMER BELLE KEEPS VIGIL AT FAMOUS MINE

LEADVILLE, Col., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—"Baby Doe" Tabor, once beautiful wife of H. A. W. Tabor, the bonanza king, holds true to a promise to her husband never to relinquish possession of the matchless mine.

Assured by mining experts there is a vein of rich gold still uncovered in the mine which startled the world with its output of silver in the days when the white metal was valuable, the aged woman guards it with a double-barreled shotgun. She holds possession through the right of homestead, although a mortgage on the mine was foreclosed several years ago.

PROTECTED BY LAW

Under Colorado law mortgagees cannot take the property as long as Mrs. Tabor remains in possession. Mrs. Tabor said:

"Two attempts have been made to burn me out. Some person came stealthily upon my property during the night and set fire to some of the outbuildings in the hope of driving me out. From sunset to sunrise I sit in an obscure hiding place in my home waiting for them to repeat their offense.

"My husband's last words and request before he died were that the title to the Matchless mine should never leave my name. He said the mine contained more wealth in it than had ever been taken out.

SECRET ORE VEIN

"During the mine's operations in the past the men erected a huge bulkhead which they claimed was for the purpose of eliminating a cave-in, but I know better. It was placed there to keep prying eyes from discovering a great sulphite vein which had not been uncovered. Samples had been taken and proved to be gold bearing. Now do you understand why I am staying on?"

Her "home"—an old shaft house—contains a few pieces of antiquated furniture. The old iron bed has seen years of service and has old clothing for covering. The water supply consists of melted ice and snow in the winter, and in the summer Mrs. Tabor carries water from a creek a mile from the house.

2 CAPONE MEN SEIZED IN RAID

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(Universal.)—Two alleged Capone gangsters, one of them said to be wanted in New York for questioning in a murder, were seized yesterday in a raid on the sixth floor of an office building.

One of the prisoners, Sylvester Agoglia, was arrested in 1930 in Miami with Capone and here last year with Lawrence ("Dago") Mangano, Capone gangster and public enemy. His captors said he also was wanted in New York in a murder case.

The other prisoner is Michael Costello, said to be the sugar supply man for the stills operated by the remnants of the Capone syndicate. The raid was one of a series ordered by Mayor Cermak in a cleanup campaign.

Gunning for Hawk, Boy Kills Sister

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The effort of Clayton O'Dell, 14, schoolboy of Wyatt, near here, to protect his poultry yard from a marauding hawk ended in tragedy when he killed his sister, Maxine, 11, with a shotgun.

Dr. L. C. Goff, Coroner, said the shooting was accidental.

The boy and girl were playing in the yard when the hawk swooped on the O'Dell chickens. Clayton went into the house for his gun. As he started out the weapon caught on the door jamb and discharged, the shot hitting his sister.

Girl, 20, Has Third Marriage Annulled

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—(Universal.)—Although only 20, Winifred Bush Delk, of Oakland, has just had her third marriage annulled.

Her radio marriage to Charles C. Delk, of Los Angeles, at a San Francisco broadcasting station February 27, 1931, after she and Delk won a marathon dance there, was vacated yesterday by Superior Judge C. L. Bogue when Delk presented evidence he was only 20 years of age when the event took place.

'White Elephant' Zoo Goes to Taxidermist

SPOKANE, Wash., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—What to do with a zoo when an economic city council says "abolish it!"

A taxidermist's shop here has the answer. The zoo keeper tried first to sell the animals, then to give them away, and couldn't. Now the animals, including polar bears, buffaloes, deer and grizzly bears, will be slaughtered, mounted by a taxidermist and put in the city museum.

BITTEN BY DOG, GIRL ALSO HURT IN AUTO CRASH

When Mamie DeSensi, 18, of 633 East Shady drive, Mt. Lebanon, was bitten on the face and neck by her pet dog, her troubles for the day were not over. She was on the way to Mercy Hospital for treatment when the automobile in which she was riding struck a pole at West Liberty and Cape May avenues, yesterday afternoon.

She suffered lacerations and bruises in the crash.

Nick Capato, 22, of 820 Wylie avenue, the driver, was also injured. Both were taken to Mercy Hospital by another motorist.

Howard Harris, 28, of 53 Miltenberger street, was in Montefiore Hospital today with a possible fracture of the right shoulder suffered when a truck on which he was riding collided with another truck and an automobile on the Glenwood Bridge late yesterday.

Wilbur W. Stevens, 44, of 1125 Lancaster avenue, suffered a fractured leg when he was struck by an automobile after alighting from his automobile in Beeler street to examine his tires. He was taken to Homeopathic Hospital.

HILL FUGITIVE ESCAPES SHOTS

Center Avenue police today sought a Negro who abandoned an allegedly stolen automobile and eluded Motorcycle Patrolman Samuel Karam in a chase through Hill district streets late yesterday.

When Karam observed the Negro riding in the car at Center avenue and Arthur street, he ordered him to halt. Instead, the Negro turned into Arthur street and raced five blocks down Webster avenue with the patrolman in pursuit. Stopping the car, he leaped out and escaped afoot, although Karam fired twice.

The automobile had been stolen from P. W. Hatfield, of 30 South Grandview avenue, police said.

Should Males Seek Beauty As Do the Women?

If it's okay for ladies to use lipstick and improve on ole Dame Nature—

How about the boys?

Is it all right for them to go in for trick marcels and plucked eyebrows?

For, according to Nita, there are plenty of young Romeos who go in for such, and—well, you know; its kinda gives a gal a turn when she sees one.

"What should we think of them?" she wants to know. "Are they any good? Are they regular or—?"

Well, now that is a question! And one guaranteed to start a riot at almost any party.

Dear Miss Robinson:

I've never written you before, because I never happened to see anything in your column that stirred up my bone of contention. But I've just read the article about girls putting on makeup, and how Zeb thinks it's Simply Awful, and that All Nice Boys will run when they see a girl with a powdered nose.

Hooey! And if Zeb took a real good look around him, he'd soon find it out. Maybe his particular clique doesn't admire girls with spunk enough to groom their faces; but, believe me, I've noticed that the ones who do it are ones who have the most dates and marry the soonest, so there must be something wrong with his reasoning.

But that isn't what I started out to talk about. Here's what I have on my mind, and Zeb will probably passed out when he sees it.

What has become of the real he-man of this great (?) and glorious (?) land? And what do the girls think of boys who go in for make-up?

BOYS SEEK BEAUTY

Yes; I mean that, seriously. For don't think that plenty of boys don't do just as much primping as the girls do. I've seen several lately, with daintily plucked eyebrows and hair that's been "doctored" and marcelled—not to mention painfully well chosen ties and sox, and all the other things you can notice about how dainty the boys are getting.

I don't mind the ties and the fearfully and wonderfully matched-up clothes, but I think the plucked eyebrows and the fancy hair is going too far for a man.

My goodness! You're supposed to admire a man because he's strong and rugged and dependable. Or at least you used to be supposed to. Are times changing? Am I just an Old-Fashioned Dodo when I say that I still admire men for those qualities and not for their "beauty?"

DOESN'T LIKE IDEA

I think it's okay for a woman to doll up her face, because people pick women for their looks first. At least, if you don't take care to be good-looking, the majority of people won't bother to find out what kind of a soul you have or how regular you may be. A woman's looks are like the show-window in a store. If they're not enticing she's likely to be left on the shelf.

But as for men—I think a rouged and waved and "beautified" man is terrible. I like clean finger nails and a neatly shaved face, but when a man has his nails polished till you can see yourself in them—no, thank you. I like shaved faces and neat hair cuts, but I draw the line at plucked eyebrows.

Put that in your pipe and smoke it, Zeb! And tell me what you think of it! I think plenty! How about it, fans?

ANITA.

Well! I ask you! Ain't that sumpin'?

And is it true? Do we have Painted Huskies, as well as Painted Hussies? Is Mister 1932 just a Great Big Beautiful Baby Doll? And has a gent the same right as a femme to improve the map nature gave him?

And if he is and does, is he regular, regardless?

Come on! Get in on the riot, boys and girls! Tell us what you think!

Fay King Dwells on Thoughts of Peace and Contentment

THOSE WHO EXCEL IN LOOKS AND TALENT ARE NOT ALWAYS HAPPIER
I'M SO ORDINARY IN EVERY WAY!
SHE LONGS TO BE STRIKINGLY BEAUTIFUL OR CLEVER!
TO BE ABLE TO GO ANYWHERE AND NOT BE NOTICED OR KNOWN IS A GREAT ADVANTAGE
FAY KING

By FAY KING

The great majority of us are just ordinary. We do not excel in looks or ability.

Some make themselves unhappy regretting this. They wish their qualities were not so much in common. They would like to be strikingly beautiful or extraordinarily clever.

They do not appreciate the advantage of just being one of the many who may go here or there without attracting attention.

They do not stop to consider that if one does not excel the ordinary, still how thankful one should be that one does not sink below it.

Those who excel are not always happier.

And how sad is the lot of those who through some fault or weakness cannot enjoy the peace and contentment of those who are—just ordinary.

Friends Search Marion's Room at School

Lillian's eyes were suddenly bright, and I knew that she had snatched avidly at my comment that Dicky might have seen the very house where Marion and Carolyn were concealed, and the location of which Marion had so cleverly described in the apparently innocuous letter sent to her mother.

"Oh, indeed, he might. At any rate, he'll know what to look for when he goes up again. Oh, Madge, this is the first time I've dared to let myself hope! But there's such a risk in attempting a rescue. Just think! Marion's even anticipated that!"

"How?" I breathed, myself torn between hope and fear that any attempt at rescuing the intrepid girls might only send them to their death.

"When she fixed up that code book," Marion's mother went on, "she laid out several different plans of rescue that would call for certain acts on her part—like those holiday messages the telegraph companies send out. 'He don't' means number three; 'she don't,' number four. I'll just read you number three, as Marion has used that one.

"She has headed it, 'using airplane,'" Lillian went on, "and the others call for everything from a bobsled to a motor boat. It gives these directions—"

INSTRUCTIONS CLEAR

She lifted the code book nearer her eyes and read slowly.

"Airplane to fly over house first very high up, then just one hour later, return, flying quite low. Will have something white flapping like washing at window of room I am in. If not seen second trip, make a third trip one hour later. When men surround the house, after dark, airplane to fly quite low over house. At sound of motor, will barricade door and lie flat on floor. But do not fly over last time until 10 minutes before men are to rush house."

She looked up at me when she had finished reading, and there was distinct pride in her eyes.

"Hasn't missed a bet, has she?" she asked.

"Not a syllable of one," I answered. "I don't know what profession she means to adopt, but she'll write crime thrillers on the side, or I miss my guess."

"And there's never a bit of fiction in the world that can rival reality for the bizarre and the terrible," she said. Then she put her arms above her head and stretched them—a sure signal of going into action.

"Now we'll get busy," she said "thanks to you and your sedative—my dear, do you consider me an absolute moron?" Her voice held just a touch of whimsical reproof as I stared at her. "I knew that hot milk held something, and I was willing to take it, although I had no faith in it; but it turned the trick, and I'm feeling very fit.

SEEKS OTHER BOOK

"I'll get dressed, and make several copies of the information Marion has concealed in the code. Will you go over to Mrs. Barnes, see if she can find a copy of this code book. Take it with you; I've finished with it for the present, and Mrs. Barnes can identify the other one by this. Also please see what other developments there are. Brock may have a line on that automobile, although this information may make that useless, except in tracing the identity of the criminals if they get away."

I rose to go, but turned at the door.

"I'll hurry back as soon as I have anything to tell you," I said, and went away upon the promise.

I found Mrs. Barnes in her sitting room, the strain of the affair showing in her fine eyes; but she was eager and alert when I told her what Marion had succeeded in telling her mother in code, and asked her to have the girl's room searched.

"How ingenious!" she said. "But I might have expected it. Marion is easily the most brilliant girl in the school. I will search that room myself immediately. I would take you with me, but I must be doubly careful. The school is simply buzzing with surmise as it is."

Household Hints

To freshen vegetables soak for an hour in cold water to which has been added the juice of a lemon.

Mint sauce made by pounding the mint and sugar in a mortar is much nicer than that made by chopping the mint.

Save waxed paper that comes around baker's bread, cereal and cracker boxes. It is useful for keeping sandwiches moist or to dry the flatiron on.

Sea water plays havoc with boots and shoes, but if a coating of oak copal varnish is applied between the soles and the uppers they will be well preserved.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

The center parting with a soft bang is being popularized by smart beauty salons. One coiffure shows this effect with side locks curled at the ends, soft ringlets spread lightly over the cheeks. The hair is shingled at the back, top hair being of sufficient length to cover the short portion, ends given a single turn of the iron.

Fashion isn't any too kind to women who have let fat cells accumulate and who haven't the fighting spirit necessary to combat them. Extra full sleeves are anything but helpful to one of excess width and abbreviated height. Short jackets, too, are more or less fatal. The high collar is not becoming to short necks, especially when the collar is made of coarse fur and is bouncy. There is one consolation for the girl with the feather bed shape. She no longer has to wear a belt where her waist should be.

Walk with toes pointed straight ahead. Wear comfortable shoes with heels only moderately high. Let the arms swing naturally. Don't wriggle the hips, because that's one way of making them wide and heavy. Keep the chest lifted. Hold the body tall. Walk briskly with buoyant, springy step. Missus Walker never has to worry about her shape, it keeps slim.

The thin girl will look more busty if she wears a corset, especially one of the new ones that give the bust an uplift. With form-fitting gowns still voguey, the corset is once again an important detail of dress.

No matter how rushed the day has been, Miss Beauty-quester, don't fail to give the complexion its nightly scrubbing, first removing powder with two applications of cleansing cream. After the soap scouring, rinse the surface of the skin with tepid water, dry gently, tap in a heavy massage cream. This is a form of insurance against wrinkles.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

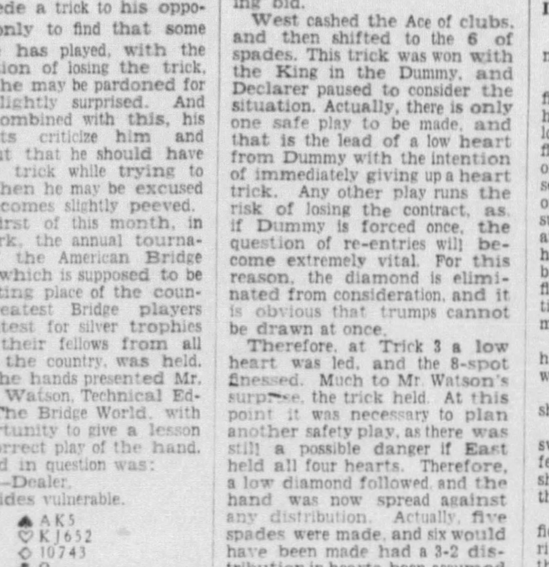
Conceding a Trick

When a Bridge player seeks to concede a trick to his opponents, only to find that some card he has played, with the expectation of losing the trick, wins it, he may be pardoned for being slightly surprised. And when, combined with this, his opponents criticize him and point out that he should have lost the trick while trying to win it, then he may be excused if he becomes slightly peeved.

The first of this month, in New York, the annual tournament of the American Bridge League, which is supposed to be the meeting place of the country's greatest Bridge players who contest for silver trophies against their fellows from all parts of the country, was held. One of the hands presented Mr. Louis H. Watson, Technical Editor of The Bridge World, with an opportunity to give a lesson in the correct play of the hand. The hand in question was:

North—Dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.



The bidding:

South	West	North	East
		1 ♡	2 ♣
2 ♠ (1)	3 ♣	3 ♠	Pass
4 ♠ (2)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—This is a much better bid than to raise the hearts. In fact, the hand is entirely too weak to consider a Raise, despite the fact that it contains three hearts, including the Ace. On the other hand, the alternative of a spade contract can safely be offered to North.

2—After partner has made an Opening bid and also raised the spade contract, it would be extremely unwise for South to now show that he has adequate trump support for North's Opening bid.

West cashed the Ace of clubs, and then shifted to the 6 of spades. This trick was won with the King in the Dummy, and Declarer paused to consider the situation. Actually, there is only one safe play to be made, and that is the lead of a low heart from Dummy with the intention of immediately giving up a heart trick. Any other play runs the risk of losing the contract, as, if Dummy is forced once, the question of re-entries will become extremely vital. For this reason, the diamond is eliminated from consideration, and it is obvious that trumps cannot be drawn at once.

Therefore, at Trick 3 a low heart was led, and the 8-spot finessed. Much to Mr. Watson's surprise, the trick held. At this point it was necessary to plan another safety play, as there was still a possible danger if East held all four hearts. Therefore, a low diamond followed, and the hand was now spread against any distribution. Actually, five spades were made, and six would have been made had a 3-2 distribution in hearts been assumed after the 8 of hearts held the trick.

As Bridge players so frequently do, one of the defending players initiated a post-mortem by inquiring into the reason for the finesse of the 8. Mr. Watson admitted that he never dreamed of this card holding the trick, but explained why the play was essential.

I wonder if a study of the diagram above will make this point clear.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Would you open the bidding on the following hand in any position and if so what would you bid? No score. Both sides vulnerable.

♠ A 10 8 6 5 4 3 ♡ A 6 4 3 ◇ K ♣ K

Answer: This hand would warrant an Opening bid of one spade in any position, in view of the honor strength and distribution of the holding.

Fashion Flashes

By ALICE ALDEN

Relax and wear soft and lovely teagowns when entertaining friends at home. A very lovely model is of white satin. It has a kimono-cut bodice that molds the figure and the wide sleeves are lined with cerise satin. The skirt, long and full, has a long train.

You are colorful, so why not enhance your personality with costume jewelry that is different? A most charming necklace and bracelet for wear on important occasions is made of fine garnets, circled with tiny seed pearls. Turquoise and pearls create another charming set.

We glitter these nights as beaded frocks return. A new evening frock with a tunic bodice is of white georgette and has silver-lined white beads sewn on in close rows in all-over beading. The tunic dips slightly in back, and other features are the twisted beaded shoulder straps and the rhinestone girdle.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

After a Dance

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—After you have finished the dance with your partner, should you leave him, or should you stand beside him? I am referring to school dances which are informal.

2—A boy whom I met during the summer went away the beginning of the year to go to school. He asked me if he might write. . . . but I know now that he doesn't know my address. Would it be correct for me to write to him first? B.

1—Your partner for the dance, if he is not of your party, should take you to your party, and, as he leaves you there, should say his polite "Thank you for the dance."

2—Are you sure that he has no way of finding out your address? If he has, rest assured that he will do so, if he wishes to write. Men . . . even boys . . . are like that!

But if you really think that there is no way for him to find out your address, then you might send him a note with your address.

Correct Stationery

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Won't you please inform me whether it is permissible for one to employ one's fingers, if no tongs are available, to take tablet sugar?

2—Then, too, is blue stationery in good taste for informal usage?

Thank you for the aid of Mrs. Beeckman's etiquette column.

READER.

1—Yes, if no tongs are on or near the sugar bowl, we may take a piece of sugar in our fingers, being careful to touch only the piece that we are taking. Of course, if we wish to be very "fussy" we may use our tea spoon, but this really isn't necessary.

2—The shade of blue of your letter-paper is a very good one and very popular now. This shade has always been used very much in foreign papers, especially those made in England and France, and now has been widely adopted here. Indeed your paper, with that special water-marking, is a copy of French paper.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Infantile Paralysis Symptoms

Epidemics of infantile paralysis are always distressing to mothers. Recently, in one of the large cities, there was an alarming increase in the number of cases of this disease. Fortunately, it appeared in a mild form.

Dr. Copeland

Some time ago, I told you about the progress made in the after care of sufferers from this disease. Massage, special exercises and forms of bathing, are successfully used in preventing permanent damage. It was pointed out that dangerous complications are avoided by early recognition and treatment.

Many cases of infantile paralysis could be prevented from reaching the serious stage if all parents were familiar with its early symptoms. The disease is contagious or infectious and, if overlooked, may spread from one child to another. While no age period is exempt from infantile paralysis, about ninety per cent of the cases occur in children under five years of age.

Unforunately, in its early stages, the disease is easily mistaken for nothing worse than a cold or an upset stomach. The important symptoms are fever, headache, nausea and vomiting. Diarrhea may be present, but constipation is the more common complaint.

An important sign of trouble is a definite change in the mental attitude of the patient. A happy and active child afflicted with this disease suddenly becomes quiet and listless. He cries without apparent reason.

It is at this stage that the disease should be suspected and immediate care given. Then the dangers of actual paralysis are materially reduced. Paralysis of the limbs does not occur until later and it is imperative that the diagnosis be made before that happens.

When the disease is recognized in its early stages, it can be satisfactorily treated by the giving of a "convalescent serum." This serum is obtained from the blood of a person who has recovered from infantile paralysis.

You may tire of my urging this over and over, but I cannot speak too much about the importance of early recognition of this disease. If you are in doubt, call your physician. If he is in doubt he will have made a special examination of the spinal fluid. This will confirm the presence or absence of infantile paralysis.

The test is made by a procedure that is simple and it need cause no alarm. It is particularly important if cases of infantile paralysis have been reported in your community.

Great progress has been made in the study of infantile paralysis. As yet, the causes of this disease are not fully understood. This makes it more important to guard against the disease, not only during epidemics, but at all times. To be familiar with its signs, is one of our duties.

There are a few fundamental health rules valuable in guarding against infantile paralysis, as well as other infections. Every child should have nourishing food, regular hours of sleep and rest, plenty of fresh air, sunlight and cleanliness.

How Coughs and Colds Yield to Creosote

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

Globe-Trotting

With the Globe-Trotter Of the Sun-Telegraph-Hearst Metrotone News

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Here is a quick response for a substitute for the word depression. Mrs. Richard J. Hamilton, president of the State Federation of Women's Club, uses "inverted prosperity."

The Woman's Fortnightly Review of Mt. Lebanon eliminates the "de" and the "i" in this manner, "dePRESSiON," making it "PRESS ON."

A little mental disturbance has come all the way from Troy, N. Y. Hold everything! Does a horse standing on a hill holding a wagon do any work? Whoa, now; be careful.

It's getting to be a habit. Anyway, it seems that way to Mrs. Ida S. Wagner, of Miltenberger street. In less than a week, two cars were stolen from guests visiting at her home. This has "gotta" stop. Mrs. Wagner feels a little self-conscious now when she invites friends to her home.

Homestead Globe-Trotters, be advised that New Years Day has a special significance to Justice of the Peace J. B. Jones. He and his wife celebrate their fifty-fourth wedding anniversary. The squire, now 80, has held his office for 32 years. He could tell you stories about your borough. It was a mere village in in 1879, when he first came there.

In ancient Rome when the new year began in March, the day was sacred to the double-headed Janus, who could look backward and forward at the same time. The Gregorian Calendar marked the new year as the first day in a month named after him—Happy New Year! and I had to go to the books to answer that one.

Versailles Borough doesn't miss many bets when it comes to taking care of its needy. It supports 65 families with the proceeds from a motion picture show given every Thursday at the Versailles School.

'TECHNOCRACY' SPURS STUDY OF ECONOMICS

(Editor's Note—Following is the fourth of a series of articles on technocracy, the new theory of government announced recently which has aroused international interest and controversy.)

By FRANCIS TYSON
Professor of Economics, University of Pittsburgh.

The interesting fact about technocracy to the economist is that its development is only one graphic instance of awakening interest of engineers and other physical scientists in economic and social science.

A truism of progressive economic thought holds that technical progress has of late far outrun moral progress; that is, the growth of economic inventiveness and organization has been retarded, and "cultural lag," to use an academe term, is one of the main problems of social science. Is man to control the machine, or is the machine his master?

CITES MELLON EXPERTS

On this general issue, to which widespread attention is now being directed by the "technocratic" publicity, may I comment favorably on the able report of Drs. E. R. Weidlein and W. A. Hamor, directors of the Mellon Institute, recently reviewed by the Sun-Telegraph. The review refers to "some changes in our present industrial system—changes which might help prevent future depressions and even lift this one."

The authors see clearly now that the great gains of industrial management cannot be maintained in the absence of continuing research in the field of economics—"consumption, distribution, purchasing power." Industry, they point out, has not supported science sufficiently to solve numerous problems of the machine environment.

Again, the chemist or other physical scientist, unfamiliar with the involved, specialized study of economics is prone to fall into egregious error about it. That is quite excusable, since most men are amateur economists, in a sense that they cannot be amateur engineers or physicists! To quote from the Mellon report:

"Hitherto, economics has concentrated largely on production; but now the study is shifting to distribution, in which province the problem appears to be more intricate."

COMMON ERROR

This is a common and interesting mistake of the non-student of economics. As a matter of fact, the emphasis on the study of production is quite new. Some of our younger men deem it the most constructive approach (they include the effects of income and wage trends, taxation, tariffs and other subventions, debts and the social services on the production of wealth) because they feel that "distribution" overemphasis leads only to conflict and revolutionary policies. This pragmatic point of view, however, is unorthodox, for "value" and the "distribution of wealth" have been the main, or exclusive concern of political economy since Malthus and Ricardo organized the study about 1800.

Through Mill, Jevons, the Austrians, Marx, Marshall, and, in the United States, Clark, Davenport, Fetter, Taussig, and a host of other great students, that approach has continued to characterize the science. Only with this century, in the work of W. C. Mitchell, of Columbia, and of the late Simon N. Patten, of Pennsylvania, and with Frederick W. Taylor, of scientific management game—one of the latter's engineering disciples—does the new emphasis on "production" become clear as a challenge to established tradition in economics.

INTEREST WELCOMED

But we have no quarrel with scientists or engineers who are really seeking knowledge of economics and its methods; we welcome their interest gladly. It is, indeed, just 18 years since, in the depression of 1914-15, at the University of Pittsburgh, we first called the attention of the Mellon Institute, then under the guiding genius of Robert Kennedy Duncan, to the vital need of adding economic and social research projects to the splendid research program in applied science. Later, others, who might be named, presented the same plea.

At last a beginning has been made in the work of the bureau of business research of the University of Pittsburgh, and in the bureau of social research, through the interest of the Buhl Foundation. The research program of the long range plan committee for stabilizing employment of the Allegheny County Emergency Association is being offered to the local industrial leaders as holding promise of constructive result.

What is a fair price to pay to find our way out of the economic dilemma? For each of the past three years we have sacrificed two-thirds of our annual national income (one hundred billion dollars at the peak)—a world's ransom—together with the untold suffering and defeat such loss has entailed for our people. Must we pay more before we accept the basic techniques of economic research and planning as tools for keeping our economic system in balance?

CIPHER SOLVERS GET HARD TEST

By KENNETH NAGEL
Cipher Editor.

Now for Cipher No. 33, another original by Frank E. Corbett. It's really tough. If you're fast you should have it completed before bedtime.

This cipher is generally called a Masonic Cipher and was used by the Free Masons many centuries ago. Don't let this antiquity hold you back. Here's the puzzle:

"Bogie" did this one in one hour flat. He sets your time between one and two hours.

How are you getting along with the ciphers? Write and let the Cipher Editor know. The Cipher Editor has received many letters praising the Sun-Telegraph for the original ciphers.

Did you solve Cipher No. 32? It was easy with that completed form in yesterday's Sun-Telegraph, wasn't it? Keep it up.

Tomorrow you will find the answer to Cipher No. 33 and another original one.

In the mail are letters and original ciphers from Malcolm Nevins, of New Kensington, Pa.; Frank Bracken, of Dormont, Pa.; E. E. Baker, of Coraopolis; Elvin Schoppert, of Hastings, Pa., and Frank Balowitz, of Wilmerding.

James A. R. Rich, of Oil City, Pa., and W. J. Hastings, of Coraopolis, Pa., two loyal and ardent fans, tell how they have solved the ciphers.

A new cipher fan is Patrick (Patty) Chardello, of 94 South Eleventh street. He says:

"These original ciphers are great. Last night I spent several delightful hours solving your ciphers. In fact, I was so interested that I started working on some of your earlier ones."

REFORM GROUPS TO FIGHT FOR SUNDAY LAW

Nineteen church, reform and other organizations were preparing a statewide campaign today in an effort to maintain the Sabbath laws.

Dr. R. H. Martin, president of the National Reform Association, made chairman of the group at a conference in Harrisburg on Wednesday, said today:

"We feel the law being general in its terms, prohibiting all secular labor and business, except work of necessity and mercy, can be interpreted by the courts.

"It is better to let the judiciary interpret the Sabbath laws, rather than the Legislative log-rolling interests with their financial backing."

Dr. Martin explained the delegates at the conference formulated a program of education and legislation. In each county of the state conventions will be held in January. Pastors throughout the towns and cities will be prevailed upon to speak on the Sabbath situation from the pulpit. Addresses and radio programs will also be arranged.

Organizations taking part in the campaign include the Lord's Day Alliance of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia Sabbath Association, Sabbath School Association of Western Pennsylvania, the Episcopal, Presbyterian, United Presbyterian, Methodist Protestant, Methodist Episcopal, United Brethren, Evangelical, United Lutheran, Reformed, Baptist churches, the Church of God, Pennsylvania Council of Churches, Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association, Pennsylvania W. C. T. U., State Grange and the National Reform Association.

'SLAIN' LAWYER HOAX HINTED

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The theory that R. S. McCoin, 60-year-old missing attorney of Henderson, N. C., was slain by robbers December 23, was exploded here today when police officials announced the former North Carolina State Senator was in Columbus the night of December 24.

Thomas Scully, assistant chief of Columbus detectives, said a police photograph of McCoin had been identified positively as that of a man who placed McCoin's automobile in a garage here Christmas eve. Scully said the identification was made by a man who talked with McCoin at the garage.

McCoin left North Carolina December 22. Several days later an official of that state received an anonymous letter saying the man had been killed by robbers and his body buried near Hagerstown, Md.

The missing man is a brother of Robert R. McCoin, of 2125 Penn avenue.

SHIP ABLAZE, 40 RESCUED

WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—A cargo of crude oil aboard, the tanker Doris Kellogg today was abandoned in flames approximately 25 miles southeast of Frying Pan shoals.

The Coast Guard cutter Yamacraw was standing by the Doris Kellogg last night while the Delaware Sun proceeded. It is carrying a cargo of oil from gulf points to Philadelphia.

The Yamacraw reported last night the Doris Kellogg was ablaze "from midships to aft." The size of the Doris Kellogg's crew was not known here but was estimated at almost 40.

Son of Johan Bojer, Novelist, Deported

DETROIT, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Halvard Bojer, son of Johan Bojer, Norwegian novelist, was on his way to New York today with a party of 60 aliens who are to be deported.

Bojer will be deported to Norway as "undesirable." He was arrested in Fort Wayne, Ind., November 21, because of a speech in which witnesses said he advocated overthrow of the government by force.

Douglas Fairbanks Has Plan To Make Elaborate Movie in China

(Copyright, 1932, King Features Synd., Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 30.

The picture Douglas Fairbanks proposes to make in China turns out to be the star's most ambitious project in years. To carry it through will require many months of shooting and the use of entire armies of men.

Doug sat on the arm of the barber chair in his dressing room yesterday and gave me a brief outline of his plan. To explain it fully, he said, would require hours.

In a few words, his idea is to photograph the parallel stories—one embracing the entire pageantry of Chinese history—the other a saga of a modern warlord who succeeds in uniting the multiple factions of his country, only to have them slip back out of his hands. Symbolically, the stories will illustrate that as soon as a man or a race learns laughter at self, the driving power of achievement is at an end.

Mr. Fairbanks

The germ of this idea Doug conceived to the tune of roaring motors while flying over a little town in Java. Once in China, he developed it through the co-operation of Tong Shou Yi, first prime minister of the country, and Dr. Shuh, leading Chinese scholar.

Anyone who has known Doug over a period of years has learned that these sudden enthusiasms often come to naught, but this time he appears to be unusally keen on his idea. He thinks enough of it, at least, to plan another trip to China as soon as he can wheedle Mary away from her picture work. On his second trip, he will make an exhaustive survey into the practicability of the project. If the results satisfy him, he will then return to Hollywood and organize a staff to put the undertaking over.

A group at a Hollywood late spot were reminiscing about New Years eves of other years.

Someone recalled the time when two cronies of John Barrymore turned up at his house to find him stretched out in an easy chair, pipe in his mouth and calmly reading.

Mr. Barrymore

"Here," they cried, "let's get going! Don't you know this is New Years Eve?"

Barrymore surveyed them coolly.

"Bah!" he snapped. "Amateur's night!"

The Mayfair Club is plenty burned over Elsa Maxwell's criticism of their parties as dull. They point out that one of the main objects of the Mayfair is to hold down expenses, and turn over profits to the motion picture relief fund. With just pride, they point out that this sum has never been under $5,000.

Some of the individual members of the club also are leveling criticisms at that big party which the London hostess engineered over the holidays for Gary Cooper. All in all, it looks like the makings of a swell argument.

When James Cagney pushed a grapefruit into Mae Clarke's face, the film public was startled and then entranced.

Miss White

Since then, the ingenuity of scenarists has been taxed to find new ways for the actor to push his leading women around. Latest idea is to have the red-headed star drive a ping-pong ball into Alice White's face. As this isn't so easy to do, the "Picture Snatcher" company prepared to take a half day to get the scene. But they figured without Cagney. On the first take, he smacked the celluloid pellet straight to Alice's eye. Even Alice cheered the coincidence. She charged it up to art.

They tell an amusing story about Ginger Rogers' Christmas. It seems the people who decorated Hollywood's Santa Claus Lane forgot to use a picture of Ginger. Consequently, Mervyn Leroy had a big replica made and put it on the top of her tree. He also played Santa with an ermine wrap.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The role of the "prince" in "The Student Prince," coming Monday to the Nixon to divide the first week of the New Year with "Blossom Time," booked for the last three days, will be sung by Allan Jones. Last season the part was in the hands of another Allan, surname Prior. This info for the benefit of the gals, so they won't get their Allans mixed. Mr. Jones was last heard in Pittsburgh two season ago—in concert. All of last summer he sang leading roles in the Municipal Opera of St. Louis. There will be a Wednesday matinee of "The Student Prince" and a Sat. mat of "Blossom Time."

"The First Mrs. Fraser," in which Margaret Anglin will be guest star of the George Sharp Players in the Pitt next week, Jean May will play the young woman who is the wife of a divorced man and hence is the second "Mrs. Fraser," Miss Anglin being "The First." Alden Chase and Hugh Banks will be seen as the sons of the elder woman, the play beginning when her former husband comes to ask her advice about the sitsheashyun he finds himself in.

Gamble Gets Role With Colbert, March

Warburton Gamble, prominent actor of the New York stage, will be seen in "The Queen Was in the Parlor," which co-stars Claudette Colbert and Frederic March. Other in this picturization of Noel Coward's play are Alison Skipworth, Arthur Byron, Paul Cavanagh, Clay Clement and Ethel Griffies. Stuart Walker will direct.

Triangle Film In Fulton

By MANUEL M. GREENWALD

The dissipations of youth of this era are brought to task in the Fulton this week in a little something titled "The Thrill of Youth," and our youngsters, after the due course of drama, are found to be a sane and sensible generation which will leave this world no worse, perhaps a little better, than they found it.

There are two polo-playing brothers, good Americans both of them, who happen to love the same girl. The difference is that one is enmeshed with other girls and the other is a scholarly sort, a faithful young man who knows how many volcanoes can be found in the Pacific Ocean and how much water is in the brain. And the girl is a nice young lady who is modern in snake-hipping to tom-tom music, but old-fashioned in that fine art of falling in love.

So the youthful triangle, abetted by a few complications in two previous generations, works out its own problems, and, in so doing, discloses the fact that the percentage of vice and virtue existing today is pretty much the same as it used to be in "the good old days." So there you are.

"The Thrill of Youth," while not always thrilling, is a tolerable concoction with Matty Kemp, Allen Vincent and June Clyde doing their best to defend dancing daughters and simple sons.

You will also find on the Fulton bill an enjoyable travelogue about the Faroe Islanders, with other short subjects.

Whoopee

Nat Nazzaro, Jr., will "master" the new floor bill on the Show Boat, opening tomorrow evening.

Fulton Sunday Show Stars Jack Oakie

Vina Delmar, author of "Bad Girl," also wrote "Uptown New York," starring Jack Oakie, which will be seen as a special preview attraction at the Fulton's New Years midnight show, beginning at 12:01, Sunday night. "Uptown New York" is now playing in the Paramount Theater, New York. It combines romance, comedy and a dramatic climax, and the cast includes Shirley Grey, Leon Waycoff, Lee Moran, Raymond Hatton and George Cooper.

Children's Play at Nixon Saturday Morning

"Sara Crewe, or the Little Princess," will be presented by the Children's Theater of New York in the Nixon at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. The play is by Frances Hodgson Burnett, produced under the direction of Clare Tree Major.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

HOTEL NOAILLES, MARSEILLES, FRANCE.—Well, I was right about this town. It's positively swell. In whispers, there are those who tell me that Marseilles holds more gangsters and roughnecks than any other town in France. They tell me, too, that plenty of men and women have disappeared most mysteriously while apparently enjoying themselves immensely here. They tell me these things, and much more along similar lines.

But who cares? I like the joint, and I like everything about it. The people take their time, nobody seems to work too hard, you can do as you please in a number of spots and the folks smile far more than they frown. I don't know what more you can ask for in any city.

This morning, for example, I went out to a small fishing village on the outskirts of Marseilles. I wanted to visit the Chateau d'If, which once housed the Count of Monte Cristo when that gentleman was imprisoned in the Harbor of Marseilles.

It was to hire a boat to take me to the old prison that I visited the fishing village. And there I met the finest and most picturesque set of characters that I have encountered on my entire voyage.

These people are real. They ask nothing more of life than to mend their nets, catch their fish, have their loved ones return safely from the sea, go to church, eat their meals and sleep in comfort.

That, at least, is the way they impressed me. When I spoke to them about hiring a boat, they did not request an exorbitant figure. More, they seemed only too anxious to serve me, regardless of price. And all this, mind you, in spite of the fact that I had several people plus camera equipment with me.

If I can digress for a moment, let me tell you that carrying motion picture equipment with you on a foreign tour is the most expensive proposition you can possibly encounter. If the price of anything is normally a dollar, it costs you two dollars because you are an American.

But if you are an American with a motion picture outfit—wow!! The price is not only automatically doubled; it is tripled and often quadrupled. Hence, when I strike a spot in which the people treat you as one of their own without regard to price, I am so startled that I cannot praise them enough.

On the way out to the Chateau d'If in the tiny boat I spoke to the guide about the situation.

"These are swell people," I said, motioning to my two boatmen. "They can't do enough to assist me. And what's more, their prices are doggone reasonable.

"It's strange, too. After all, they are very poor people. What can a fisherman earn? They could have taken advantage of me, and yet they didn't. And it's because they're willing to live on what they have, and because they're content with their lot. They're poor but"—

That seemed to be too much for my guide.

"If you please, sir," he interrupted, "I would not go too deeply into the economic system of these men if I were you.

"There is wealth in these fishing villages around here; far more than you would imagine. In many cases you find wealthier land owners here than you do in the city of Marseilles, itself. And if I may add another word, you will find out when you land that the price you pay is greater than the one you agreed upon."

And, by golly, the guide was right. When we returned to the fishing village my price was doubled because of some mysterious fishing bait that hadn't been used!!...

Out in the prison that once harbored the Count of Monte Cristo, I struck a situation as tough as the walls over which Monte was tossed into the sea. Aside from its reputation there was nothing unusual about the place. I've seen hundreds of old prisons like it. But the lady who had charge of the joint refused absolutely to permit any motion pictures to be taken.

After everyone had failed to budge her, Hellinger went to the rescue. I put on my phoniest smile and gave her plenty of that Broadway personality.

"Charming lady," I murmured, "I am not here to do you harm. I have come all the way to this beautiful prison in order to help you. I want to give publicity to this glorious spot so that people will flock to see it from all over the world.

But the old monkey was a tough customer. She said that the concession had been granted to a certain concern and that she would be in great trouble if she permitted me to take any pictures.

All of which made me all the more anxious. I told her she looked like Gloria Swanson, Clara Bow and Joan Crawford all rolled into one. I assured her that I would make a screen test of her, and who knew what it might lead to?

"All right," she returned. "If you can get permission from my husband, I'll let you do it."

"Fine," I cried. "And where is your husband? I'll ask him right away."

She seemed a trifle surprised.

"Oh," she said, "you will have to write to him. He is in Australia!" . . .

Well, it all comes under the head of experience. In spite of everything that happened today, I still think Marseilles is absolutely swell. It is peaceful, lovely, honest and quiet.

Such being the case, I'm leaving for Monte Carlo tonight. I can't stand it any longer . . .

Again last evening the debutantes went dancing and so did their sub-deb sisters, and many of their elders. The event of events for debutantes was the dinner-dance Thomas Mellon II gave last evening in the exclusive old Pittsburgh Club for three of the debs, his debutante cousin, pretty Patsy Mellon, Nancy Byers and Laura Childs.

The ballroom of the club was gay with green southern smilax and potted, flamboyant poinsettias. The stage was covered with green metal cloth and trimmed with smilax and poinsettias.

Covers were laid for nearly 200 guests at narrow tables for 14 arranged about the ballroom, and two larger tables near the stage.

200 at Affair

Long green containers filled with gay poinsettias centered the tables, lighted by tapers in silver holders. And holly entwined the chandeliers and the sidelights.

Brunette Patsy looked ever so attractive in a gown of white crepe trimmed in crystals. Several small entertainments have been given for her, and her mother may entertain for her after the holidays.

Among the out-of-town guests were Malcom Farmer, of New Haven, Conn.; Churchill Carey and Andrew Marckland, of Short Hills, N. J.; Leila Fiske, Barbara Webb and Patricia Hughes, of New York; and Janice Smith, of Syracuse; and Robert White and Hugh Chisholm, of New York; John Overholt, of St. Louis; and Morris Lloyd, of Philadelphia.

* * *

Then the younger school set had its first holiday dance last night in the Fox Chapel Golf Club, and will hold its second New Years Eve in the Pittsburgh Golf Club.

* * *

Mrs. Roy Hunt, Mrs. George Phelps Rose and Mrs. John F. Wadsworth will entertain at box parties at "Sara Crewe," to be given at the Nixon tomorrow morning, the December play sponsored by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—In its valedictory report, the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy today estimated the number of persons in the United States who can neither read nor write at 4,283,753.

The committee, appointed by President Hoover three years ago with Secretary Wilbur as chairman, will go out of existence at the end of this year. Exhaustion of funds was given as the reason.

Its work will be carried forward, however, by the National Illiteracy Crusade, an organization with offices in Washington.

Officers of British Ships Florida Guests

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Dec. 30.—Officers of H. M. S. Danae, British battle cruiser docked in Miami, were guests of honor on Tuesday night at the first of the season's monthly meetings of the Committee of One Hundred. The dinner party was given at the Surf Club by Mr. Peter T. Potts, Chicago, for more than 200.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lyman Wilbur have arrived from Washington, for a brief stay, the Seretary of Interior making the trip in the interest of the establishment of the tropical national park in South Florida.

Holiday festivities at the Surf Club, which began with the formal opening of the Marine grill on Christmas Day and were continued at a number of large luncheon parties during the week for the entertainment of the college contingent, will be concluded tomorrow with a New Years Eve dinner dance and a general club reception on New Years Day.

For the dinner dance the club has taken on the aspect of a glorified Christmas card with a setting at the end of a patio depicting an English snow scene, while hundreds of Christmas trees and huge candles form the illuminations in the patio and dining rooms. Unusual favors have been imported from Paris and a number of amusing surprises have been planned, according to Alfred I. Barton, Philadelphia, secretary.

LAST WORD IN EVENING DRESS DISPLAYED BY PARIS STYLISTS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Dec. 30.—This is the season of the year when Paris does its best in evening clothes. The theater season is in full swing; night clubs that are closed summer, spring and fall are opened again for the gala three winter months; the holidays have filled the city with innumerable private parties that demand the most formal of all formal clothes.

* * *

IN THE midst of all this display of formal dressing, it is simple to single out the certain few styles which French women have chosen from among the dozens of fashions launched at the beginning of the fashion season. The semi-long evening coat is one; the wide-shouldered effect in wraps with its contrast of very naked shoulders in gowns, is another; the very sheer stocking or the no-stocking-at-all fashion which demands a definite type of evening shoe that exposes the maximum of foot without crossing the barriers of good taste, is a third.

* * *

AMONG THE colors, it is especially interesting to note that there continues to be an absence of white. Not a complete absence—there are still a few white gowns and wraps, but these are usually marked with colored sashes with fur hems or with some other accent to alter the all-white effect that was so prominent in last year's fashions. Bright red and light blue are probably, numerically, the most successful of all the evening colors.

* * *

WITNESS, FOR example, the costume chosen by Madame Lelong, wife of the famous designer—a seven-eighths wrap of cherry red velvet over a pale blue dress. The shoes sketched are both by Enzel: the one a modified sandal in black doeskin with braided gold straps, the other an opera pump in pale blue velvet banded with pearl glace kid and buckled with brilliants.

Two Royal Princes Start Trips to Africa

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The Duke of Gloucester, third son of King George, accompanied by Capt. E. W. Brook, started today for Marseilles, France, en route to the Sudan in North Africa, where he will spend two months hunting.

Before starting, the Duke was notified by the war office that he had passed the promotion examination for the rank of major in the Hussars.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 20.—(AP.)—Prince Leopold, heir to the Belgian throne, accompanied by Princess Astrid, sailed today on an official mission of inspection to the Belgian Congo.

Mr. Whitney.

At the Morning Musicale, Hotel Schenley, yesterday, Hulda Lefridge presented one of our better Pittsburgh singers, Cass Ward Whitney, baritone, and Martha Bailey Walton, soprano, a newcomer in our concert rooms.

Mr. Lissfelt

Perhaps due to inclement weather, Whitney was not at his best vocally, for his voice is usually rich and full and most musical. If the habit of clipping phrases is a new development in his style he should guard against it, for it is particularly noticeable and annoying in such beautiful songs as the Strauss and Brahms. Among his English group Whitney offered a new song of Harvey Gaul apropos of these dismal times, an apt verse and a tragic setting, in which both composer and singer pleased their audience immensely. As encore came one of Geoffrey O'Hara's sea songs.

Mrs. Walton's voice is not developed to its fullest warmth and so does not realize its best quality. She offers interesting music, but it lacks distinction, even though a certain gaiety touches her public. Her encore was a pleasing novelty, Bassett's "The Icicle."

J. FRED LISSFELT.

SCHOOL BOARD PROBES BY COYNE, LEAGUE LOOM

POLITICS

Rule Change Proposal Gaining Impetus

By MARK SHIELDS

Proposal to change the rules of the House in the coming session of the Legislature, to compel a committee to act on a bill upon the demand of 60 or 65 members of the House, is gaining impetus. That was the rule until the late Representative Joseph Marcus, as chairman of the Rules Committee a few sessions back, instituted the change necessitating the vote of 105 members to bring a bill from committee when the smaller group wished to bury it.

Mr. Shields

The change was put through by the Republican organization when it controlled the House but did not wish the minority, then made up of Independent Republicans, to have power to get a bill to the floor for open, and at times embarrassing, discussion. The result was to give committees almost absolute power, and it was common comment that the Legislature had become almost entirely a body in which all legislating was by committee, and not in the light of free discussion, with the public able to listen in.

* * *

Bills Strangled In Darkness

Bills important to general interest have been strangled in darkness, unable to get a majority because their import was not fully revealed. If the people back home had been afforded the education of legislative discussion they might have brought pressure upon members for approval. More than once the fate of a bill has been changed because its benefits or shortcomings have been ventilated in debate.

But under the present rule this could not happen to a bill a committee did not wish to report, unless 105 members, a constitutional majority of the House, were committed to it. And working against even this measure of disciplining a committee has been the worn-out fetish of "courtesy" to committee members.

* * *

Attacked Group Saved From Rebuke

Efforts to cause the discharge of a committee are met with the cry that it is an insult to the integrity of the group, and that insincere cry is potent. Not because there is any substance to the plaint, but because usually a sufficient number of members of other committees save the attacked group from a rebuke which might be visited on associates.

With the rule requiring only 60 or 65 to discharge a committee this same fear would not obtain, and there would be a sufficiency of men without great committee influence, or able to withstand intimidation, to force an open vote.

Chances for changing the rule do not lie in any sudden access of virtue on the part of the Republican majority. The question of expediency enters, and is a counter-offensive against the effort of the Democrats and Independent Republicans to deprive the Speaker—who will be an organization man—of authority to name committees. The organization, frowningly counting noses, does not know whether it has the votes to uphold the Speaker's power.

* * *

Story Different In Rules Contest

All Republicans will vote for the organization speakership choice, the Pinchot group not desiring to take on the atmosphere of irregularity which might have arisen through a combination with the Democrats on this issue. But on the subject of the rules the story is different.

No average voter would think that the Independent Republicans had bolted any party principle if they voted to have committees named by a Committee on Committees, rather than the Speaker. Organization leaders are aware of this, and see the danger in the situation.

In that spirit, it is reported that overtures already have been made to some recalcitrants, offering relaxation of the rule governing the discharge of a committee in return for a vote to empower the Speaker to appoint the committees.

* * *

Not a Bad Deal From Either Standpoint

It wouldn't be a bad deal from either standpoint. The organization would control the committees, could see that bills were considered by groups sympathetic to organization principles.

Yet at the same time the Independents and the Democrats on any meritorious piece of legislation would be able to muster the 60 or 65 votes to order the report of a bill. That, after all, is the real issue in this whole question of committee controversy, whether any party or faction shall have the strength to bury legislation which a substantial number in the House wish, and which might really be desired by a majority of the citizens of the state.

Between now and next Tuesday there will be many conferences, portentous whisperings and active conniving. There may emerge the stand-off above outlined as now under consideration.

OATH IS TAKEN BY STADTFELD

Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of the Superior Court, who last month was elected a judge of that court for a period of 10 years, was sworn in late yesterday afternoon by Prothonotary Pier Dannals, of the Superior Court.

The proceeding was informal, the oath being administered in Dannals' private office. The only others present aside from office attaches were Mrs. Stadtfeld and their son, Attorney Harold R. Stadtfeld.

Judge Stadtfeld was appointed a member of the Superior Court last year by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, succeeding Judge James B. Drew, who became a Supreme Court Justice.

Security Group Seeks 25,000 New Members

A committee of 18 today was completing plans for a county-wide campaign for 25,000 members to the Pennsylvania Security League. The league is pledged to work and vote against every legislator or state official who opposes the old-age pension amendment, minimum wage for women and minors, unemployment insurance and "decent" relief in hard times. Dr. Ralph S. Boots, of the University of Pittsburgh, presided. Stephen Raushenbush, director of the State Bureau of Industrial Relations, was the principal speaker.

Still, Mash Found In Republic House

A 350-gallon still, 36 barrels of mash, 135 gallons of moonshine and 50 pounds of yeast, were found by prohibition agents yesterday in an unoccupied house in Park avenue, Republic.

An odor of moonshine led the agents to the cellar of the house, where they obtained a view of the still through a window. Mrs. Frank James and her son, Patsy James, were arrested, agents said.

POLICE IMPORT CHARGE PROBED

Complaints that five of the six special policemen employed at the new postoffice and federal building, Grant street and Seventh avenue, and paid by the contractor, are "imported" are being investigated by John B. Fogarty, president of Fort Pitt Lodge, No. 1, Fraternal Order of Police, and Miss M. Emmelinne Pitt, local commissioner for the United States Department of Labor.

The complaints also are to be filed with Director James M. Clark of the Department of Public Safety. The employment of the out-of-town men was said to be at variance with a general policy of the Treasury Department, in charge of the building construction, to give preference to local workmen.

Basketball Player Falls Dead in Cage

A basketball game between St. Michael's Midgets and the Lecki Juki five at St. Michael's Lyceum, 22 Pius street, ended abruptly when Abraham Albert, 18, of 1207 Carson street, guard on the latter team, fell dead last night.

Mr. Albert

Albert collapsed on the floor at the end of the first quarter. He was taken to South Side Hospital, where he was pronounced dead from a heart attack.

MARRIAGE DROP CHECKED HERE

If marriage license figures reflect business conditions, then Pittsburgh, like Chicago, is on the up-grade commercially.

Figures at the Marriage License Bureau here reveal a decrease of 30 per cent in June—Cupid's boom month—against the same period in 1931. But December's wane promises to be only about 16 per cent. An Associated Press dispatch from Chicago yesterday reported a similar upward trend there.

Pittsburgh, however, apparently has taken it "on the chin" in competition with the Windy City for the favor of Cupid. The drop here for all 1932 was approximately 20 per cent below last year, while Chicago's was only 15 per cent.

These figures indicate the effect of the industrial trend upon the marriage rate here:

Ten thousand two hundred and ninety-four licenses in 1929, 9,170 in 1930; and 7,312 this year.

FAIL TO SOLVE TAG TANGLE

The decision of Judge M. A. Musmanno, rendering invalid more than 100,000 tags for traffic violations, was discussed yesterday by Traffic Magistrate J. Scott Morgan and City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt. After their conference it was announced no plan had been reached by which the city could take an appeal.

There are several matters to be cleared up and information to be obtained before a decision on procedure can be reached, Waldschmidt said.

New Year Resolutions Out of Style for 1933

1933 Will Be Better--At Least It'll Be Different

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

With the old year kicking in the grease we look forward to 1933.

France will pay us all the gold it can stack on Chevalier's lower lip.

We'll get beer. But we will get decimal poisoning with it.

The school teachers will be promised their last year's pay next year.

New York hotels will nail their windows down. When a guest wants to leave a room he will have to use the door.

Because of his rheumatism Cal Coolidge will continue to do his trout fishing in a cornfield.

A special session of Congress will give us everything we voted for except what we want.

And we will be much happier than we were in 1932 because we will be used to it.

Plan Old-Fashioned, People Questioned Here Declare

Don't make any New Year resolutions—it's not the thing.

Dozens of Pittsburghers interviewed at random in the downtown business district today agreed unanimously the person who makes resolutions is old-fashioned. Resolutions are too easy to break, so people are just not going to make any.

The Gillespie sisters, of 1213 Center street, Wilkinsburg, were the first to give their opinions. Miss Addaline Gillespie said:

"I haven't been making any resolutions in the past several years. I don't believe in them."

Her sister, Dorothy, chimed in with:

"I never made any in my life, and I'm not going to start now."

Stephen Zielinski, of 117 Steuben street, declared:

"A cab driver make resolutions! Not on your life. He would only break them while he was making them."

Marie Debran, of 115 Orchard street, McKees Rocks, who works in a drug store isn't making any. She said:

"Resolutions are just bunk, anyway."

Policeman Theodore Hoover, of 811 Niedel street, summed up the age-old habit of making resolutions by saying:

"Resolutions are only made to be broken."

Two Men Arrested As Robber Suspects

Two burglar suspects, one of whom is said to have admitted they planned robberies in East Liberty and Squirrel Hill districts were under arrest in the Squirrel Hill Police Station today. The suspects said they were James O'Donnell, 31, Negro, of 433 Third avenue, and John Sninisky, 24, of 438 Beech way, both of Homestead.

Prof. Lessenberry Named by Teachers

Prof. D. D. Lessenberry, director of commercial education at the University of Pittsburgh, was elected vice president of the Commercial Teachers' Federation at its final session of its meeting in Chicago today.

PENNSY HONORS RETIRING VET

Officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad this afternoon were to attend the presentation of a testimonial signed by hundreds of railroad men to Joseph W. Walker, chief air brake inspector at Pennsylvania Station, who is retiring from active service after more than 50 years with the company. Walker, regarded one of the outstanding air brake authorities in the country, began his service with the Pennsylvania company when hand brakes were in general use.

Mr. Walker

He was instrumental in the development of air brake instruction cars on the road, all of which were built under his direction. Before entering the air brake field he was an engineer. It was while operating a shifting engine in Johnstown at the time of the flood that he aided in removing scores of people from their homes in the lower section of the town before the dam broke. When the dam let go the following morning his brother-in-law, John C. Hess, engineer on a work train, raced his engine down the valley ahead of the raging waters, warning the people with roaring whistle that the flood had struck the town.

Walker lives at 333 West street, Wilkinsburg.

Hotel Guest Falls 6 Stories to Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Edward F. Janes, of Des Moines, Ia., was killed today when he accidentally fell, police said, from a six-story window of a midtown hotel where he had been living.

The body, clad only in trousers, landed in Broadway near Forty-third street, the location of the Cadillac Hotel. Police said Janes apparently lost his balance while standing in front of an open window.

Youth Accidentally Slain by Boy, 13

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 30.—Andrew Sargus, 24, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sargus, of Daisytown, near here, was killed last night when a gun was accidentally discharged by his friend Joseph Eobscinsky, 13, also of Daisytown. They were returning from target practice, according to Coroner Joseph Tinko, when the accident occurred.

Battle of Bottles Brings Fines for 2

Because he hid the whisky bottle from his sister-in-law, she threw a milk bottle at him and a fight ensued in which both and a baby were injured, Robert Bach, 48, of High street, testified in Morals Court today. Bach and the sister-in-law, Mrs. Julia Bach, were fined $25 each. Mrs. Bach's grandchild, Edward, 17 months old, was treated for cuts at Allegheny General Hospital.

AARON ASSAILS CRITICS IN TAX CUT FIGHT

Real Estate Men Name Committee to Scan Education Costs

Investigation of the expenditures of the Board of Public Education loomed today in two quarters as Marcus Aaron, its president, struck back at his critics, suggesting that State Senator James J. Coyne "might well disavow his discredited auditors and at least part of his committee."

The Community Research Bureau of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, Aaron said, leads "in the campaign of misrepresentation and false financial theories" which has been waged to lower the school tax.

SURVEY ORDERED

A survey of school expenses has been made part of the program of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners' and Taxpayers' League, it was learned, while it seems probable that several members of the school board will be called by the Coyne legislative committee.

I. Leonard Aronson said an investigating and survey committee has been appointed which will check the salary of each board employe and the services for which he is paid.

Members of the league committee include Attorney Harry Shapera, chairman; Attorney Andrew G. Smith, James H. Graham, Frank E. Shaughnessy and L. L. Lauve. They will investigate and report within 15 days, Aronson declared.

Senator Coyne, whose committee met yesterday, said he would determine within the next week whether his committee has the power to summon the officials for questioning.

BOARD CRITICISED

The Board of Education was criticized by a sub-committee which reported that efforts to have the board reduce the millage for next year were in vain. Robert L. McKallip, chairman of the sub-committee, reported that the Community Research Bureau of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board had offered a tentative budget under which the Board of Education could reduce taxation 1 mill, but that this was spurned.

The reduction suggested by the realtors was figured by estimating tax collections for next year at 77 per cent, as compared with the 75 per cent estimate of the school board, and by using about $1,000,000 instead of approximately $400,000 out of the general fund balance of $1,200,000.

The Board of Education in a statement defending its stand, challenged those who favor the 77 per cent estimate of collections to produce bankers who would say that the school board will collect more than 70 per cent of its levy next year.

AARON'S REPLY

Aaron said:

"I have no personal quarrel with Senator Coyne. Upon disclosure of the snooping around the schools by men who claimed to represent the Coyne committee they were disavowed and discredited by the Senator.

"I might suggest that he might well disavow his discredited auditors and at least part of the committee which he appointed to investigate school costs.

"I very much question the propriety and the reasonableness of any conclusion of men sitting as members of the Coyne educational investigating committee and at the same time representing the Community Research Bureau of the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board, leading in the campaign of misrepresentation and false financial theories.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 30.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Did you see the list of refunded income taxes? If anything should prove that a sales tax was a fair tax it is the uncertainty of income tax. Through no one's particular fault, people pay in a lot of money then in a year or so they get it back, then others think they have paid it all up. Then in a year or so the government wants more. There is no expert living that knows exactly what is, and what ain't allowed.

Will Rogers

Remember, today, tomorrow, Sunday and Monday are the people's last three days of mind relaxation. Congress meets Tuesday. Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Have any of you seen my friend, Charlton Ogburn, Jr., late of Harvard?

Blonde Frequent Guest Of Slain Undertaker

A pretty platinum blonde was a frequent visitor of Canada Adams, slain Frankstown avenue Negro undertaker, according to testimony introduced at an inquest before Coroner W. J. McGregor at which Deputy Coroner M. F. Leslie was rebuked for carelessness in handling the alleged murder weapon.

The white woman, separated from her husband, was probably a visitor to the Negro's quarters a short time before he was slain November 20, according to Homicide Detectives Robert Carroll and John O'Hanlon.

Leslie was upbraided when Detective Thomas Donahoe testified proper precautions had not been observed in handling the gun found near Adams' body. McGregor said:

"Mere schoolboys with no instructions whatsoever bring me revolvers in cases of this sort with fingerprints carefully preserved."

Mrs. Minnie Adams, widow of the murdered man, was also a witness. She found the body when she became alarmed over her husband's absence from home.

The Coroner's verdict was that Adams came to his death by gunshot wounds fired by an unknown person or persons.

$100,000 SCHOOL RELIEF BATTLE LOOMS BEFORE COUNCIL

COMMUNISTS TO ATTEND HEARING

Administration of relief to needy children in the city's public schools, including the distribution of milk and other food, was to be discussed today in City Council.

Today's meeting was arranged as the result of the Board of Education's recent request for $100,000 to be used in relief work among school children. The $100,000, if assigned to the board, will be taken from the city $800,000 relief bond issue.

Those who were to attend the meeting include representatives of the board, and of the Allegheny County Emergency Association. The Emergency Association has asked Council to take no action on the board's request until the association has had time to present its program for such relief.

It was expected Miss Edith Briscoe, Communist worker, and several of her associates would also attend today's hearing to enter a plea in behalf of South Side and Hill district children. Miss Briscoe, leading a large group of children, appeared in Council Wednesday and requested a hearing. Council President John S. Herron told her to come back today.

Miss Briscoe has said she intends to ask Council for $250,000 with which to buy milk, clothing and hot lunches for needy school children.

TEACHERS PUSH PAY CUT FIGHT AT HOMES

HARRISBURG, Dec. 30.—AP.—Urging a state income tax and levies on "intangible wealth" before teachers' salaries cuts are considered, members of the Pennsylvania State Education Association today carried their case to their home cities.

At the conventions, which closed late yesterday, the teachers sponsored a campaign to counteract "definitely misleading" statements of the Pennsylvania education problem and to disseminate "accurate information" through their own membership.

OPPOSE 'LOBBYING'

Asserting "active lobbying" by its members in the houses of the Legislature is "ill-advised," the convention declared this should not be practiced. Instead, the 60,000 teachers were urged to make a concerted effort to acquaint the public with the various angles of the question.

The convention emphasized that much of the increased cost of the state's educational system during the last decade has been due to the lengthening of the school period. The highly mechanized industry of recent years has eliminated jobs formerly filled by young people and "the only alternative to school for a youth under 18 is the life of idleness."

The delegates unanimously recommended "no reduction of any sort" in state appropriations to school districts, opposing "any retrenchment which will in any way tend to deprive the youth of today of rightful opportunities."

URGE INCOME TAX

To finance state subsidies to education at their present or higher levels, the convention urged the state to "accept the responsibility of a larger share of the school costs by providing an income tax, at least half of which shall be definitely allocated for school purposes." The delegates also called attention "to other forms of intangible wealth which comprises a large share of the wealth of the commonwealth and which, by the evasion of tax payments, are escaping their full share of the money needed for the support of governmental agencies."

While advocating the preservation of the Edmonds act without change, the convention favored temporary reductions in minimum salaries as a last resort. Should slashing of instructional salaries be necessary under the present emergency, however, the teachers urged that these reductions be commensurate with the cuts of state, county and municipal government salaries.

The association chose Philadelphia as the 1933 convention city and adjourned after installing its re-elected officers.

BANDITS ELUDE POLICE CHASE

A bandit trio who held up Edward D. Murray, driver for the Baur Brothers Bakery, and robbed him of $33 late yesterday, escaped after a two-mile chase by a North Side radio car.

About to make a delivery at Progress and Pine streets, Murray was confronted by two armed men and ordered to drive his truck to River avenue. After robbing him the pair joined a companion in a waiting automobile.

After purchasing a package of cigarets in Russell's cigar store, 400 Federal street, a man reached into the cash register when the clerk rung up the sale, snatched $20 in cash and fled. Benjamin Troy, the clerk, ran into the street after the thief, but he escaped.

Two bandits held up Isaac Sigal in his confectionery at 1610 Webster avenue and escaped with $10 last night. Sigal was forced into a rear room by the pair.

CASINO SAVED FROM PADLOCK

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(Universal.)—The Central Park Casino, long favorite resort of former Mayor Walker and rendezvous of those who can still pay 1929 prices, was saved yesterday from prohibition's padlock.

Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson ruled that men and women have the right to gather in a public place and dismissed the government's suit which contended the casino was a drinking place.

He agreed that the evidence showed that "guests brought in liquor and used it there," but the judge added:

"It is clear the management did not keep or sell the liquor in accordance with the nuisance act."

DIETITIANS O. K. COOKIE RAIDS

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(A.P.)—Three hundred nutrition experts from the country at large think it's all right if your child occasionally raids the cookie jar.

Lulu G. Graves, consultant in nutrition and diet therapy, announced that this was the decision obtained in a survey of hospital dietitians and others on the question: "Are cakes and cookies wholesome for children?" Miss Graves said:

"Cakes and cookies made from good milk, eggs, sugar and butter or vegetable shortening constitute a good food for children as well as adults."

Dr. Lewellys F. Barker, of Baltimore; Grace H. Hunter, chief dietitian of the Walter Reed General Hospital in Washington; Miss Ruth Bowden, dietitian of the Potter Memorial Clinic, Santa Barbara, Cal.; Dr. Reginald Fitz, of Boston, and Hughina McKay, chairman of the foods and nutrition division of the School of economics, Ohio State University, were among those concurring in this belief.

Mulvihill, according to the police docket, said he lived at 7236 Hermitage street, but at that address it was denied he resided there.

SCHOOL COSTS PROBE SOUGHT

and I protest their attempt to sit as judges for the Coyne Committee and at the same time act as critics and district attorney for another group.

"The criticisms reported in the newspaper are outrageously false and misleading. Within two hours after receiving a full copy of the report of the committee I propose to make answer in no uncertain terms."

ASSESSMENT COST

McKallip's committee is investigating, in addition to the school board, the cost of assessments of property in the city and county, and the operation of the Board of Viewers.

McKallip recommended legislation to eliminate duplicate work of assessments by the city and county bodies in the city. He proposed a bill to give the county authority to accept the figures of the city assessors in the city. The committee also stated that the collection of taxes on personal property could be increased to add considerably to the revenue of the county.

McKallip, in reporting on the school board, said:

"We are not prepared to recommend that the officers of the board should be elected by the people. We do think, however, that these positions should rotate, and that a director of the board, after serving the term for which appointed, should not succeed himself.

"With reference to the question of salaries, it is our opinion that the Edmunds act should be repealed or amended in such a way that local boards should have more jurisdiction over the question of salaries for teachers—at least during the next two years—and that the present provision of the Edmunds act, calling for statutory increases for teachers, be done away with for at least the next two years."

BUDGET CONTROL URGED

The committee stated that there are at present 243 taxing units in Allegheny County, each having the power to levy taxes. McKallip suggested legislation to set up a budget control bureau to give taxpayers recourse in the matter of tax levies. He stated:

"It is our opinion that a bureau should be established by the state, whereby appeals on budgets of these taxing units could be heard, thereby eliminating any opportunity for arbitrary attitude on the part of tax-levying bodies, either appointed or elected by the people."

J. J. McGonigle, another auditor working with the committee said that he had discovered that C. L. Wooldridge, Inc., was hired in 1926 as a consulting engineer to help with the design of buildings. Wooldridge is paid one-half of one per cent of the total cost of each new building. In addition he is given a similar percentage for any contemplated additions to such buildings. He said that Wooldridge already has been paid for buildings which will not be built for years.

Senator Coyne asked if the public had any guarantee to get a refund in case something happened to Wooldridge.

McGonigle said also that Wooldridge makes annual inspections of the 188 buildings and is paid $60 for each, or a total of more than $11,000 annually.

Senator Coyne branded this as a waste of money inasmuch as the city inspectors and the Fire Prevention Bureau make regular inspections of the same buildings and that the school board has its own Bureau of Building Inspection.

MARK HANNA'S DAUGHTER DIES

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabel Hanna Parsons, 61, elder daughter of the late Senator Marcus A. Hanna, died in a hospital last night.

She underwent an operation for appendicitis Christmas Day, shortly after being stricken at her home. Her sister, Mrs. Albert G. Simms, formerly Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, was called to her bedside.

Mrs. Parsons was the widow of Harry A. Parsons, who died in 1924. She was born in Cleveland and lived here throughout her life.

MAN RESCUED FROM FLAMES

James McGague, 65, was rescued from the top floor of his home, 504 Twelfth avenue, Munhall, by a Homestead fireman when fire destroyed the interior of the residence.

Munhall Councilman John J. Hickey, who lives opposite the McGague home, warned him not to come down the stairs. McGague crawled to the porch roof, where he was rescued by Fireman Michael Mulhern.

The interior of the two-and-a-half-story brick building was destroyed. Fire Chief Edward Cox, of Munhall, estimated the damage at $15,000.

Shot in Christmas Battle, Man Dies

Samuel Farmer, 17, a Negro, of North End avenue, Ross Township, died last night in Allegheny General Hospital from shotgun wounds received Christmas Day in the home of Evan Adams, of 29 North End avenue, according to a Coroner's report.

Farmer and his brother, Andrew, 27, were alleged to have gone to the Adams home with a shotgun to "get" him for being friendly with Andrew's common-law wife, according to the report. Adams is in the county jail.

His program includes speeches before high school and college student bodies, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. groups, civic organizations and church congregations of all denominations, according to Dr. R. H. Martin, former president of Geneva College, now president of the National Reform Association.

TRADE LEADERS AID HOSPITALS IN DISTRICT

Leaders of "big business" in Western Pennsylvania are showing a deeper concern in the plight of hospitals than ever before, according to officers of the Hospital Conference of Pittsburgh, meeting this afternoon in St. Margaret's Memorial Hospital.

The commonly accepted picture of hospital board members being able to make up any deficit has been thoroughly dispelled by the change in economic conditions, H. Lee Mason, Jr., executive committee chairman of Allegheny General Hospital, declared today. He said:

"The whole voluntary structure of hospitals is threatened, due to losses in revenue and collapse of voluntary support. I mean by this that thousands who had always liberally supported hospitals have been forced out of the financial picture by shrinkage of personal fortunes.

NEW DEAL SEEN

"The strongest hospital support of modern times, therefore, is tottering. Out of the existing emergency must come a new deal for hospitals."

People expect a hospital to take everything that comes, to spare no expense in saving lives, Mason added, but seldom trouble as to where the money will come from. Few realize, he said, that the average hospital today is hard pressed for funds to meet daily needs. He continued:

"The man who pays his hospital bill is making his money do double duty. Every dollar is put to prompt use in caring for the indigent sick."

REVENUES SLASHED

Henry J. Yearick, one of the officers of the conference, stated:

"With all revenues reduced, hospitals are finding their directorates, which have stood back of them in many emergencies, are powerless to aid in the present crisis. And public-spirited men and women who have given time and money without stint are today near the end of their resources."

Communities which want their people to be adequately hospitalized, Yearick said, will have to recognize the precarious situation of their hospitals, intensified by the disappearance of staunch support of the past.

FIRST NIGHTERS STORM 'ROXY'

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The gigantic "Roxy" entertainment project was in full blast today after the second spectacular "First Night" in one week—a first night at which 200 police struggled to keep back ticketless throngs.

S. L. (Roxy) Rothafel, amusement director, triumphantly opened the RKO Roxy Theater in Rockefeller Center last night, only 48 hours after inaugurating the huge music hall in the same $250,000,000 development.

Although all tickets were gone, throngs gathered outside the lobby, with its solid bronze box offices, yellow numidian marble walls and shimmering fountain. They stayed to watch dozens of noted persons enter the theater, among them Will H. Hays, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., David Sarnoff, Owen D. Young, Fannie Ward, Cecil DeMille, Amelia Earhart Putnam and Edward G. Robinson.

Besides the world premiere of "Animal Kingdom," with Ann Harding and Leslie Howard, there were dance numbers, songs, patter and instrumental music.

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—An Eagle Scout from Tulsa, Okla., Hugh S. Davis, will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson on a two-year trek through the African jungles. The Johnsons sail Saturday for Cape Town.

Davis, an assistant scoutmaster and a Boy Scout for 11 years, will be the photographer for the Johnson expedition.

Small Paper Scraps Hold Lutton Will

Santa Gets Blame For Air-Gun Havoc

BELLWOOD, Ill., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—If the city fathers of Bellwood ever get their hands on Santa Claus they're going to make him feel uncomfortable. He delivered an unusually heavy load of air rifles in the village and to date the cost in street lights has reached $300 at $10 per light.

Racketeers Bomb Phila. Bottle Plant

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—A time bomb exploded in the office of a bottle supply company here early today, destroying a large quantity of bottles, shattering window panes and damaging a nearby truck.

Police believe the bomb was "planted" by racketeers.

Man Afire Runs Around Hunting For Blaze

BUCYRUS, O., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The next time John Banks smells smoke he'll inspect his trousers before he looks anywhere else for the fire.

Banks, custodian of the City Hall, backed up to the stove when he arrived at work somewhat chilled after a brisk walk.

A moment later, he smelled smoke. He hustled into the Mayor's office, then into police headquarters, finally into the courtroom, looking for the fire. Then Officer James Ghist shouted:

"Hey! Your pants are on fire."

One trouser leg was ruined.

Merchant, 60, Falls Dead in His Store

Fred Markman, 60, fell dead last night in his fruit market, 313 Cedarville street, according to the Coroner's report. Death was attributed to cerebral hemorrhage.

MINE GIVES UP 54TH VICTIM

MOWEAQUA, Ill., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—The Shafer coal mine was quiet today.

The last chapter of its story of death has been written. Late yesterday the rescue workers, toiling in the far end of the north entry, brought their five days of labor to an end when they stumbled on the last seven victims—dead.

Thus, all of those 54 breadwinners who went down into the depths of the earth last Saturday morning have been accounted for. All are dead.

It was not until those last seven bodies were found that the cause of the explosions which signalized the catastrophe could be surmised. Among those seven was the body of Mike Potsick, father of 16 children. He lay just inside the door of the "face entry," and it was believed that the moment he opened the door his lamp ignited an accumulation of gas, setting off the double blast.

PRUDENCE PENNY'S RECIPES

IN CASE YOU'RE in any doubt about the approval which great men have always given to the succulent oyster, know that down through the pages of history, all countries have produced records of a fondness for oysters by their famous citizens.

Callistenes, the philosopher, was an enthusiastic oyster-eater; so was Caligula, the Roman Emperor, and Cicero, who has been described as nourishing his eloquence with the dainty. In later days, Louis XV of France feasted the learned doctors and professors of the Sorbonne once a year on oysters, lest their scholarship become deficient.

NAPOLEON FOND OF THEM

Napoleon was very partial to the bivalve; his countryman, Marshall Turgot, the financier, was reported to have consumed a hundred oysters before breakfast, just by way of whetting his appetite.

Certainly, it is true that the oyster is not only a delicious morsel, but one of the most nutritious of foods. The time has passed when we eat a luscious bluepoint and remain conscious only of how grateful it is to an epicure's palate.

ALMOST PERFECT DIET

Placing the oyster under the microscope, the food chemist has discovered important facts which establish the bivalve as a practically perfect food. In fact, we have learned that oysters supply more nearly than any other food, with the exception of milk, the balanced diet for all of us.

Oysters are recommended for the growing child's diet because of their iodine content. They contain 200 times more iodine than eggs, milk or beefsteak. Only recently a prominent health authority in New York pointed out that "sea food once a week is desirable in order to provide the body with the minute qualities of iodine so necessary to health."

If the children relish oysters, by all means serve them once a week. If the rest of the family enjoy them, you will no doubt be called on to include them more often than that in the week's menus.

* * *

PIGS IN BLANKETS—Drain 12 oysters, wipe dry and lay each oyster across a thin slice of bacon. Sprinkle with paprika and chopped parsley, roll bacon around oyster, securing with a wooden toothpick. Brown slowly in oven and serve very hot.

* * *

OYSTER LOAF—Cut a long loaf of bread into slices about 2 inches thick. Trim off the crust and make each piece square. Dig out the center of each piece, leaving sides and bottom like a box; that is, make a square box out of each slice of bread. Brush each box over with melted butter and put in a quick oven until a light brown. Fill with creamed oysters and serve.

* * *

OYSTER POTATO PIE—Boil a dozen medium potatoes. Mash with butter and liquor from oysters. In a baking dish place a layer of mashed potatoes and then a layer of oysters. Sprinkle with a little finely chopped parsley and season with salt and pepper. Repeat until the dish is filled, letting the potatoes compose the top layer. Put in a hot oven for a few minutes to brown. This recipe requires about 50 oysters.

* * *

MEXICAN BAKED OYSTERS—1 quart large oysters and liquid, ½ cup cracker or bread crumbs, ½ cup catsup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup grated American cheese, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper.

Mix the oysters and crumbs. Put in buttered casserole. Combine catsup, Worcestershire sauce, salt and pepper. Pour mixture over oysters, sprinkle with cheese and dot with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until cheese is melted and oysters curled. Serve very hot and garnish each portion with sliced dill pickle.

OYSTER CASINO—30 oysters in the shell, lemon juice, buttered crumbs, pepper and salt, 30 1-inch squares sliced bacon.

Wash and open the oysters. Into each shell put a half teaspoon strained oyster juice, a few drops lemon juice, then the oyster sprinkled with salt and pepper and covered with buttered crumbs. On each lay an inch square of bacon and set in a hot, 400 to 450-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. Shallow ovenware dishes, with the half-shells embedded in coarse salt, are excellent for this purpose. The salt keeps the shells from tipping during baking. If shells are not available, use shallow ramekins for each portion.

* * *

MONDAY NIGHT OYSTERS—1 tablespoon butter, 1 tablespoon flour, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1 tablespoon catsup, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 15 oysters.

Melt the butter in a saucepan, add the flour, stir until smooth and add the seasonings. Blend well. Drain the oysters and add to the sauce. Cook the oysters until plump. Serve on toast.

* * *

CRAB CROQUETTES—2 tablespoons fat, 1-3 cup flour, 1 cup milk, 2 cups canned crabmeat, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon mustard, egg and crumbs.

Make a white sauce, using the fat, flour and milk. Add the shredded crabmeat, which has been seasoned with lemon juice and mustard. Cool, shape, dip in flour, then in egg; roll in crumbs and fry in deep fat (375 degrees to 390 degrees) from two to five minutes. Serve with a cream tomato sauce.

* * *

CRABMEAT IN ASPIC—3 small cans of crabmeat, 1 cup chili sauce, ½ cup chopped celery, 1 green pepper, chopped; juice of 1 lemon, 1 teaspoon salt, 4 level teaspoons gelatin, ½ cup cold water, 2 cups boiling stock.

Shred crabmeat and mix with the chili sauce, celery, green pepper and salt. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes; add to the boiling stock. When cold, add lemon juice and mix all together and fill in a ring mold. Fill center with cucumber salad and serve with the following dressing: 1 cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons chili sauce, strained; 3 tablespoons lemon juice, ⅛ teaspoon salt.

Mix all together and put in bowl to be passed for salad.

BEEFSTEAK SUPREME—Have your butcher cut thick, from the top of the round, a steak weighing about 1½ pounds. Place this steak flat upon a board and cut several grooves in it with a sharp knife, making sure you do not cut entirely through the steak, but sufficiently large to hold the following: ¼ teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon allspice, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ¼ teaspoon bread crumbs.

Now carefully roll the steak and tie securely with string so the filling will not fall out, then place in a stewing kettle into which you already have sufficient hot drippings to brown the steak nicely on all sides. While the steak is browning, skin six to eight large tomatoes, quarter and add to the browned steak, together with 2½ cups water, which is about equal to 1 quart can of tomatoes.

Allow this to simmer for an hour, or until the steak is tender. Add more water if necessary. The tomatoes cook into a delciously seasoned dressing, which is served around the meat on the platter, and when served with French fried potatoes, a salad and dessert, a very palatable dinner is ready to serve four people.

* * *

TOASTED COCOANUT CAKE—1½ cups sugar, ¾ cup butter, 3 eggs, 1 cup water, 3 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

All measurements level. Sift flour once before measuring, add baking powder and resift. Sift two or three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, then add water and dry ingredients until light and fluffy. Then add eggs unbeaten, one at a time, beating hard after addition of each egg. Add flavoring. Bake in three layers in moderate oven 35 minutes.

ICING—5 tablespoons cream, 1 teaspoon butter.

Boil until butter is melted and then remove from the fire and add enough powdered sugar to make it of the consistency to spread and cover layers with it, then sprinkle each layer with toasted cocoanut and all over the top and sides of the cake. To toast cocoanut: Spread cocoanut evenly in a pan and put it in the oven, stirring to evenly brown it.

CHEESE PIE—20 to 25 graham crackers, ⅓ cup sugar, ½ cup butter.

Roll crackers fine, add sugar and rub in butter, then fill a deep pie pan with the mixture, pressing the mixture into the sides and bottom of the pan. Save three-quarters of the mixture for the top.

FILLING—One cup crushed pineapple. Spread on the cracker mixture, then add ½ cup sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup cottage cheese, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 egg whites. Beat egg whites stiffly and fold into the mixture. Top with cracker mixture and bake until the center is set, as for a custard pie.

* * *

SURPRISE LOAF—1 loaf sandwich bread, mayonnaise dressing, 1½ cups chopped raw cabbage, ½ cup shredded lettuce, 1 chopped pimiento, 2 cups cheese relish, ¼ pound cream cheese, ½ pound snappy cheese, seasonings.

Remove crusts from bread and slice lengthwise in thirds. Place one slice of bread on a platter, spread with mayonnaise, then with cabbage, lettuce and pi-

MENDELIAN LAW ESTATE CASE REOPENED

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Brown-eyed George Adair Green Longley was given a further opportunity today to prove that he was the son and heir of a blue-eyed father, Albert W. Longley, millionaire hat manufacturer.

Three appellate judges remanded the case to Circuit Court for retrial, asserting that they believed a verdict against Longley by Circuit Judge Michael J. Feinberg a year ago constituted "a substantial injustice."

Pressing a claim to share in the manufacturer's $1,000,000 estate, George Longley contended he was the son of the thrice married millionaire and his first wife. He was born, the suit states, 18 months before they were married 54 years ago.

THEORY DENOUNCED

The case became famous two years ago when the Mendelian law—which holds that blue-eyed parents cannot have a brown-eyed child—was argued in court. The eyes of both Albert Longley and his first wife were blue.

Judge Feinberg said, however, that the Mendelian law—discovered by an Austrian monk in 1859—had nothing to do with his decision against Longley. The judge said:

"Such a theory, striking at the very roots of domestic tranquility, should never have been discussed in court.

"I believe his mother was Alice Hall, the first wife of Albert W. Longley. I do not believe that Longley was his father."

INFLUENCE CHARGED

The elder Longley died at Pasadena, Cal., on October 29, 1928. Until about that time, George Longley, a resident of Los Angeles, had been known as Green—the name of his mother's second husband.

Ruling that the case should now be tried before a Circuit Court jury, the Appellate judges criticised Judge Feinberg for excluding evidence concerning alleged undue influence brought upon the manufacturer by his third wife during the last year he lived. Albert Longley drew up his will during that time.

WAR BREAKS UP PEACE MEETING

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Political rocks brought dissension to the student congress against war as it ended three days of work early today.

Six hours of wrangling caused 25 socialists and a dozen pacifists of no political profession to bolt the congress at midnight.

The dissenters, led by Monroe Sweetland, of Syracuse University, and Morris Skop, of the New York City Teachers' Institute, did not return until the majority of the 670 delegates had rescinded their condemnation of socialist leaders for supporting war movements in 1914.

Amicus Most, national organizer for the league for industrial democracy and the Socialist party, and Sweetland, who is chairman of the Intercollegiate Student Society of the league, branded the reference as a "Communist slap in our faces."

OFFERS TO DIE FOR WOMAN

COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Howard Curtis, Atlanta, Ga., barber sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of his sweetheart, Annette Bryant, in a letter to Gov. Blackwood today offered to take the place of Mrs. Beatrice Ferguson Snipes, expectant mother, in the electric chair.

Curtis wrote Gov. Blackwood he would die in the expectant mother's stead if she were freed or her death sentence commuted to life imprisonment. Curtis said:

"It ain't right for a baby to be brought up without its mother."

Curtis, a husband and father, shot his waitress sweetheart to death in what he claimed was a suicide pact. He contended he failed to take his life when the remaining bullets in the gun snapped.

Mrs. Snipes, who expects to bear a child early next month, is condemned to die April 7 for killing a rural policeman who stopped her husband's car in search of whisky.

WIFE THWARTS 'FLYING SANTA'

RED BANK, N. J., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—When Tom Howard, the stage and screen actor, agreed to play Santa Clas yesterday for poor children of Red Bank, and to drop his gifts by parachute from an airplane he reckoned without Mrs. Howard.

When she heard about it she objected, largely on the ground he had never been in the air, and Howard agreed to use a taxi.

But as the time for the Santa Claus act neared she called Red Bank Airport and learned he had chartered a plane.

So she went to Recorder Elmer C. Wainright and got a warrant charging disorderly conduct. The Recorder and an officer accompanied her to the flying field and placed Howard under arrest.

The actor promised to go to the children's party by auto and the hearing was postponed until after he had done so. Then Mrs. Howard withdrew the charge and the actor was freed.

Almonds Can Be Substituted For Meat Dishes

Many Ways of Preparing This Food Make It an Attractive and Healthful Dish

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

Recently I had dinner at a home where the housewife is an excellent cook. On her nicely set table was a dish of salted almonds, which, it seems to me, were the most delicious I have ever eaten. The ladies at the table asked for the recipe and I jotted it down so that I might give it to you.

In preparing salted almonds, my friend used a cup of salt to two cups of water. She heats this mixture to the boiling point and adds one cup of shelled almonds. Then the pan is removed from the fire, the nuts being left in the salt solution for 10 minutes. After draining the water, the nuts are skinned. Then they are baked in the oven with oil or melted butter until they become a light brown.

That sounds simple enough. But I am sure you will find the nuts as delicious as I did.

TWO KINDS

The almond is the seed of a fruit which grows on a tree found in South America, Asia, Australia and California. This tree closely resembles the familiar peach tree.

There are two kinds of almonds, the sweet and the bitter. The bitter is rarely used as a food. It is of commercial value because of its prussic acid and oil content. The sweet almond is popular because of its pleasant taste.

In their chemistry, almonds consist essentially of protein, fat, carbohydrates, water and ash. They are a source of important mineral substances, such as phosphorus, iron and lime. Almonds contain two valuable vitamins—vitamin A and B.

Contrary to the common belief, almonds are easily digested. But like other foods, they should be thoroughly chewed before swallowing.

SUBSTITUTE FOR MEAT

Within recent years almonds have been accepted by leading food authorities as a valuable addition to the diet. Their nutritive value is increased when used with vegetables and fruits.

Recent experiments show that the proteins found in nuts are similar to those of meat and fish. For those who demand variety, nuts can be substituted for these animal foods. Served with vegetables, rice, cheese or salads, almonds may be used as a chief dish.

There are several important almond products. Almond extract, almond oil, almond meal, almond paste and almond bread, are made from ground almonds. Almond paste is used in the making of candy and pastry. Almond oil is sometimes substituted for olive oil.

LEND VARIETY

Almond bread and cakes are used in the diet of persons suffering from diabetes. It is a valuable food for diabetics. It is rich in fats but contains very little sugar.

In former years almonds and other nuts were considered as luxuries. I am glad to say that this opinion is changing. More and more people have come to realize the value of this nutritious food.

Almonds are superior to rich puddings and other tempting deserts, both from an economical and nutritious point of view. Almonds lend variety to the menu and help to make up well-balanced meals.

DAVIES HAS HALF-DOZEN SIX-FOOTERS

NOT ONLY IS Duquesne University, opening another basketball season tonight against Adrian College, the fortunate possessor of one of the country's best floor coaches in Chick Davies, but it is favored with as fine a lot of material as ever fell to any school. Knowing the great value of height as an asset to a team, fans will realize how well Duquesne is equipped for the new season when they are informed that the Bluff school has half a dozen six-footers on its squad, with another player only a shade below that altitude.

Chick Davies

Capt. Bunk McGeever stands 6 feet 3 inches, and Jim MacDougal goes a fraction of an inch taller. Other six-footers are Irv Brenner, Birch, Schwartz and Meyer while Feldman, though slightly under that height, has a great reach that puts him in the class of the big boys. But not all of the Duke talent is confined to the tall passers. In Marty Reiter, Dudey Moore, the younger Davies, Serany, Irwin and a few more, the Red and Blue has a string of performers that would strengthen any squad. Coach Davies, in any game, could throw in three complete teams, and none of the three could be called weak.

BATTING CHAMPION OF the National League twice in the last four years, Lefty O'Doul is an example of the important part that the head can be made to play in hitting. To a great many swatters it's just a matter of eye and swing, but to O'Doul it's an art and a science.

"I guess there are 20 fellows in this league who are better natural hitters than O'Doul, but he'll walk into the batting championship on his hands," Hollis Thurston, Brooklyn pitcher, remarked one day last summer. "He's so much smarter than the rest. He begins to work from the point at which the average batter thinks the science of hitting ends."

AFTER FIVE YEARS with the Giants, Catcher Frank Hogan goes back to his first love in Boston. He is the eleventh player discarded by Bill Terry in rebuilding the old McGraw machine.

Bill McKechnie made a swell deal if, as announced, he got Hogan for cash alone and without giving up any playing strength, as that would be a clear gain for Boston, which club Frank ought to help with his bat, but it will not be surprising if other players pass between the Giants and Braves later. New York is likely to miss Hogan's hitting. The club's only remaining catchers are Mancuso, Healey and Richards.

THOSE FANS WHO had come to think of Chuck Klein as merely a great hitter and home-run slugger probably were surprised to note in the official averages that the Philly star was the leading base stealer of the National League for 1932. He topped the list with 20 steals, one more than Tony Piet and two more than Frankie Frisch. In the American League, only Ben Chapman and Gerald Walker surpassed him. Klein is the fastest heavy hitter in the game, and not only packs more speed than Gehrig, Foxx, Simmons, Ruth and the rest, but knows when to go and is able to get the lead that is the main factor in base-stealing. A great ball player from any angle is the Quaker right fielder.

Bobby McLean

BOBBY M'LEAN, professional ice skating champion, who is appearing at Duquesne Garden this week in a series of races with Ben O'Sickey, of Cleveland, is still hopeful of inducing Irving Jaffee to meet him for the world speed title.

Jaffee, the Olympic champion who recently turned pro, is reported to be aiming for the highest honors in the game, and McLean offers to accommodate him with a match in one of the large cities as soon as he desires. Bobby figures that he and Jaffee are the leading speed men of the present day in the pro ranks, and that the winner of such a match would have a clear claim to the crown.

M'LEAN CONTENDS THAT there can be no doubt about his own position or ranking as the man Jaffee will have to hurdle to reach the championship. Bobby beat the famous Oscar Mathieson in seven out of eight races in this country and Europe, and holds victories over Norval Baptie and other professional stars.

During his long and brilliant career, McLean has smashed scores of records and many of them still stand. One that has withstood all assaults for 18 years is a mark of five seconds for 50 yards, which he established at Lake Placid as an amateur in 1914.

IT ISN'T MERE speed in a race that appeals to a skate crowd so much as fighting for the lead, McLean finds. "Take a pursuit race, for example," he said. "Speeding along behind your opponent and striving to overtake him, you may be skating at a speed faster than the world record, but the fans do not get nearly the same thrill out of it as they do when two men are racing together and passing each other in turn in a fight to get out in front. Pittsburgh is a great skating town and I have always liked to race here. There are no fairer fans to be found anywhere. I have also found Duquesne Garden greatly improved in every respect this season as compared with general conditions there when I last skated in this city three years ago."

CLEVELAND REPORTS AN old Pittsburgh favorite in cue circles as still having notions about the three-cushion billiard championship. He is Charley McCourt, formerly of this city and Swissvale, who at 55 has behind him a billiard career of more than 40 years.

The veteran, as keen of eye and as steady of hand as ever, according to Cleveland critics, just missed getting into the last world championship three-cushion tournament when he lost a play-off in the qualifying competition. He has not given up hope, however, but plans another shot at the title when the next tourney rolls around.

M'COURT WON THE pocket billiard honors of this region 12 times before turning to three-cushions and becoming a professional at that style of play in 1910. He went to Cleveland in 1916 to represent the Helm establishment in the old Interstate Three-Cushion League.

Tex Rickard

McCourt and Charley Ellis, later business partners here, for a time were rivals for the angle championship, and their title struggle, in which McCourt wrested the crown from Ellis in 1916 by one point, only to lose it after holding it one year, was one of the classics of that era.

IN KEEPING THE Schmeling-Baer match open and himself in a position to stage it where he can sell it to best advantage, Jack Dempsey is following the methods of the late Tex Rickard. It was with Rickard that Dempsey first broke into the promoting field, Tex having called him in as co-promoter during the winter of 1928-29 to add color to the Sharkey-Stribling fight in Miami. When Rickard died, the Madison Square Garden powers decided to go ahead with the fight and retained Dempsey in the role for which Tex had selected him. Jack made a success of a show that had threatened to be a flop. The position now held by Jimmy Johnston in New York was then offered to Dempsey, but he declined it, preferring to work on his own. He promoted at the Coliseum in Chicago for a time, and has since staged two heavyweight Fourth of July shows in Reno, Baer-Uzcudun in 1931 and Baer-Levinsky in 1932.

FORWARD PASS CURB URGED IN REPORT

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Football, faced with a "disconcerting" number of serious and fatal injuries in 1932, for the second straight year must grapple for a solution of the problem of supplying greater safeguards for the boys who play the game, according to the annual report of the National Rules Committee.

Presented today to the convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association by the committee secretary, William S. Langford, the report appeals for a suspension of judgment while the rules-makers of the game combine with coaches, officials and other college leaders in their continued efforts to locate remedies for new-found hazards and make the sport as safe as is humanly possible.

The report also decried the continued indiscriminate use of the forward pass to a point where new rules may be needed to check it, dwelt on the accomplishments made under the rules changes of 1932, pointed out the lessons learned from economic deflation and paid glowing tribute to the achievements of Edward K. Hall, long-time chairman, whose death this year was described as an "irreparable loss to football."

INJURIES DEPLORED

Although noting the impossibility, in a game involving so much physical contact, of eliminating accidents and injuries entirely, or by the modification of the rules alone, the report says:

"The number of serious and fatal injuries which have been reported by the press as occurring during the season of 1932 is disconcerting at the moment, as it was confidently expected that the changes in rules which were effected last February would bring about a much lower average, and although there has been a material decrease from last season, the casualty list as reported must be regarded as a problem of serious import.

"From the preliminary information at hand it appears that by far the larger percentage of these accidents occurred in high school and sandlot games—in direct ratio to the lack of supervision exercised—and that only three cases resulting fatally occurred in colleges holding membership in this association.

JUDGMENT WITHHELD

"In the meantime it is only fair that judgment should be withheld until, after mature and deliberate consideration of the facts, proper solutions may be reached."

The report by Langford was prepared in advance of publication this week of the detailed analysis of 1932 football accidents, showing at least 32 deaths attributable directly to football on the sandlots, in the high schools and colleges. This compared with over 40 deaths in 1931.

The report charges, nevertheless, that an analysis of the 1931 accidents, made last winter:

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE NORTHERNMOST TREE—Although Hammerfest, Norway, the most northerly town in Europe, is situated 300 miles north of the Arctic Circle and its inhabitants never see the sun from November 18 to January 23 each year, the vegetation found there is truly remarkable. But the locality doesn't have the frigid climate that we ordinarily concede it to have. The northernmost tree, a small birch growing on the outskirts of the city, can retain its title until another is planted directly north of it because nowhere else on the globe will a tree grow at 71 degrees north latitude. A BUTTONLESS SECT—The Amish are a branch of the Mennonites and have been so called after their Bishop, Jacob Amon, of Switzerland, who separated from his brethren in 1692 and founded a new sect. The Amish are forbidden to wear buttons of any kind, neither may they shave their beards. In the days of Bishop Amon, buttons were made of animal bones exclusively, which conflicted with the sect's determined stand against animal slaughter. The Amish, who emigrated to America in the eighteenth century, were "conscientious objectors" during the war, and from their aversion to buttons were known as "Hook and Eye Mennonites."

TUNE CHANGES AS PANTHERS GAIN PEAK

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 30—(INS.)—Emerging from his dour shell, Coach Jock Sutherland, of the University of Pittsburgh, today for the first time expressed the belief that his team has an "even chance" against Southern California in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Cal., Monday.

So pleased was Coach Sutherland with the condition of his eleven that he canceled a heavy workout scheduled for today, and ordered the lightest of scrimmages.

The Pitt Panthers will depart tomorrow for Pasadena to meet the undefeated Trojans, claimants to a second successive national championship, in the annual New Years game Monday before a crowd that may fill the 84,000 seats of the Stadium.

Previous to today, Coach Sutherland has stoutly maintained that Pitt will be lucky if it can hold the Trojans to a two-touchdown victory.

TEAM IN SHAPE

The Panthers were still evading colds or other illnesses and the slightly injured were rapidly rounding into condition to hearten the trainers and team physician, Dr. Ralph Shanor.

Warren Heller and Mike Sebastian, backfield stars, were reported in fine shape after minor injuries in scrimmages, and Paul Cuba, big tackle, was much improved. He will play against the Trojans.

Capt. Paul Reider, who has been suffering from a bad leg, is the only man who may not play, Dr. Shanor said.

Coach Sutherland pronounced his football team ready for the Rose Bowl battle. He said:

"I am satisfied with the condition of the entire team. It has rounded into shape splendidly and I expect it to be in the best condition possible by game time.

"The boys are ready for Southern California. They have it in themselves right now whether or not they will win and the following days' drills will have very little effect on the eventual result."

TROJAN DRILL LIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Coach Howard Jones, of Southern California, yesterday lightened the practice burden which rested on the shoulders of the unbeaten Trojans.

He sent the squad through a shortened workout with very little dummy scrimmage included in the preparatory exercises which were open to newspapermen.

When questioned about possibility of information getting out which might tip off some of the new formations to the opposition Coach Jones enjoyed a good laugh. He remarked:

"I've changed things around a little, but I'll bet none of you fellows can tell me what the difference is and I didn't hold back anything either.

"Don't let that bother you. Some of my assistants who have been out there all the time haven't figured out several of the changes either."

All of which only served to make more puzzling the proposed method of attack the Trojans plan to use against the Panthers. Jones said he had changed the assignments of several of the players on forming interference for the ball carriers. He also has some new pass plays.

TROJANS 10-7 CHOICES

The odds of 10 to 7 continue to favor the Trojans, who have won all of their three pervious appearances in the Rose tournament game.

The ticket sale has gone along slowly, with no indication there will be anywhere near a capacity crowd of 84,000 persons. Estimates were that less than 50,000 tickets had been sold.

JAMIESON GETS RELEASE

CLEVELAND, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Manager Billy Evans announced the unconditional release today of Charley Jamieson, star Indian outfielder, and one of the highest salaried players in baseball.

Jamieson had been in the major leagues since 1915, and was a member of the pennant-winning Indians of 1920, the year after he made his bow here.

During the last five years, although he had passed his peak, Jamieson had been drawing more than $50,000 a year.

All American League clubs have waived their rights on the famous outfielder, and under baseball law, Jamieson becomes a free agent.

He is 40 years old and began losing out two years ago. Last year Jamieson suffered partial paralysis from a sinus infection, and was sent home in the middle of the season to recover.

Joe Vosmik, a Cleveland lad, won Jamieson's left field post two years ago. Over a period of 17 years in the majors Jamieson has a batting average of .304.

Mounties, Doyles Battle Tonight

The Broadway Mounts and the J. J. Doyles will make a second attempt to gain a decision in their Lightweight Football Conference series tonight, clashing in an indoor game in the Hunt Armory, East End.

Last Monday, at Greenlee Field, the teams battled to a scoreless tie.

Two tie games were played in the Armory last night in playoff competition. The Ambridge Cauls and Springdale battled to a 7-to-7 deadlock and the Turtle Creek Panthers and Creighton drew, 0-0.

LENORE KIGHT MISSES MARK

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Katherine Rawls, 15-year-old member of the Olympic women's swimming team, today claimed three new national records as competition opened in the second day of a meet for Olympic and National swimming team members in the Miami Biltmore Country Club pool.

Yesterday, in one sweep through the waters of the pool, the young Fort Louderdale, Fla., girl claimed the national records of Agnes Geraghty, of New York, in the 300-yard, 400-yard and 440-yard breast stroke swims after a race against time.

She was clocked by Florida A. A. U. officials on the 300-yard distance at 4 minutes, 37 1-5 seconds. Miss Geraghty's mark was 4 minutes 44 seconds. Katherine was timed at 5 minutes 53 seconds for the 400-yard distance, as against the 6 minutes 29 3-5 seconds record of Miss Geraghty.

She completed the 440-yard swim in 6 minutes 52 2-5 seconds. Miss Geraghty's mark for that event, set at Brooklyn in 1925, was 7 minutes 18 seconds.

Lenore Kight, of Homestead, Pa., another member of the 1932 Olympic swimming team, failed by one one-fifth seconds to equal the record of Helene Madison, of Seattle, of 5 minutes 6 1-5 seconds for the 400-yard free style swim. Miss Kight swam against time.

Josephine McKim, of Panama, won a 100-yard free style race in 1 minute 5 1-5 seconds.

TURF OFFICIAL DIES

LEXINGTON, Ky., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—John Sims (Tony) Wallace, 66, racing official and thoroughbred breeder, died today after a brief illness. Wallace had been racing secretary of the Miami Jockey Club, Hialeah, Fla., for two years. He also was widely known as an owner and trainer.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Don't tell anyone who told you, but a third boxing club is being plotted in Pittsburgh to compete with Motor Square Garden and the Arena.

One Alex H. Renwick, Coast representative of the Cambridge Glass Company, of Cambridge, O., writes to his Chicago manager that he saw the Southern California-Notre Dame football game out there and was surprised that the Irish didn't show more than they did, and he expects the Trojans to take Pitt in the same manner in the Tournament of Roses game . . . Southern Cal was just too good and too smart for Notre Dame, according to Renwick, who adds that in California they think the Trojans could beat Michigan, the Big Ten champion, by a half-dozen touchdowns, and they get a big kick out of the award of the Dickinson trophy, emblematic of the national championship, to Michigan.

John Hernon

A lengthy letter signed "Pitt Co-eds" assures the world that the lassies of the Panther campus are pulling for their favorites to win that Rose Tourney game, and will welcome 'em back home with open arms whether they win, lose or tie . . . They sort of miss the boys already and they mention quite a few of them by name in the letter, including the handsome center with the big boo'ful eyes . . . Incidentally, they send their love to John Love . . . Wait till the boys get home and read the letter—or should we destroy it?

It's almost time Jack Dempsey got an offer for his Max Schmeling-Max Baer bout from that big sugar plantation owner in Cuba and that big coffee king in Brazil . . . Tex Rickard and Jack Kearns always heard from those gents long before this stage of the game . . . One of them was a head waiter somewhere who knew how to send a cablegram.

John L. Hernon now holds every office in the local chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America, having been made chairman in addition to being retained as the secretary-treasurer . . . He tried to talk Jim Long into taking the chairmanship, and his biggest selling point was that there was no work connected with the job. When Long refused, it was decided that, since the task admittedly involved no additional labor, there was no reason why Hernon could not take it on along with his other duties, and it was so voted and ordered . . . At the next meeting, the bylaws of the chapter will be changed to create a couple of vice presidencies, which promptly will be voted to Hernon as a reward for something or other.—HARRY KECK.

Gelbert to Leave Hospital Today

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—It will be a "happy New Year" for Charley Gelbert, star shortstop of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Gelbert today was preparing to leave Hahnemann Hospital after a six-week stay during which surgeons performed a complicated operation on his left foot, wounded in a hunting accident.

TUNNEY GETS SECOND MATCH WITH GREB, LAUDS FOE

FIGHTING HEART OF HARRY IS EXTOLLED

SYNOPSIS

The author already has related the stirring and significant incidents of his listic career that date back to boyhood pier scraps, fight club thrills in his teens, the winning of the A. E. F. light-heavy crown when with the U. S. Marines in France, and in 1922 that title for America through a 15-round decision over Battling Levinsky. Four months later, Gene lost that crown to Harry Greb, barely surviving a 15-round inferno. After a few weeks' rest, Tunney tunes up for a return bout by boxing Charley Weinert, Tommy Loughran, Chuck Wiggins and Fay Kaiser. He bought his managerial contract with Doc Bagley for $5,000 and signs, late in 1922, with Billy Gibson.

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

My first match under Billy's management was in Philadelphia against Jack Renault, of Canada, who at that time was considered a good heavyweight.

Gene Tunney

The referee stopped the fight in the fourth round. I thought he had given it to me on a technical knockout because of Renault's disinclination to fight. The record book records this as "no contest." A clipping I have in my scrapbook from a Philadelphia newspaper of the next morning states that the referee stopped the match to save Renault from further punishment. According to the law under which boxing operated in Philadelphia, at that time, an official decision could not be made. Renault's chief handler, Pete the Goat, returning aboard the train with Billy Gibson and several New York newspaper men, stated that, in his opinion, "Tunney could lick any heavyweight in America barring Dempsey and Gibbons." He evidently was convinced that his fighter had lost.

'DON'T LOAD YOUR PUNCHES'

Renault scaled 188 pounds that night, and I 177. While putting the bandages on my hands, one of Renault's seconds came into my room to watch. Hearing the finish this fellow whispered to me:

"Don't load your punches tonight!"

Believing he was referring to my bandages, I showed him I had nothing but soft gauze. He said:

"I don't mean that; I mean, pull your punches a little."

"What kind of shape is Renault in?" I asked. "He looked good when he weighed in."

He said:

"Oh, he is in good shape."

"Well, then, you tell him to do the best he can, because I am going to."

I do not believe Renault knew anything about his wily second's proposition to me. Renault's career had extended over 12 years. There is no record of fake or blemish of any kind in it.

There is an old gag, always tried and sometimes worked by tricky managers and seconds. One of these tricksters will go into the other fighter's dressing room ostensibly to watch the bandaging. Presently he whispers to the fighter not to go too hard on his man. He might say that his man is sick, had a sore hand, is not in shape, that his mother just died, or give any one of a hundred excuses which might induce the fighter to agree to take it easy.

GETS SECOND GREB BOUT

If this fighter is gullible, or has a little tendency toward stalling, he is likely to acquiesce. In most cases the opponent knows nothing about the proposition and when the fight starts he rushes out and catches the gullible soul unawares. Then the talk of double-cross is whispered in fight circles. A perusal of the "Confessions" of Fred Fulton, the Minnesota Minnow, will enlighten those interested in this aspect. According to "Friendly Freddie," every time he was knocked out, which was often, he had been double-crossed.

I boxed Chuck Wiggins again at the Commonwealth Sporting Club in Harlem in a 12-round warm-up match for the second Greb fight. Chuck sustained a few broken ribs on this occasion, but finished the twelfth round fighting furiously. It was nine months since I had filed my challenge for a return match with Greb. The Commission allowed six months to answer a legitimate challenge before declaring the title vacant. Greb postponed the return match as long as he could.

MANAGERS CUT IN

I did not learn the circumstances surrounding the signing of the contracts for the second Greb match until after the fight. George Engle, who had been Greb's manager and who signed for the match, disclosed to me the way in which it was done. George had learned from a friend in Pittsburgh, an intimate of Greb's, that Harry was going to sever all relations with him. Greb and Engle were working on a verbal contract. Learning of Greb's plan, Engle telephoned Doc Bagley, who was still my manager, to meet him at Madison Square Garden, where he had a date with the Garden matchmaker. It was Sunday afternoon. The contracts for the return Greb-Tunney fight were drawn and dated several days ahead. They were put on file with the Boxing Commission the next day. Harry had to give the manager's share of the purse to Engle, though the match took place several months after they had parted. Likewise, Bagley cut in on my purse though Billy Gibson was actually my manager when the fight took place. This was settled between Gibson and Bagley.

Harry Greb feared no man. Sometimes business acumen dictated that a certain match, from a professional point of view, might not result advantageously. This was never an acknowledgment, however, that Harry feared the physical results. So it is with many boxers. I met Harry five times in all; three times in 15-round matches in old Madison Square Garden, and twice in 10—one in Cleveland and the last in St. Paul. I never knew Harry to funk it. Stalling was something he never had learned about. The harder he was hit, though the blow smashed his ribs, the more furious was his attack.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO HARRY

He could take an extraordinary amount of punishment and be fighting hard at the last bell. The bigger they were, the less respect Harry had for them. I have seen him virtually climb the bodies of opponents a foot taller and bring them down to his size. He was tireless in battle, though his method of training was peculiar. He worked enthusiastically in the gymnasium and on the road and pursued his pleasures with equal gusto. On his way to a boxing club to engage in a fight, he never failed to take along with his fighting costume a mirror, comb, brush and a powder puff. He always entered the ring with his hair brushed down with slickum and his face powdered.

This was a curious pride in looks for a fighter to possess. Of all the professions open to him why should one of such a peculiar quirk have followed professional boxing, one might ask. The answer is Harry Greb. Unfortunately, it was this vanity that, a year after retiring with sufficient money to live in comfort all his life, caused his death. He died on the operating table of a plastic surgeon while having his nose straightened.

To advance a step in my plan, I realized that I had to win the return match with Greb. I knew that unless I could defeat Harry no serious consideration would be given me as a championship aspirant. Though this may seem to have been misguided determination—a futile waste of spiritual dedication that might have been put to better advantage, I entered the ring with Greb determined either to win or to die in the attempt. I reasoned with myself that it would be much better to die than to lose.

DEVELOPS INFUENZA

While training for this match I contracted influenza. It increased as my training progressed. I could not call off the contest or ask for a postponement. The Garden dates were filled. There could be no chance of getting another match with Greb until the following fall, so I had no choice but to go through with it.

Tunney will tell tomorrow why he vacated the American light-heavy title after re-winning it from Greb and how he stopped both Erminio Spallo, European heavy champ, and Georges Carpentier during the summer of 1924.

PHIL BATTERS LEAD LEAGUE IN SLUGGING

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Chuck Klein, perennial socker of the Phearless Phils, showed his class again in the past season of the National League. Official figures published today show Chuck to be the best slugger in the circuit for the second season in succession. Klein had a slugging percentage of .646 to outstrip Melvin Ott, Bill Terry, Frank O'Doul, Don Hurst, Babe Herman, Hack Wilson and the other bambinos of swat.

Chuck's clouting teammate, Don Hurst, led the parade of sluggers in driving in runs. The big first sacker sent 143 tallies over the home disc. Klein was only six runs below this mark. Others in the league who drove in 100 counters or better were Hack Wilson, Ott, Pinkey Whitney and Terry.

Klein, nevertheless, deserves the ranking of outstanding player in the league when it is considered this great outfielder led his rivals and mates in runs scored, basehits, total bases, stolen bases and slugging average, not to mention his fielding cleverness. Chuck was in front in assists.

Paul Waner was the best slugger among the Buccaneer swatters, but none of the Pirates was able to drive in 100 runs. In justice to Brother Paul, however, it should be stated that a second-place hitter doesn't smack over the century output, as a general thing.

Brother Lloyd, with Randy Moore, was the toughest hombre to take on strikes. Lloyd and Randy fanned only 11 times.

HOGAN RETURNS TO BRAVES

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Francis J. (Shanty) Hogan, of Somerville, Mass., the bulky, shrill-voiced catcher of the New York Giants, has been sold back to the Boston Braves, the club which traded him to the Giants four years ago.

The deal was announced as a straight cash transaction yesterday, but as they gave out the news the Giants dropped a few hints which indicated further shifts were in order which might bring one or more Boston players to New York before the entire matter is cleaned up.

Hogan, a local boy who made good after he left his home precincts, broke in with the Braves as an outfielder in 1925 and promptly was farmed out to the Albany, Worcester and Lynn clubs. He was converted into a catcher at Lynn and backstopped for the Braves in 1927. During that winter he was traded to the Giants with Outfielder Jimmy Welsh for Rogers Hornsby.

TOMMY PAUL WHIPS FIDEL

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—A few more victories over opponents like Fidel La Barba and any lingering doubts as to Tommy Paul's right to the featherweight championship will have to be dismissed.

The clever little Buffalo boxer, who is recognized by the National Boxing Association as ruler of the 126-pounders, but who lacks the approval of the boxing authorities in his home state, last night gave a convincing demonstration of his ability by outpointing La Barba in a 10-round non-title bout at the Chicago Stadium.

FIREMEN SET FOR TUBERS

By TOM BIRKS.

McKeesport Tubers will appear at Mt. Lebanon tomorrow afternoon for a Central Soccer League tilt with the Mt. Lebanon Firemen. This will be new territory for the Tubers to conquer after 16 years of battling on the soccer field.

When Joe Luxbacher decided to take his Beadling team to Mt. Lebanon and apply for membership in the Central League, it was figured that the old Beadling executive was taking a big chance going into the unexplored territory of soccer football. However, fine crowds have been attending the games, and Luxbacher's move in quitting the short Beadling field looks to have been a good thing.

Two other contests are booked for tomorrow. The German Sport Club goes to Ambridge and at the Westinghouse High School Stadium Clan Douglas will engage Union Switch. A win for the clansmen will mean a chance to meet Lawrenceville for the league title.

Hamas, Walker Barred in State

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The State Athletic Commission today announced the indefinite suspension of the following boxers for alleged failure to honor contracts:

Steve Hamas, Wallington, N. J.; Paulie Walker, Trenton, N. J.; Vidal Gregorio, New York City; Don Petrin, Newark, N. J.; Vincent Hambright, New York City, and Gilbert Huber, Lancaster, Pa.

BOUT FOR WATSON

TORONTO, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Seaman Watson, British featherweight champion, has been booked for a bout with Tony Seolne here February 13.

17 Spring Games Carded by Reds

TAMPA, Fla., Dec. 29.—(AP.)—The Cincinnati Reds will play 17 training season games this spring, it was learned here today from representatives of the National League Club. The squad will arrive in camp about March 5, and leave April 2. The schedule:

March 17, Philadelphia Athletics at Orlando; 18-19, Athletics at Tampa; 22-23, Athletics at Fort Myers; 26, Philadelphia Phils at Tampa; 27, New York Yankees at St. Petersburg; 28, Phillies at Winter Haven; 30, Boston Red Sox at Tampa; April 1, Boston Braves at St. Petersburg; 2, Braves at Tampa; 3, Atlanta at Atlanta; 5, Knoxville at Knoxville; 7, Yankees at Cincinnati; 8-9, Cleveland Indians at Cincinnati; 10, St. Paul at Cincinnati.

Gilbert Beaten In Feature Race

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 30.—Johnny Gilbert sported his two hundred and eleventh victory of the 1932 racing campaign today, but his joy was tempered somewhat by the remembrance of having been beaten in a feature race, astride the heavily-backed favorite, Sandwrack in the Arkansas Purse, won by Regal Flag at $32.50 for $2.

Gilbert hung up his two hundred and eleventh victory of the season with Yankaway in the sixth race. Hank Mills made it 195 with Piecemeal in the first.

School Officials To Meet Tomorrow

The committee is composed of R. B. Smith, of Connellsville; F. C. Gillespie, of Duquesne; D. H. Stewart, of Beaver; H. W. Crane, of Monongahela, and Meyers B. Horner, of Washington.

P. G. C. DOUBLES PLAY CARDED

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The third annual mid-winter invitation doubles tennis tourney of the Pittsburgh Golf Club has been formally announced for the covered rectangles of the P. G. C. for the five days beginning Wednesday, January 11, and ending Sunday, January 15. Competition will be limited, as was the case last year, to the men's dual division.

Invitations to participate in the indoor event have been extended to more than 110 leading district racqueters, including virtually all ranking players of clubs listed in the upper division of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League.

Heading the list of prospective entrants are Dr. Billy McElroy and Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, 1931 West Penn doubles premiers and victors in the 1932 Golf Club conclave. Another potent combine may be that of McCook Reed and Charley Lockhart, stars of the home organization, while such veteran pairs as Tom Robinson and Joe Dilworth, of Fox Chapel; "Collie" Burgwin and Bill Snyder, of the Golfers; "Tack" Hammer and Don Snyder, of Greensburg; Frank Smith and Leonard Reed, of Edgewood; Frank McClintock and Frank White, of University Club, and Jack Beatty and Bob Schmertz, of Stanton Heights, are pretty certain to grace the combat roster.

A captain and manager for 1933 will be named upon the return of Graduate Manager Buddy Overend from New York.

Godfrey Beaten By Walter Cobb

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 30.—George Godfrey, giant Negro heavyweight, of Leiperville, Pa., last night suffered his first defeat in a local ring, when Walter Cobb, of Baltimore, forced the fighting to outscore him in six of ten rounds.

It was a return bout, Godfrey having won the decision in the first, over which there was a wide difference of opinion. Godfrey weighed 253 pounds and Cobb 228.

Tommy Loughran and King Levinsky have been rematched for a bout here January 13.

Greenleaf Trails In Cue Match

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Erwin Rudolph holds a lead of 1,000 to 757 over Ralph Greenleaf in their special 1,750-point pocket billiard exhibition today.

The Cleveland veteran yesterday won the sixth block, 125 to 41, in six innings; the seventh, 125 to 102, in 12 innings, and the eighth, 125 to 59, in five innings. His high run was 62, while Greenleaf, the national champion, turned in one of 38.

By JESS CARVER

This budget-stricken metropolis gets its second dose of intercollegiate basketball tonight, the first of two shots to be adminstered over the week-end as the Red and Blue jerseyed Dukes of old Duquesne entertain one of Michigan's gifts to the college ranks, Adrian College, in the Bluff gymnasium. The game will mark the official debut of Chick Davies' 1932 city champions, ranking favorites to gallop to the head of the tri-state class during the forthcoming campaign.

There still being many a stumble between the cup and the mustache, it takes no great straining of the auditory organs to hear dissenting voices piping up from the regions of Pitt, Carnegie Tech, Geneva, Westminster and Grove City, to the foregoing crack, but the Dukes have the stuff and it will take a shot of right potent basketball on the part of any ambitious opponent to ease the local Irish out of the unbeaten class.

DUKES FAVORITES

Among those teams NOT expected to beat the Dukes this year is this Adrian quintet which performs here tonight. Nevertheless, the fracas will be well worth your time, for this Duquesne outfit has a lot of class and three or four individual performers whom it is a pleasure to watch. You'll look long and you'll look far before a smoother functioning lad will glide across the horizon than Dudey Moore. There are few players who can handle a ball with the finesse of Marty Reiter and Jim MacDougal, when he is right, is a Grade A prospect.

The Adrian quintet defeated an independent team in McDonald last night, 28-21, as a means of warming up for tonight's fracas with the Dukers.

PANTHERS ON EDGE

Pitt may be beaten tomorrow night by Purdue, in fact, all signs point that way, but it won't be because the Golden Cats are not on edge.

Doc Carlson has his lads r'aring to go against the powerful quintet to be shown here by Coach Ward (Piggy) Lambert, of the Boilermakers. The Pitt squad has had a swell rest period since returning from its successful invasion of Big Ten territory. All the men are in tip-top physical condition, or in as tip-top condition as a guy can be hereabouts, what with all this smog and nasty weather.

HECHT NEARS THIRD TITLE

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Marco Hecht, of the University of Pennsylvania, continuing his march to his third successive national junior indoor tennis championship, prepared for fourth-round play.

Hecht allowed Philip Lautkin, of New York, only one game in his straight set victory, 6-0, 6-1 yesterday. Lautkin was completely at the mercy of the champion and only in the second game of the second set, when Lautkin won on his own service, did the titleholder give way.

Richard Hebard, of Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., the second seeded player, and Gils Verstraten, of New York, No. 3, advanced with Hecht by virtue of straight set victories but Bernard Friedman, of the University of North Carolina; John Nogrady, of Brooklyn, and Willard E. Ingalls, Jr., of Harvard, each were extended to three sets before they could advance.

MISS PALFREY ADVANCES

BROOKLINE, Mass., Dec. 30.—(AP.)—Three Massachusetts and one Michigan girl have entered the semi-final round of the national junior girls' tennis championships.

Joanna Palfrey, of Sharon, yesterday defeated Virginia Hollinger, of Dayton, O., 6-0, 6-2, and will face Helen Jones, of Swampscott, third seeded star, today.

Helen Grawn, of Detroit, lost only six games to Rosemary Kerrison, of Norfolk, Eng., defeating her English rival, 6-4, 6-2. She will meet Louise Harding, of Brookline, who eliminated Lucy Fowle, second seeded player. The finals will be played tomorrow.

Waynesburg Wins Over Case Quint

WAYNESBURG, Dec. 30.—The Waynesburg College Yellow Jackets have their second basketball victory of the 1932-33 campaign to their credit today.

Leading all the way, the Jackets last night defeated Case School, of Cleveland, 35 to 23. Rab Currie and Mancuso led in the scoring for the Jackets, with eight points each. The Jackets were ahead, 20 to 8, at the half. The lineup:

Waynes.	G.	F.	Pt.	Case.	G.	F.	Pt.
Avery, f	3	1	7	Hubbard, f	0	1	1
Currie, f	4	0	8	Brownsbrger, f	0	0	0

STOCKS PUSH INTO HIGHER GROUND

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The stock market managed to extend its recovery today, in the face of isolated weakness in the tobacco shares.

The advance lacked the vigor of the previous session, and was halted for a time by the action of tobaccos, but the list pointed upward again by early afternoon. Considerable short covering, in advance of the holiday week-end, was reported.

Selling of the tobaccos reflected unconfirmed rumors that leading cigaret makers would cut prices to $6 a thousand, from the present price of $6.85, next week. Uneasiness over the cigaret price structure, in view of the inroads made by the 10-cent-a-package brands, has been apparent for some weeks, and bears have evidently been making the most of it.

In connection with the strength of some of the red metal shares were trade rumors that some sizable orders for the metal would be placed after the turn of the year. Nevertheless, it was pointed out that there could scarcely be any profit in the business, with current prices generally well below average production costs. Some buying of Kennecott was said to have been based on the belief that it was best situated of the big companies to benefit eventually from the 4-cent-a-pound tariff.

Numerous cash transactions were reported on the tape, indicating hangover tax selling. Transactions today and tomorrow, made in the regular way, will not be cleared until Tuesday, so tax losses can now be established only by immediate settlement. Cash sales were generally at substantial concessions from levels ruling for regular dealings.

Brokerage advices indicated traces of bullishness, evidently based primarily on the expectation that industry would show some pickup in January, as workers are recalled after year-end shutdowns. Nevertheless, political uncertainties were widely mentioned as inspiring caution.

KLEIN TO MAKE STORE STUDY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(INS.)—Julius Klein, at present assistant secretary of commerce, will conduct a survey of the merchandising business of United Cigar Stores, and its subsidiary, Whelan Drug Company, with a view to aiding reorganization.

An order has been issued by Federal Referee Irwin Kurtz authorizing the employment of Klein. He will be paid $7,500 for the first month.

The announcement was issued by attorneys for the Irving Trust Company, trustee in bankruptcy for both companies.

In petitioning the appointment of Klein the trust company pointed out that he had been with the Department of Commerce since 1920 and that he was considered one of the country's outstanding experts on general business and commercial problems. It was also pointed out that a survey of the retail drug business of the country had been made at one time under Klein's supervision.

GRAIN VALUES TURN UP

CHICAGO, Dec. 30.—Decided strength shown in the Liverpool wheat market led to material upturns of Chicago grain values early today. New York stock market gains were also a factor. Opening ½@⅞ higher, Chicago wheat futures held near the initial limits. Corn started ¼@½ up, and subsequently gained further.

Tending also to lift grain values were persistent adverse reports about crop conditions in large areas of domestic winter wheat territory west and southwest. Dearth of offerings gave firmness to corn and oats. Provisions were slow and steady.

Forbes

Are Foreigners More Deserving Than Farmers?

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes

FARM MORTGAGES and other debts of our farmers well exceed all the war debts owed us. Farm mortgages alone are computed at fully nine billions, $9,000,000,000.

The world rings daily with declarations of how essential it is for the American government to extend leniency to its foreign debtors.

What about leniency to our own agricultural debtors?

ARE OUR foreign debtors, as a whole, less able to meet their debts than are our own farmers?

They are not!

EVENTS POINT stronaly to revision of war debts.

Revision of domestic agricultural debts is not less important, not less desirable. Only, the disposition heretofore has been to compel farmers, unable to meet their debts, to submit to bankruptcy. The disposition is to avoid compelling foreign debtors to undergo a similarly distateful experience.

In other words, it is proposed to extend more consideration to foreign debtors than to our own agricultural debtors.

Is this fair? Is this logical? Is this rational? Is this natural? Is this statesmanship?

AMERICA'S FARMERS merit as much sympathy as our foreign debtors. They have traveled an extremely rough road.

Admittedly, many of them were carried away by the exhilarating enthusiasm of the war and post-war boom. Admittedly, many of them reached out and acquired additional land at unwarrantedly high prices—just as many investors reached out and acquired many stocks at unwarrantedly high prices.

Admittedly, many of them plunged imprudently into debt, even as did most other classes, from towering corporations to modest wage earners who were carried away by the installment-buying mania.

FARM MORTGAGES in this country totaled only $3,000,000,000 before the war, contrasted with more than $9,000,000,000 now. Since the farmer's dollar meanwhile has become worth only 54 cents, as measured in purchasing power, his mortgage debt, as President Horace Bowker, of American Agricultural Chemical, points out, may be said to represent $18,000,000,000.

The farmers' annual income has tumbled from a peak of $16,000,000,000 to about $5,000,000,000.

Ponder this little table, big in significance:

Year	Value of U. S. Farms.
1920	$77,923,000,000
1925	57,017,000,000
1930	57,246,000,000
1932	44,000,000,000

MEANWHILE, THE farmer's taxes have multiplied heartbreakingly.

DOES THIS not demonstrate that, if there is to be downward revision of debts for foreigners, there should be downward revision of debts for the very mainstay of our national stability and strength, the providers of our food?

SOME PROGRESS admittedly has been made in easing the debt situation at home. There has been lowering of interest rates on mortgages by numbers of savings banks. Some mortgage companies have taken similar action.

In certain instances insurance companies have lowered interest rates charged borrowers. Here and there harassed farmers have been extended a modicum of leniency by institutional creditors. And we read daily of aggressive movements by chain stores and other renters of real estate to have leases and rentals substantially modified.

$406,000 PLANT SALE CLOSING

BUTLER, Pa., Dec. 30.—Officials of the Societe de Saint Gobain, the oldest plate glass manufacturers in Europe, today were expected to close the purchase of the Standard Plate Glass Company of Butler. The sale was given court approval recently, the price to be paid being $406,000.

A rough rolled glass plant in Kingsport, Tenn., which for some time has been operating under unprofitable freight rates, probably will be brought to Butler and consolidated with the local plant, it was said. This plant is owned by the Societe de Saint Gobain, the National Plate Glass Company of Belgium, and the Corning Glass Works, of Corning, N. Y.

The Standard Plate Glass Company, of Butler, was organized in 1887, and operated profitably until May 1, 1930, when it went into the hands of the receiver. During the last year and a half it has been operated by the Standard Plate Glass Company Corporation, which, under the terms of the sale, will have an additional six-month lease.

N.Y. Reserve Bank's Discount Unchanged

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate.

WORLD COTTON CROP DOWN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—World cotton production for the 1932-33 season was estimated today by the Department of Agriculture at 24,000,000 bales, the smallest in five years.

This is 200,000 below the December 8 estimate and 3,500,000 under last year's crop.

Foreign production was estimated at 11,300,000 bales, which is 900,000 above last season and 600,000 below 1930-31.

Cotton textile mills in the United States, the department said, continued to operate at high levels during November with total cotton consumption the largest for any month since April, 1931, although sales of the manufactured products were less than output.

The high rates of activity was said to have been maintained on the basis of large orders received early in the fall.

The consumption of domestic mills during November was 504,000 bales compared with 502,000 in October and 425,000 a year ago.

Total consumption for the four months ending November 30 was 1,900,000 bales, an increase of 124,000 over the same period last season.

HOARDED MONEY FLOWS BACK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30—(INS.)—Christmas holiday trading, while materially curtailed from former recent years, had a strong influence in the reduction of money in hoard.

Federal Reserve Board condition figures issued today showed there was a sharp flow back of money from circulation during the week ending December 28, when that outstanding from the Treasury and Reserve banks was reduced by $43,000,000.

Money circulation December 28, was $5,687,000,000, increase of $54,000,000 from the same date a year ago.

Gold stocks continued to gain and for the week ending December 28, were $4,505,000,000, an increase of $47,000,000, an increase of $47,000,000 in a year and of $579,000,000 since the low point of July 15.

The Federal Reserve banks had $428,500,000 in government securities pledged with Federal Reserve agents to back up note circulation at the end of the week, a decrease of $47,100,000 in seven days. Eligible commercial paper against notes amounted to $252,304,000, a decrease of $2,302,000.

E. T. Weir Expects Gain In Steel Output Next Month

—By GEORGE H. SNYDER—

ORDERS ON HAND and inquiries indicate that at least some recovery in steel mill activity will take place in January. This declaration was made by E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Corporation. Mr. Weir stated that there is no basis to expect a sensational rally, but an encouraging improvement in demand is likely to take place during the first quarter of the year.

National Steel will show greater earnings for the fourth quarter than it did for the third quarter and, while results have shown the effects of the depression, the organization continues to be the only major steel producer which has been able to show earnings for the present year.

The company, according to official estimates, will earn more than 75 cents a share on its stock in 1932. This will cover dividend payments of 75 cents a share for the year. The stock at present is on a 50-cent annual dividend basis.

* * *

Profit Shows Gain For Last Quarter

IN THE FIRST nine months of this year National Steel earned 60.7 cents a share. In order to bring earnings for the year up to more than 75 cents a share National will have to earn in the neighborhood of 15 cents a share in the final three months of this period.

In the third quarter of the year National earned seven cents a share. Obviously profits per share in the fourth quarter will be more than double those of the third quarter.

Two factors have been instrumental in maintaining National's earnings at a high level. First of all, a major share of the company's capacity is devoted to the production of tin plate. The tin plate makers had a poor year in 1932, but the decline in demand was small in comparison to other steel products. Second, National is the only major steel producer with plants in the Detroit district. This gives the company an advantage in securing automobile business. The sharp upturn in automobile output in December has been an important influence in maintaining operations at a high level.

National Improves Current Position

IN ADDITION TO securing the distinction of being the only major steel producer to show a profit for 1932, National Steel probably will be the only company in the industry to improve both its net current asset and cash positions during the year.

The balance sheet of December 31, 1932, is expected to show a quick asset position better than the 4.75 to 1 ratio reported at the end of 1931.

Working capital will amount to about $30,000,000 and cash will be increased by at least 50 per cent.

Cash at the end of 1931 amounted to $3,755,774. Net current assets at the end of 1931 stood at $27,884,465.

TRADE SHOWING STABILITY

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—The weekly mercantile reviews said today that business, though affected by the usual post-holiday lull, is holding closely to the stabilized levels of the past few months. Dun's said:

"The continuity of commercial recession, which was so steadfastly in evidence during the entire 12 months of 1931, has been interrupted abruptly on several occasions during the current year, with each period of progress more extended than the one immediately preceding and the margin of gain widened even though the level of activity attained naturally could not be so high as the guage established by normal standards."

This agency also declared that most industries are "holding tenaciously" to the gains that have been made, thus counteracting the poor showing of commodity markets.

Bradstreet's asserted that business men in general feel they have no cause for complaint in spite of the fact that the Christmas season will probably go down in business history as the poorest on record.

The most unfavorable factor, it is pointed out, is the drastically deflated levels of farm prices, which are having a decidedly adverse affect on purchasing power in the agricultural regions.

Belgium Increases Sugar Import Duty

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Dec. 30.—(AP.)—In accordance with special powers, a Belgian government decree increasing certain import duties was put into force today.

Among the increases are: Sugar, from 100 to 160 francs per 100 kilograms; non-roasted coffee, 115 to 250 francs per 100 kilograms; coffee essence, 115 to 137.50; refined oils, 69 to 112.50; lactose products, 92 to 161; leaf tobacco, 350 to 500; cut tobacco, 650 to 900 francs.

Illinois Central Asks $1,000,000 Loan

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—The Illinois Central Railroad has asked Interstate Commerce Commission authority to pledge $1,000,000 of its western lines first mortgage 4 per cent bonds as security, for a loan of $1,000,000 from the Railroad Credit Corporation. Funds will be used to pay fixed interest obligations due in the next six weeks.

ECONOMIC BODY STUDIES TRADE LEADERS

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 30.—In their detached manner, the scientific economists of the country, who are attending the conventions here of the American Economic Association and 11 other learned societies, today examined the foibles and fantasies of hard-boiled business executives.

Domination of big business by "hired help" has resulted in unwise investment of excess corporation earnings, according to Robert Weidenhammer, economist of the University of Minnesota. To illustrate his contention, the speaker cited the progressive downward trend in the net return on the property account plus accumulated corporate savings of the United States Steel Corporation. Likewise, he drew similar conclusions from the experience of the four leading variety chain store organizations since 1923. The group showed a declining return on their net tangible assets.

Mr. Rukeyser

In view of such discouraging results, Mr. Weidenhammer said:

"The question then arises why corporate management does not prefer to use corporate earnings to repay back debts, to increase bank balances or the holdings of high-grade bonds, or to pay out dividends in preference to further expansion of any already over-expanded industry.

"There appears to be some justification for the belief that the trend toward large corporate institutions and the resulting separation of ownership and management is bound to further the faulty investment of corporate savings. The managerial groups of our large institutions, such as the A. T. & T., the Pennsylvania or the United States Steel Corporation, may be assumed to be primarily interested in the continuity and the predominance of their institutions in their respective industries.

"The income of the executive officers of our large corporations, especially of our railroads, depends obviously less on the rate of return realized on the invested capital than on the magnitude of such capital, i. e., on the size of the corporate institution. Officers of a billion dollar corporation certainly enjoy higher incomes and greater social prestige, even if the rate of return of capital is low, than officers of smaller corporations that are prosperous."

BROKERS LOANS OFF $1,000,000

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—Loans on stocks and bonds to brokers and dealers by reporting Federal Reserve members banks in New York City decreased $1,000,000 during the week ended December 28 to $394,000,000. This compares with $395,000,000 in the preceding week, with the high record of $6,804,000,000 on October 2, 1929, and the record low of $331,000,000 on July 27, 1932.

MARY FAITH

Story of a Girl With Husband Who Wouldn't Grow Up

By BEATRICE BURTON

Kim Loses Position When He Gambles Away Some Of Firm's Money

CHAPTER XIX.

"If you wanted to be a real help to Kimberley," said Mrs. Farrell, "you'd get a job and go to work in an office again. That's what you'd do."

"Not unless Kim asked me to!" Mary Faith came back at her. "If I went to work Kim would feel that I was discontented and didn't want to live on what he makes. It would hurt him—it would hurt his pride. Naturally he wants to support his own wife."

She had plenty to do at home, besides. She spent the short days of the winter making new curtains of natural pongee silk for the whole house. She bought tan and cream and green silk and made covers for the cushions of the old couch in the parlor. She bought two wicker boxes of daffodils for the front windows of the flat.

The winter went by and spring came all at once, in a burst of sunlight, the last week in March. All that week Mary Faith cleaned house—washing woodwork, brushing cobwebs from the smoky ceiling, polishing the water faucets until they shone like silver. She sent the dusty carpets to the dry-cleaners and bought a dark blue rug for the bedroom that she and Kim shared.

"Where did you get the money for all this stuff?" Kim asked her on Sunday as they sat over their morning coffee.

ASKS FOR MONEY

Mary Faith laughed. "You don't think I worked for four years without putting away a dollar every now and then, do you, Kim?"

He shifted in his chair, studying her face with his gray eyes.

"Look here, Mary Faith," he said at last. "I hate to ask you, but can you let me take $60?"

She answered him without a second's hesitation. "Why, of course I can, Kim, and I'll be glad to. I'll get it out of the bank first thing in the morning."

What he did with his own money she didn't know. He gave his mother $15 every week for food and ice and newspapers, and the rest he kept himself. Mary Faith knew almost nothing about the household finances.

The next day Kim came home in the middle of the afternoon. His mother had gone to the library for a book and Mary Faith was sitting by the window, reading, when she saw his car stop in front of the building.

She opened the door for him and he dropped down on the window seat without stopping to take off his hat and coat. He was smiling and he took a cigaret out of his pocket and lit it.

"Well," he said, "you won't have to lend me that $60 I asked you for."

USED FIRM'S MONEY

"How's that, Kim?" She had brought it home from the bank that morning and it was lying now in the bottom of the drawer where she kept her stockings and handkerchiefs.

"Well, I'll tell you why I wanted that money," he began slowly. "You know, I do a lot of collecting for the firm, and a couple of months ago I collected $60 from an old fellow named Grammas over on the west side."

He took a cigaret from his pocket and struck a match to it.

"I didn't turn it in at the office that day," his voice went slowly on, "and that night I lost every nickel of it, playing cards at the Athletic Club."

Mary Faith remembered the very night that it must have been. Kim had called her up and told her he was going to play poker with Jack Maldon and some friends of his and that she'd better not wait up for him—he was going to be late.

"I ought to have let everything else go and put that money back right away," Kim said, "but I didn't . . . If I'd known you had any money, I'd have been all right. But I didn't."

"You can put it back now!" Mary Faith got up from her chair. "I have it in my room . . . . I'll get it—"

LOSES POSITION

He took hold of her wrist and pushed her back into her chair. "No. It's too late now. You don't think I'm going to admit now that I took it, do you? You must be crazy," he said. "I told them that I turned it over to Miss Brown—She takes care of all that sort of stuff—and I'm never going to tell them anything else. That's my story and I'm stuck with it."

The next night he came home at dinner time and told her that McIntrae and Westover had let him out.

He was very bitter about it.

"When I think of the years I've wasted, working for them!" he said. "Hot-footing it all over town every day, collecting their bills and doing all the rest of their dirty work for them! Why, they haven't ever given me a chance to work on a decent case—and then, by gosh, the first time I don't turn in a piece of money the minute I get it, they kick me out!"

Mary Faith came and sat beside him, laying one of her hands over his. It was no longer white and smooth and pink-tipped as it had been in the days when she was Mark Nesbit's secretary, and it was still without a wedding ring.

"Why don't you take that $60 of mine and give it to Mr. McIntrae?" she asked him. "Why don't you go to him and make a clean breast of the whole thing, Kim? Everybody makes a misstep at some time or other in their lives, and there isn't a dishonest bone in your body, really." Her blue eyes pleaded with him, believed in him, trusted him.

But he wasn't looking at them. He was staring at the floor and his mouth was set in a hard stubborn line.

"No, I'll see him in Calcutta before I go near him," he said. "Besides I don't want his two-penny job any more. He can take it and give it to the office boy.—If I had any money I'd open an office of my own. I'd show them whether I'm a lawyer or not!"

He looked at her then. There was a question written in his face.

"How much would it take—how much money would it take?" Mary Faith asked.

"Well, I wouldn't be able to count on getting very many clients for the first two or three months. I'd have to have a thousand dollars, anyway. You see, it would cost something to keep this flat going and I couldn't rent a decent office for less than a hundred a month. Then I'd have to have a girl to answer the telephone and look after things when I wasn't there."

"All right. I have a thousand dollars and you can have it, Kim." Mary Faith said and watched the look of relief that swept across his face. "I can be your office girl, too, can't I?"

"Oh, no. I may be a poor sort of a husband, but I won't let my wife work in my office," he said promptly and firmly.

Then he caught her in his arms, crushing her close to him. "To think of a little thing like you saving all that money, when I've never saved a red cent!" he said huskily. "Why, you're nothing but a gadget!"

"A very thrifty gadget." Mary Faith laughed, and then sobered all at once. "When I saved that money I didn't know how much happiness I was saving up for myself, Kim," she said.

Now Go On

The next night he came home at dinner time—without a job.

SUN-TELEGRAPH-WARNER THEATERS JUNIOR KOMIC CLUB

Tomorrow, after a week of intense activity on the part of the members of the Sun-Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club, playing with all the new toys and games and dolls that Santa left at their houses last Sunday, they'll attend the regular meetings held at the 15 neighborhood Warner theaters listed below.

Tomorrow also will be the first time that many of the members have seen each other since Santa's visit, and it is expected that there will be much chatter before the meetings are called to order, telling each other about the "swell" game or toy received and asking, "What did you get?"

At the meetings tomorrow each manager will have an important announcement regarding the meeting of January 7 and all subsequent meetings. The members are cautioned to listen carefully when this announcement is made. The features of this announcement will be published in the Sunday Sun-Telegraph this Sunday.

Manager Ken Hoel, of the Ambridge Theater, Ambridge, Pa., has again arranged another fine stage show for the members who attend the meeting tomorrow. Ken has made arrangements with the Mann School of Dancing, which is in Ambridge, for vaudeville acts each week.

The pupils of the Mann School who will appear tomorrow are: Dorothy Mann in an acrobatic dance, Jane Smith will offer a toe novelty, and that ever popular Libby Wolf will sing a song and do a dance for the youngsters. Ethel Seaser will offer a toe tap and the show will close with a short sketch entitled "Bell Hops," by Jimmy Brown, Dorothy and Marcia Mann.

Harry Thomas, manager of the Schenley, expects to have the Schenley Orchestra and several acts from the Fairgreaves School of Dancing.

William Hoch, manager of the Kenyon, has inaugurated a new feature, which for the time being will take the place of the stage shows. He is going to show the youngsters a full length Western Picture and a couple of extra comedies.

Here's a New Years resolution that we would like every boy and girl member of the Junior Komic Club to make:

Resolved that I will attend the meetings of the Sun Telegraph-Warner Theaters Junior Komic Club regularly each Saturday morning.

Resolved that I will bring at least one new member to the club each month.

Starting the New Year Democratic

The Chinese pay all their accrued debts on New Years. So far the writer has been able to resist and defeat that sinister Oriental influence.

He will start tomorrow at midnight ringing out the old and trying to ring in some new suckers.

Old friends and old bills are the best. We like to see them pile up on the spindle. As our credit gets more anemic our evasions wax more robust. After all, the best way to keep a man solicitious about your health is to owe him some kale of the realm.

We are optimistically intricate and hopefully entangled over the new financial semester. We tip the battered kepi to 1932 and burn it on a pyre of its own lumberyard calendars. It reached its depression subcellar in a hot October political campaign when one party hollered wolf and the other party threatened us with worse.

Since then, all the politicians have shaken hands and retired to neutral corners to count their fingers.

The tide turned on November eighth when the Democrats swept into office on the crest of the malt. We don't know what the defeated office holders will do about it.

But we were taught never to face the future when the past is a mule.

However, we look forward to the new year fearlessly and joyfully. Three terms of Republican administration were equivalent to a journey through a forest of whipping posts. No party should remain in office for a straight whirl of 12 years. It gets too powerful and seems to regard the will of the people as a last testament.

We stand on the threshold of another regime. We don't know how many terms the Democrats will serve in Washington. But we do guarantee that when the Republicans come back they will be new ones. The old boys have about grabbed their last swig at the town pump.

A healthy shuffle and a new deal is a good enough slogan to start 1933. The Democrats are about to clamber into the pilot's seat and we wish them a merry new year. Like the farmer standing at the circus ticket window, any change is better than none.

Tariff Alone Cannot Protect U. S. Industries—Americans Must 'Buy American'

LET US look this movement to "Buy American"—right in the face.

It promises to be historic and epochal—a turning point in the life of a great people, passing through a crisis in their affairs, and whose prosperity or the reverse, is a matter of world concern.

If it is a duty resting upon the American people to buy only American-made goods—and we believe it IS a duty of the highest obligation—let us each know WHY it is our duty.

In theory and in practice the United States is a protectionist nation. It relies upon the tariff to secure to its workers a high scale of wages and an advanced standard of life; also, to preserve its home market primarily for American producers and merchants.

Under the conditions of the past, despite its abuses, the protective tariff has contributed to the security of the workingman's position and to the prosperity of our trade.

But something of a far-reaching consequence has happened in the world—something which has destroyed the normal equilibrium of commercial dealings between nations.

* * *

SOME forty nations of the world have abandoned the gold standard. These nations are now doing business with each other on the basis of depreciated currencies, which enable them to produce for export almost every article of common use at prices which, measured in gold, are far beneath the costs prevailing in gold standard countries such as our own.

The difference in price between the articles so produced and similar articles manufactured in the United States is startling.

We need mention only a few. The same discrepancies, however, will be found throughout an endless list of articles and commodities embracing almost the entire field of production.

England, for instance, can sell and deliver in this country men's leather gloves, WITH THE DUTY PAID, for $24.89 a dozen, as against a minimum production cost in this country, for similar gloves, of $26.00 a dozen.

She can do the same with a set of knives and forks, whose selling price in the United States with the DUTY PAID is $4.81. The cost of the mere production of the same set of knives and forks in this country is $7.42, with no allowance for selling, distribution or profit.

* * *

PERHAPS the most striking contrasts are presented by Japanese costs.

The Japanese yen, which under normal conditions is worth 50 cents, is now worth only 21 cents. This depreciation of the currency, coupled with the starvation wage of the Japanese worker, which amounts in our currency to 46 cents a day, has enabled the Japanese producer TO ANNEX THE AMERICAN MARKET.

He can snap his fingers at our tariff, which does not come within hailing distance of affecting his activities, while our higher wages and production costs keep our goods entirely outside and even remote from the field of his competition.

He can land in this country, at six cents each, cotton rugs which we cannot make for less than 29 cents; a grass rug which he can sell, with the duty paid, for 92 cents, costs to produce in the United States $8.88; toothbrushes which he can sell by the gross for $9.67 cost us $15.00 to make.

And so one goes down the list. What is true of Japan is true of Belgium, Germany, France, England, Norway, Sweden, with reference to other commodities.

* * *

THE question is—WHAT ARE WE GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

And the ANSWER IS—rising with united voice throughout America—WE ARE NOT GOING TO BUY THESE GOODS!

This ruinous competition cannot hurt us without our consent, and our direct implication in it. It becomes effective only through American purchasing.

ARE WE SO DULL, SO SIMPLE, as not to perceive that by purchasing these goods from abroad—tainted as they are with the bankrupt condition of the nations that produce them and the starvation wages of their depressed laboring class—we are betraying our own workers and ruining our own industries?

OF COURSE, THE ANSWER IS IN THE NEGATIVE.

And the most effective form in which this answer can be given is—BUY AMERICAN.

Our Costly Imports

Pittsburgh Spends Millions for Foreign Substitutes for the Products of American Workmen.

How badly the "Buy American" movement is needed in Pittsburgh is suggested by an examination of our imports. Last year $5,362,791 worth of foreign goods were shipped to Pittsburgh directly, while many other millions of dollars worth came to the city indirectly after being handled at the customs houses in New York and other ports of entry.

In our direct importations we find shoes from Czechoslovakia, gloves from France, canned fish from Japan, cheese from the Netherlands, woolens from Scotland, hardware from England, toys from Germany, and a great variety of other things from various countries. There is hardly a commodity in the list that is not produced in this country.

Better appreciation of what this buying of foreign goods means to the American manufacturers, farmers, miners and fishermen who produce the same kinds of goods can be had if we will turn our attention to the United States' importations from foreign countries last year of commodities that are produced in the Pittsburgh district.

We imported $17,714,604 worth of iron and steel. If the importers had "bought American" there would have been more work for Pittsburgh workmen.

We imported $6,396,572 worth of glassware and $7,844,765 worth of pottery products. The potteries and glass factories in the Pittsburgh district would have been busier if the $14,241,337 sent abroad for these articles had been spent at home.

We imported 160,529 tons of bituminous coal, paying $936,920 for it. The destitute miners in the Pittsburgh district would have fared better if Pittsburgh coal had been used instead.

We imported 92,467 tons of coke, and the best coke in the world is made in the Pittsburgh district. That item sent $691,018 out of the country.

Let these and the thousands of other commodities that are unnecessarily purchased abroad be bought at home, and not only the Pittsburgh district but every other section of the country will benefit.

"Buy American."

Wasteful Duplication

The County's Offer to Do the Work of the City's Bureau of Weights Should Be Accepted.

Councilman P. J. McArdle charges that Council, sitting as the finance committee, provided only for the elimination of three inspectors in the Bureau of Weights and Measures, but that when the bill came back to Council from the printers it carried a provision for the transfer of the bureau from the Department of Public Safety to the Department of Health.

The flurry caused by the charge focuses attention on the bureau and brings to mind that it might be eliminated altogether to the advantage of Pittsburgh's taxpayers; for the County Commissioners recently offered to do the bureau's work without cost to the city.

There is no necessity for the maintenance of bureaus of weights and measures by both the city and county. It involves wasteful duplication.

The county's offer should be accepted.

A Well Fought Fire

Pittsburgh's Fire Department Acquitted Itself Nobly At the Seventh Avenue Blaze.

A lighted cigaret dropped on a bed is blamed for the fatal fire in the Seventh Avenue Hotel.

The fire would have been much worse if it had not been for the prompt and courageous work of the Pittsburgh Fire Department.

Observers of the fire are enthusiastic in their praise of the firemen. The hotel is not of the most modern construction and if there had been delay in giving battle to the flames there might have been a holocaust.

Walls, floors and ceilings had been burnt through when the alarm was sounded. But the firemen were on the scene in a jiffy and went about their task in a smooth and workmanlike way that commanded the highest respect. They visited every room, got the guests out, and had the fire under control in 15 minutes.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—Thoughts while strolling: Helen Ford could pass for a prim small-town housewife. Phillis Haver and Ann Andrews have similar profiles. So have John Erskine and Jacques Danielson. And how strikingly Dorothy Fields resembles her dad. Now I'm in love with Elissa Landi.

Nothing makes me feel sillier than walking across the room to meet an actress. Ernest Boyd's whiskers have the pink of J. Ham Lewis'. And that reminds me, Hope Hampton makes me think of that musical, "The Pink Lady." One word description of H. T. Webster—leggy.

George D'Utassy, a Philadelphia, Pa., boy, who made good in the city. He fathered the first American tabloid. Who remembers when Amelia Bingham set the styles? Constance Bennett's outdoor expression suggests being windward to whiffs of garlic. G. P. Huntley's monocle. Toodle-oo. And good hunting!

Harriet Hoctor is the only Harriet I know who doesn't seem starchy. And I'm always afraid Claire Luce will suddenly blow away. What became of Nickey Arnstein? I've yelled twice at E. D. Coblentz but he doesn't stop. Does my voice seem to be changing? Noel Coward's outstanding ears.

One of my favorite people—Mark Leuscher. What a producing firm that was, Werba and Leuscher. Nothing so symbolical of morning as the crow of a rooster. The Hippodrome is hipping again. At a dime a throw. There's one of the actors' very best friends—good old Daniel Frohman! * * *

A literary lady, temporarily swamped in a deluge of debt, was glooming in the meager light of a speakeasy corner. "You know what?" she suddenly exclaimed. "I wish I could turn Frank Case into a duck. Then he would know what to do with his bill."

* * *

She is one of those ladies whose feverish eyes seek health in Aix-les-Bains, Vichy, Contrexeville and Marienbad. Past 60, emaciated and racked by fits of coughing, she goes everywhere, smokes incessantly, drinks copious cocktails and gorges rich food. I asked Courtney Cooper, while edging the check under his plate, the secret of her stamina. "No one knows," he philosophized. "She is the type of little use to the world and merely lingers on." But aren't we all!

* * *

Night clubs this winter are filled solely by those with a dreary reluctance to go to bed. They yearn for a thunderclap of ecstacy they will never find. And go from place to place hoping. More than ever, night clubs express an ebbing of the clean tide of patronage and that wreckage of driftwood that always clings to the shore. (Mr. Cooper isn't the only philosopher.)

* * *

One of three entertainers, who lure me from a soft bed and a good book, in the night clubs is Tommy Lyman, whispering his tableside torch tunes. Tommy is a frail, white-faced fellow, with large questioning eyes and a far-away voice. Not for a second is he attuned to the merriment, rather gazing upon his listeners with vague detachment. They may be gay now, but Tommy has seen much of life in sordid places. He knows any moment Tragedy may pop through the door and crook a beckoning finger!

* * *

One night in Paris, I roamed with Tommy in a jungly alley of squalor, filled with leering faces. Leaving one cul de sac, I ventured: "Uglier than sin itself." And Tommy, with his ghost of a wry smile, archly murmured: "Much uglier." Philosophers have done worse.

* * *

Nothing topsy-turvies a luxurious hair dressing salon like the arrival of a stage star or movie magoo. Advance appointments provide the tipoff and everybody is in a flutter. The least known make the biggest hub-bub, wearing dark glasses and otherwise feigning to dodge the acclaim. Top notchers appear flattered by recognition, as everybody is who is honest.

* * *

I like Kryle Bellew's forthright view on the public huzzah. Passing through a group of stage door idolators, a friend ventured: "It must be annoying." To which Bellew replied: "Annoying? I love it. For what else am I an actor?"

* * *

And nothing in the world would end Greta Garbo's shrinking silliness like a look the other way and a thunder of newspaper silence!

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Buckwheat cakes; real buckwheat cakes!

M-m-m-m-m!!! Remember how they used to taste on a frosty morning, with the butter melting in a little golden pool on their crinkly brown surface—and the coffee steaming, creamy tan, in the thick white cup—and mother beaming at you, across the old kitchen stove?

Better still, remember the first time you made buckwheats yourself, Mary—and you a young bride in your own new home? Real buckwheats; not the fancy package kind. How was it they went?

One pint milk.
One pint water.
One yeast cake.
(That's how the recipe ran, didn't it?)
One tablespoon molasses.
One-half teaspoon soda.
Buckwheat flour.
(How it all comes back, doesn't it, Mary?)

"Dissolve the yeast cake in lukewarm milk and water. Sift in enough buckwheat to make a good batter and set to rise over night in an earthen crock."

(You used a big yellow bowl, didn't you? So did I.)

"In the morning add salt, molasses and soda dissolved in one cup hot water.

Batter not too thick. Fry on hot greased griddle."

Remember? How can you forget! Out of the past it all comes rising—the joy and the peace you knew in that little shabby room.

Have you ever known such joy since, Mary? Never! Not with all your striving and contriving. Rich years since then. Years when you've been able to pay for a cook to fry your buckwheats, or you've bought them in the gilded dining rooms of big hotels. Years that swept you far past those early hardships, when you and Steve started on a shoestring—but did they sweep you any nearer happiness?

Don't try to answer. I know. There are tears in your eyes.

Tears in my eyes, too, Mary. Thinking back—back to the lovely miracle that roots in such simple things.

Flour, salt, sugar, molasses and cloves—how could they cause miracles? But they did! How, by stirring them together, did you build such honest pride and find such lasting comfort? Why, even the names bring it back again.

There was "Brown Betty"—apple slices, bread crumbs, brown sugar, butter, raisins, spices.

Lay in layers, bake 40 minutes, serve with cream. How many helpings was it Steve always took?

Buckwheat cakes. Brown Betty. Gumbo soup. Roast suckling. Planked shad. Beaten biscuit. Scrapple. Pigs' knuckles and sauerkraut. Hunter's stew. How the old names come back! And the memories with them! What memories! What adventures! The oldest, the deepest human adventure MAKING A HOME!

How could a miracle come out of a handful of flour, salt, leavening and spice? Because out of that you fed a family, built a home and—FOUND YOURSELF. Found the creator in yourself, the God in yourself, the God that could build life and keep it going.

No wonder you were proud, Mary. And never again have you been so proud or so sure; never, since those days when you MADE THINGS YOURSELF.

"I can buy it cheaper than I can cook it," says the bride of 1932, going into the nearest delicatessen store.

Yes; but you can't buy the pride your mother knew in the best delicatessen store on earth; or her joy and peace. Joy and peace and pride only come through the old adventures—through taking the risk and making the thing for yourself.

And maybe, if depression has brought us back to that, it will be worth it, for a lot of us.

Cook books! They always were my favorite literature, anyway. That's how I came to write this—reading one all morning, and laughing and crying to myself as I read; wishing the years would turn back; thinking of a little hand reaching into a cookie jar!

That first old cook book—it's still on the shelf by the stove. But this new one is grander than all the rest. Sheila Hibben wrote it—and the makin's came from every state in the union. Guaranteed to make every mouth water. Buy a cook book. Get yourself a stove. Start living again!

Text For Today

11 Prosperity Policies For American Patriots

For the purpose of abolishing unemployment, protecting home industry, developing America's resources and building an enduring prosperity, William Randolph Hearst, in communication to his editors, advocates a national nonpartisan economic program, as follows:

Please campaign vigorously for the following patriotic policies and try to express and crystallize popular sentiment for the information of the incoming administration and for the best benefit of the nation:

1—Buy American and spend American. See America first. Keep American money in America and provide employment for American citizens.

2—Raise tariff duties on articles manufactured by foreign labor pauperized by depreciated currencies to a point where the duties will offset the depreciation of the currencies, thus maintaining the American standard of living, protecting our home market for our home industries and providing work for our own American citizens.

3—Encourage Pan-American reciprocity, consuming Pan-American raw materials and opening the markets of North and South America to our manufactured products, while providing work for our unemployed.

4—Develop our merchant marine to serve our trade in times of peace and supplement our Navy in time of war. The building and manning of ships makes jobs for the jobless.

5—Encourage American air fleets to cover our country and connect us more intimately with other countries of North and South America. The more enterprise, the more work, and the more work, the more prosperity.

6—Encourage our railroads to make transcontinental extensions and transcontinental combinations and to co-operate with steamship lines to connect our industry with world markets. The more industry, the more employment, and the more employment, the more prosperity.

7—Complete east and west and also north and south transcontinental automobile highways, sixty feet wide, to encourage and accommodate "see America" traffic and to provide work and wages for the unemployed.

8—Complete federal flood control of Mississippi River and Colorado River and other rivers whose overflow is a menace to the lives and property of adjoining communities, thus benefiting the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

9—Complete inland waterways projects providing various sections of the country with water communication and the equivalent of sea coasts, thus knitting the nation together and providing work for the unemployed.

10—Complete all necessary developments of rivers and harbors, encouraging shipping and consequent commerce, providing work for the unemployed and stimulating the revival of prosperity.

11—Complete all possible water conservation and power development projects, increasing the wealth and resources of the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

The distribution of wealth in wages is the basis of all prosperity. Let the government inaugurate and vigorously prosecute during the period of this depression the campaign to buy in America, spend in America, see America, and keep American money in America. Then let every patriotic citizen follow the course the government inspiringly leads.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

The 'Homing' Instinct

Every evening I see them from my window. That long stream of nice, reliable, tame husbands, coming home!

* * *

I have never wondered "why men leave home." But what is it that keeps the average man moving like a shuttle between his home and his office desk—and back to his home?

* * *

In these days, many husbands come home because they haven't the money to go anywhere else. Which is another "silver lining" to the depression cloud.

* * *

And lots of men come home because, at the end of a hard day at the office, they are too TIRED to go anywhere else. Home is the logical place in which to relax and "be yourself." It is the only place where a man can take off his manners with his office coat and be as grouchy, as nervous or as irritable as he feels. It takes all a woman's tact and wheedling to persuade a really "tired businessman" to take his mental and physical fatigue anywhere BUT "home!"

* * *

All men come home when they are ailing or feeling seedy. That is one time in every married man's life when home looks to him more like a goal than a jail, and when he can't get there quickly enough.

When a man is sick, the only thing on earth he is interested in is his "symptoms," and hurrying to a place where he can ... down among the pillows and somebody hold his hand, ... temperature, and help ... sorry for himself.

* * *

Some men check in at t... old stand, pretty regularly ... self-protection.

* * *

There is no safeguard like a wife, to defend a man against the importunities of other women. A bachelor has no excuse; but the man who can say, "There, there, little girl! The wife is expecting me home," has an iron-clad, tear-proof alibi which keeps him from constantly being "misunderstood."

* * *

Of course there will be some cynical wives who will be amazed to learn that there ARE any husbands who DO come home every evening.

* * *

But you'd be surprised! The world is full of them! Patient, plodding, harness-broken husbands, who would as soon think of committing hari-kari or of wearing their coats wrong-side out as of not going straight home from the office. It's just the old "homing instinct!" Which is strong in every normal man.
